3-BILLION MARK REACHED BY LOAN, OFFICIALS THINK

STORM DELAYS REPORTS

CHEERING NEWS IN SOUTH

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Liberty Loan mark tonight is believed to be surely at the $3,000,000,000 minimum quota set by Secretary McAdoo. The highest unofficial total at the Treasury Department is $2,715,000,000, which would call for $285,000,000 more, but this is regarded as certainly in sight. If the result is no better than the minimum quota the loan is a full success, because this was all that was asked at the outset of the campaign. The maximum quota of $5,000,000,000 was named tentatively to take care of an oversubscription.

This bulletin was given out at 9 o'clock tonight by the Treasury Department:

"Indications are that Liberty Day subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan brought the total for the $5,000,000,000 drive close to $3,000,000,000, but there is no official assurance that this mark was passed."

The official figures for subscriptions reported to Federal Reserve Banks, up to the beginning of business today, show a total of $1,731,088,000. These figures also furnish foundation for the hope that $3,000,000,000 had been subscribed up to the close of business tonight. They show a gain of $300,000,000 over the previous day's report, indicating a decidedly healthy growth in sales.

	Official.	Unofficial.
Boston	$205,700,000	$230,000,000
New York	857,710,000	970,000,000
Philadelphia	54,9:0,.o0	250,000,000
Cleveland	192,709,000	250,000,000
Richmond	73,545,000	115,000,000
Atlanta	14,410,450	35,000,000
Chicago	204,805,000	390,000,000
St. Louis	53,411,050	115,000,000
Minneapolis	71,250,000	90,000,000
Kansas City	29,572,000	100,000,000
Dallas	19,252,950	50,000,000
San Francisco	73,247,300	125,000,000
Tot al	$1,731,088,000	$2,715,000,000

Storms Delay Reports.

Storms in various parts of the country, which crippled telegraphic communication, greatly delayed reports tonight, and it was thought unlikely that anything like a correct estimate on the day's business could be given before tomorrow. Fairly complete reports on transactions up to the afternoon, however, indicated sales of $2,715,000,000.

The two brightest spots in the day's campaigning were the Dallas and Atlanta districts. Messages from Atlanta said that Secretary McAdoo aroused enthusiasm there, and the banks were swamped with subscriptions. The Dallas district began early today. Galveston, in that district, went past its minimum.

Secretary McAdoo today received a subscription for $100,000 from Ernest Woodruff, President of the Trust Company of Georgia, of Atlanta, accompanied by the following letter:

"As an admirer of the noble work accomplished in the placing of the original Liberty Loan by your charming wife and the enormous value of such example to the women of America, I desire to inclose herewith my subscription for $100,000 of the new Liberty Loan, which would ordinarily have gone through the channel of the Trust Company of which I am an officer. The display of patriotism manifested by the women of our country has found full flower in the splendid work which Mrs. McAdoo has done and deserves full acknowledgement by all of us."

Heavy rain and snow storms in the East and Northeast greatly interfered with campaigning, particularly in New York and New England. Many big outdoor demonstrations were canceled because of the weather, and solicitors worked in overshoes and raincoats.

Great Drive in Ohio.

It was a big day in the Cleveland district. Hundreds of persons were turned away from the meeting addressed tonight by James W. Gerard. Several overflow meetings were held. The Cleveland city total now is estimated at $250,000,000. Downstate Ohio farmers were attacked by motor squads of solicitors. Reports from Cincinnati and Pittsburgh were very encouraging. Toledo had a parade ten miles long. Youngstown took almost $3,000,000 in subscriptions.

Afternoon reports showed Chicago had subscribed almost $100,000,000. Michigan gave $78,000,000; Illinois, outside of Chicago, $25,000,000; Iowa, $47,000,000; Wisconsin, $40,000,000, and Indiana, $36,000,000.

"Best figures obtainable show St. Louis district will subscribe its minimum total by Saturday," a message from St. Louis said. The district's minimum quota is $120,000,000. Thousands of persons marched in the Liberty Day parade.

Among the Pacific Coast figures received tonight were: San Francisco, $60,000,000; Los Angeles, city and county, $15,000,000; San Diego, $3,900,000; Washington, $18,000,000; Oregon, $10,000,000; Nevada and Arizona, $3,000,000 each.

Minneapolis was the centre of a hard drive today. Workers are determined to make up for their late start.

Kansas City reported in few words,

Clark Says Banking Ring Seeks to Burke Liberty Loan

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 24.—A "ring" of New York financiers is hampering the Government in its Liberty Loan campaign, endeavoring to make it a partial failure so that the next loan will bear a higher rate of interest, Speaker Champ Clark said here today in an interview before a Liberty Day speech. He went on:

"These men are the spiritual descendants of the ring that operated in just such an emergency during the civil war, and by their methods forced the price of war bonds to 40 and 50 and one day to 39. It is the duty of every citizen to make this loan a success in spite of these New York traitors. I positively refuse to divulge the source from which I obtained the information upon which I make this accusation."

Applications for $120,000,000 Pour In, Bringing Total to $935,000,000.

EFFORTS TO BE REDOUBLED

With the realization that only three more days remain for the filing of subscriptions to the Liberty Loan, and quickened by the observance of "Liberty Day," applications poured in yesterday in the New York district in larger volume and amount than on any previous day of the campaign. The gain for the day was $120,000,000, which brought the total up to $935,000,000. The increase in actual subscriptions officially reported to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was approximately $200,000,000, last night's final figures of the bank being $823,578,950. This substantial gain indicates not only that subscriptions are coming in rapidly, but that the 1,275 banks in this district are making their reports more promptly. To attain its quota of $1,500,000,000, or one-half of the nation's $3,000,000,000 war loan, this district must obtain $585,000,000 of subscriptions today, tomorrow, and Saturday. To reach the required total the daily average must be $188,000,000, or just about double the average for the first three days of this, the final week of the drive.

The Liberty Loan Committee is confident that the New York district will succeed in accomplishing what it set out to do, and all the committee members are working with redoubled energy, knowing that there can be no letup until the books are closed.

Plans for Parade Rearranged.

On account of the heavy downpour yesterday, most of the outdoor exercises planned for Liberty Loan Day in New York had to be postponed. The big parade arranged for yesterday will be held this afternoon, the plans having been rearranged so as to include the exercises in connection with the renaming of the captured German submarine in Central Park.

Subscriptions announced yesterday were particularly interesting, in that they represented a considerable number of "additional" applications filed by corporations and individuals. Thus it was reported that John D. Rockefeller had entered a second $5,000,000 subscription, and that the Western Union Telegraph Company had applied for $2,500,000 more, while the International Mercantile Marine Company had added $1,000,000 to its earlier subscription. Frank A. Vanderlip filed a subscription for $1,000,000—the amount he subscribed to the first Liberty Loan. Frank J. Godsel also took $1,000,000, while Dock Commissioner Frank A. J. Smith subscribed to $200,000, James B. Regan to $100,000, and Gates W. McGarrah to $50,000.

Governor Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank received yesterday the following cable dispatch from Marshal Joffre of France:

Just after inspecting American troops I find your message. The second Liberty Loan will have, I trust, wonderful success, as financial effort must assist military effort. Once again the United States of America will show its power in subscribing the money necessary to give the men at the front every means of hastening victory.

HOOVER ARRANGES A SUGAR CONTRACT FOR 100,000 TONS

SHIPPING BEGINS NEXT WEEK

8.6 CENTS WHOLESALE PRICE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Food Administration has arranged to obtain 200,000,000 pounds of raw sugar from Louisiana producers to end the shortage in New York and other large Eastern cities, and shipments will be started early next week.

Every effort will be made by Herbert C. Hoover, Food Administrator, to have the new sugar supply distributed at a low cost to the consumer, and it was announced officially that retailers who were charging exorbitant prices would plead for further supplies in vain. The Food Administration has sent out instructions to cut them off arbitrarily.

It was further stated that the Louisiana sugar, under the agreement reached, would be supplied to the retailers at not more than 8.6 cents a pound. Consumers will be able, therefore, to determine whether the retailers are overcharging them. Full publicity will be given to all of the transactions in which the Food Administration engages, and the public is asked to co-operate in punishing avaricious retailers.

"It is felt that the Louisiana supply will prove sufficient to end an acute shortage at this time and make it possible for the consumers to demand a fair price from the retailers.

Deal Involves $13,000,000.

An official announcement from the Food Administration tonight read:

"As a result of a two-day conference at the United States Food Administration between representatives of the Louisiana sugar producers, headed by the Hon. John M. Parker, Federal Food Administrator for Louisiana; George M. Rolph of the sugar division of the Food Administration, and Earl D. Babst, President of the American Sugar Refining Company, a contract has been settled between the Louisiana producers and the American Sugar Refining Company for the sale of 200,000,000 pounds of Louisiana sugar involving $13,000,000.

"Shipping has been engaged, through the efforts of the transportation division of the Food Administration, for the transport of one-half of this sugar to the Philadelphia, Boston, and New York fineries. The first cargoes should leave Louisiana next week for New York.

"The Louisiana producers expressed their satisfaction at the terms settled upon. The prices will enable the refiners to sell sugar at a steadily reducing price, starting from 8.35 cents per pound, Kosher basis, and reducing to 7.25 cents about the end of the year.

"The retail price of sugar is giving the Food Administration much concern. The prices from the manufacturers are fixed and the wholesalers will come under license on Nov. 1. Refiners and distributers of sugar are being given instructions not to supply retailers who are charging exorbitant prices.

"Organization is being perfected by which the wholesale price of sugar in each city will be furnished the Federal Food Administrators in the various States, and they will be asked to communicate to the public these sugar prices, and to report to Washington any exorbitant prices by retailers.

"With the refiners' price of sugar at 8.35 cents, the wholesalers' price of standard bulk sugar will be about 8.60 cents in the Northeast, decreasing, as stated above, toward the end of the year."

Confectioners to Economize.

A telegram was received today from the Food Administrator for Oregon stating that the manufacturing confectioners of that State had pledged themselves to reduce the consumption of sugar during the present period of temporary shortage, and similar assurances are expected from other parts of the country.

A report from New York shows that out of 225 members of the Society of Restaurateurs, 224 have adopted a "meatless Tuesday" and a "wheatless Wednesday." It was also reported that beginning last Wednesday no wheat was used in any French pastries and pies served at the Biltmore, Manhattan, Ansonia and other New York hotels. Rye, rice, chestnut and potato flours were substituted.

When tea or coffee is served in the rooms in some of the New York City hotels three pieces of sugar are served to one person and five pieces to two persons. All icing on pastry has been eliminated.

One New York City hotel supply company reports that since meatless Tuesday has been established its tonnage has dropped 12,000 to 14,000 pounds, as compared with the average Tuesday of August.

The Department of Agriculture will try to instruct women in the cities in promoting food production, food conservation, and household thrift. Congress made an appropriation at the last session for women city agents of the department, who are to carry on the work of conservation. Heretofore the agents of the department have practically concentrated their work on farmers' wives.

The country's principal manufacturers of corn products conferred with officials of the Food Administration today regarding the use of corn starch, corn syrup, and corn oil as wartime substitutes for wheat, sugars and fats. The huge corn crop this year, it was pointed out, would make it possible to provide cheap substitutes for many staples that must be conserved. A special committee was appointed to co-ordinate the work of the industry with that of the Food Administration.

Railroads "Doing Their Bit."

Navy Takes Over All the Army's Transports and Will Man Them With Fighting Crews

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Bluejackets will man and naval officers will command army transports hereafter. Officials believe this will insure more efficient operation of the ships, particularly in the war zone, where the strain on a crew is greatest, and so lessen the risk of destruction by submarines.

The decision to have the navy operate the transports, announced today, is believed to have been hastened by the sinking of the transport Antilles, which was manned by civilians. The highly trained and disciplined naval officers are regarded as far more effective than a constantly changing civilian personnel. This is regarded as particularly true of the fireroom force, upon which a ship's speed largely depends.

The manning of the transports will make necessary a larger increase in the naval personnel, and the General Board is understood to have recommended that Congress be asked in December to authorize an additional 80,000 men, 30,000 for the permanent naval forces and 50,000 for the period of the war.

With the transports turned over to the navy, it was decided to have the Shipping Board operate all cargo vessels, including those carrying supplies for the armed forces abroad. Thus was settled a question between the Navy and the Shipping Board which began with the decision to build and commandeer merchant ships.

In anticipation of today's agreement, the navy has been training men especially for the transport service, and a large force is understood to be available now. Others will be trained as rapidly as possible, so that not only all existing transports can be manned but also the new ones now building. These latter have been especially designed and will be much faster than the standard cargo vessels. They are built for a speed of at least 18 knots.

The high speed will furnish one protection against submarines, but still another will be supplied in the ships themselves. They will be so constructed as to be safe against one torpedo, and it is believed that two probably would not sink them.

The manning of the transports by bluejackets will release many men for the cargo vessels operated by the Shipping Board. The crews for these ships present an even greater problem than does the personnel for the navy ships, but the Shipping Board is training large forces at several schools along the coast and expects to be able to properly man the cargo carriers as fast as they are built.

WILL DIVERT COAL TO NEEDY STATES

TON LOTS TO COLD HOMES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The entire output of coal in the Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, and Michigan districts next Monday will be requisitioned by the United States Government and distributed for domestic consumption in sections of Ohio and Michigan, where there has been a severe shortage. Large deliveries will not be permitted and retailers will be requested to put in orders only for amounts actually necessary. They must promise, also, before receiving any part of the requisitioned coal, to deliver it in one-ton consignments to families which have no coal.

The Lever food control law gives the Fuel Administrator absolute powers by the exercise of which he may take over output, or even the mines, if a crisis is faced. The stop which Dr. Garfield contemplates next Monday will be in the nature of an experiment. If it proves successful the same program will be applied to other districts, such as New York, if a coal famine is threatened.

All of the coal in the Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, and Michigan fields on Monday will be distributed among domestic consumers, regardless of contracts which may have been entered into for delivery to other points. These contracts will be filled later, when the acute condition is ended. Operators also will be directed to supply retailers whether customers in the past or not, and retailers must sell only to persons who have no stock of coal on hand.

Will Mobilise Coal Cars.

Dr. Garfield said he would assure all localities that they would receive coal to meet their needs, and that each section would be considered in the light of the special circumstances affecting it. He said the entire car supply available would be employed to move the coal to the Ohio and Michigan consumers on the day set aside.

Homer Johnson, the Ohio Fuel Administrator, sent telegrams tonight to local committees in his State instructing them to have the retail dealers put in their orders at once to their usual source of supply or to the nearest coal field. They must order only what they can deliver rapidly in one-ton loads. The operators also were informed of the Government's intention to take over their output for one day and they were asked to facilitate deliveries.

Mr. Johnson met Dr. Garfield at the recent conference of operators in Pittsburgh and proposed the plan. Dr. Garfield, who already had decided to requisition 10 per cent. of the coal output of the country, agreed.

Under a definite allotment of American coal for trade, announced tonight by the Fuel Administration, about 2,000,000 tons of bituminous or anthracite will be permitted to move across the Canadian border during the next two months. The allotments, which will materially reduce the volume of exports, were arranged in consultation with the Canadian authorities and after a review of statistics showing the Dominion's fuel consumption during the last year and the future needs of its industries and domestic consumers.

It was announced that Administrator Garfield had insisted that Canada be treated as well as the Union in the matter of coal, but no better, and that the Canadian Government recognized that the United States was warranted in taking the present steps to protect the interests of its consumers.

INDEPENDENTS JOIN SWING TO MITCHEL

'SILENT' VOTERS AT WORK

The independent and the so-called "silent" voters have joined the Republicans in the swing to Mayor Mitchel, according to the Mitchel-Fusion campaign managers. At the headquarters in the Manhattan Hotel it was stated yesterday that the independents are organizing in every borough and that they are doing some of the most effective work of the campaign. The parent organization of the independents is the Mitchel League and they have already formed the Mitchel Personal Campaign Committee, which held its first meeting at the Manhattan Hotel yesterday and announced that they are forming small non-partisan groups in every election district to find out the preferences of each man in the district and to talk to as many men as possible personally.

"The new thing in the swing to Mitchel is the coming of the independents," said Emory R. Buckner, general campaign manager. "Outside the drive in the Republican organization, which is beginning to loom large for Mitchel, the silent vote of the city is aroused in every direction. The first sign of the interest of the independents in the campaign was the large registration. These independents are no longer satisfied with a mere drift to Mitchel but are organizing to see to it that the silent vote speaks out on Nov. 6.

"The Mitchel League of New York is an organization chiefly of business and professional men which is adding subcommittees literally by the half dozen. Some of the committees already organized are insurance men, physicians and surgeons, electrical workers, jewelers, food products, building trades, banks and trust companies, architects, lawyers, music publishers, retail dry goods, underwear and hosiery, window cleaners, wholesale clothiers, accountants, West Side Trades Committee, woolen and silk trades, Washington Heights Committee, and the Allied Theatrical Arts. These committees are card indexing thousands of men in their particular field and sending out circulars, holding meetings, and doing personal work. Twenty thousand cards of Mitchel men have been indexed so far by the league."

William Fellowes Morgan is President of the league, Joseph Buhler is Executive Secretary and Edwin C. Vogel and Henry L. Wolff, Vice Presidents. Officers of the City Democracy, which was organized by independent Democrats to end Charles F. Murphy's rule in Tammany Hall, were elated yesterday over the fact that Mr. Murphy, for the first time in the campaign, had recognized the new organization by attacking it. When Murphy began to talk, they said, it meant that he was worried. Murphy had said that Henry Morgenthau had raised $1,000,000 to aid the City Democracy campaign. Mr. Morgenthau, Emory R. Buckner and William Hamlin Childs of the Mitchel-Fusion Committee all denied that they knew anything about such a fund.

"In this campaign," said Mr. Morgenthau, "I have had absolutely nothing to do with raising any money for the Mitchel Fusion Committee. As Chairman of the Robert Adamson Committee I have had to raise a small sum, but outside of that my whole attention has been to secure a large vote for Mayor Mitchel. I was not at any meeting where money for the Mitchel Fusion Committee or the City Democracy was discussed, but I am encouraged as to the correctness of my calculation of the plurality for Mitchel, when Murphy, instead of giving a direct answer, resorts to such an evasive statement."

Sam Lewisohn, Treasurer of the committee, likewise declared that he knew nothing about the meeting referred to by Mr. Murphy.

25 British Ships Were Sunk Last Week; Jellicoe Says "War Is All But Won"

LONDON, Oct. 24.—An increase in the loss of British merchantmen through mines or submarines is noted in the Admiralty report for the current week. Seventeen vessels of over 1,600 tons and eight under 1,600 tons were sunk.

The Admiralty statement follows:

Arrivals, 2,648; sailings, 2,689; British merchantmen over 1,600 tons sunk by mine or submarine, 17; under 1,600 tons, 8; British fishermen sunk, none; British merchantmen unsuccessfully attacked, including one previously, seven.

In the previous week twelve British merchant vessels over 1,600 tons, six under that tonnage, and one fishing vessel were sunk.

ROME, Oct. 24.—Italian shipping losses at the hands of submarines during the week ended Oct. 20 were three steamers of more than 1,600 tons and one steamer under 1,600 tons. One steamer was stubbed but escaped.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, First Sea Lord, speaking at Sheffield today, said:

"The war is all but won. We have only to set our teeth and the war will be won."

Referring to the submarine warfare, he said that the figures of September were good, but the figures for October would not be so good.

Sir Edward Carson, speaking at Portsmouth, said the war had entered the phase where the question with Great Britain was "whether we are going to prove superior in striking power to the Germans and our other enemies." He added that Great Britain could not, and would not, make any peace without the concurrence and consent of her dominions. Neither would Great Britain enter into peace negotiations behind the backs of her allies.

70 HEAVY GUNS TAKEN BY FRENCH IN AISNE SWEEP

GERMANS PLAN RETREAT?

TANKS AIDED IN VICTORY

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The sweeping character of the French victory yesterday north of the Aisne is made more plain with every dispatch, official and unofficial, that reaches here.

Tonight's bulletin from the War Office announces that the count of German prisoners taken now exceeds 8,000. The captured heavy guns are more than 70, while 30 mine throwers and 80 machine guns are among the booty.

Unofficial reports suggest that the Germans may be preparing for a wide retreat. It is said that French aviators report that trees have been cut down and villages demolished in the Laon district, just as they were in the Somme area before Hindenburg's "strategic retirement."

An Associated Press correspondent with the French armies telegraphs:

"Several squadrons of tanks participated in the battle and aided the advancing infantry. It was by means of these most modern war implements that the Filain Farm was captured.

"The battlefield bears no resemblance to battlefields anywhere else. The ground all around is broken with steep hills rising from deep valleys. The crest on which the fight occurred was vital for the Germans, and they held to it tenaciously."

"Most of the prisoners taken were caught in quarries. One group, composed of 400 men, was led out to surrender by a German soldier, who spoke French and assured his comrades that they need not fear bad treatment from their captors, despite the assertions currently made to them by their officers that the French massacred prisoners. Another batch of prisoners fell into the hands of the French just as they alighted from motor trucks, in which they had been hurried to the battlefield as reinforcements.

"The losses of the Germans were extremely heavy, as was testified to by the heaps of dead found beneath the ruins of quarries, which crumbled under the French bombardment. The French casualties were rather below normal.

"Comparative quiet has now succeeded yesterday's battle. The Germans, astonished by the rapidity and extent of the French success, seemed momentarily stunned, but it is probable that they are engaged in moving their artillery to the rear.

Airmen Helped in Advance.

"The French aviation service is greatly praised for its work. During the attack it rendered immense service for the French commander, working under the most unfavorable conditions for flying, namely, mists, heavy clouds, and strong winds. The airmen flew over the infantry when they were making the attack, and when they saw the German infantry assembling for a counterattack they advanced toward the enemy at an altitude of less than 100 yards, showered machine-gun bullets upon him, and brought about a dispersal of the assemblage.

"Several French machines flew over the Loan railroad station and attacked arriving troop trains. Some of the machines accompanying the infantry columns kept so low that they were obliged to shorten the antennae of their wireless apparatus. All the airplanes participating in the battle were riddled with bullets. One of them fell blazing among the French troops. The pilot was uninjured and ran to the nearest battalion.

"From prisoners captured before the battle it was learned that the German Crown Prince had ordered a concentration in front of the lines, which were to be held at all costs. The commanders of the advanced positions had received warnings not to cede a foot of ground, as French progress meant the enfilading of the German lines all along the Ailette Valley.

The bulletin of the French War Office tonight says:

North of the Aisne the German artillery was particularly active in the sector of La Royère-les-Bovettes and in the region of Fort de Malmaison, on our new front, which extends from Mont des Singes, (Monkey Hill,) which we have occupied in its entirety, to Chavignon. The enemy attempted no infantry action.

Patrols sent out by us in the region of Chavignon and Vaudesson have brought back a great number of prisoners.

It is confirmed that tanks (chars d'assaut) played an important rôle in yesterday's attack.

The number of prisoners taken since yesterday exceeds 8,000. Of the material left in our hands, which we will not be able to inventory before several days, it has been possible up to the present to count only seventy cannon, thirty minnenwerfer and eighty machine guns.

In Champagne, in the region of the Monts, we successfully carried out two surprise attacks, the first northeast of Prunay, the second at Mont Haut, and brought back about fifteen prisoners.

On the right bank of the Meuse there were spirited artillery actions in the region of Samogneux, Vacherauville, Chaume Wood, and west of Douaumont.

Germans Shorten Riga Line, Giving Up Advanced Posts

BERLIN, Oct. 24, (via London.)—On a wide front between the Gulf of Riga and the Dvina the German troops have been withdrawn without interruption from the enemy, Army Headquarters announced today. The official statement says:

"Between the gulf of Riga and the Dvina Sunday night we withdrew on a wide front, without interruption by the enemy, our far-advanced protecting troops before the main position, who in successful engagements have prevented the Russians since the beginning of September from overlooking our formations."

MICHAELIS READY TO QUIT OFFICE

HELFFERICH'S POWERS CUT

Leaders Combine to Back von Buelow for Chancellor, but Socialists Oppose.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Dr. Georg Michaelis, the German Imperial Chancellor, has placed his portfolio in the hands of Emperor William, according to an Amsterdam dispatch given out by the Wireless Press.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 24.—A Berlin official telegram says an imperial decree has been issued, transferring social, economic, and political tasks from the Ministry of the Interior to the new Imperial Department of Economics.

Vice Chancellor Helfferich is relieved of the administration of the Ministry of the Interior. Under Secretary of the Interior and Under Secretary of State Wallraf has been appointed Minister of the Interior. Under Secretary of State Rudolph Schwander has been appointed Secretary of State for the Imperial Department of Economics.

Kaiser Ready to Deal With Crisis.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 24.—Emperor William returned to Berlin last night prepared to begin dealing immediately with the political crisis, particularly as it affects the Imperial Chancellorship. Rudolf von Valentini, chief of the Emperor's civil cabinet, made a report to the Emperor on the train on the various developments of the internal political situation during the Emperor's absence in the Balkans.

Valentini is known as the carrier of the bowstring on account of the part he plays in the political demise of the highest Imperial and Prussian civil officials. He acts as the Emperor's eyes and ears in ascertaining public and political opinion regarding ministers and ministerial candidates.

Responsibility is accredited popularly to Valentini for the discovery and selection of Dr. Michaelis when it was decided to drop Prince von Bülow as a candidate owing to the Socialists' announcement that they would make open war on the Government if the Prince were reinstated as Chancellor. It is said that Michaelis was not even considered as a candidate three hours before his appointment was made.

Prince von Bülow again is being advocated strongly for the Chancellorship by the Conservatives and by Herr Erzberger of the Centrist Party and Herr Stresemann of the National Liberal Party. Erzberger and Stresemann do not have the active strength of their parties behind them. Socialists, through the party news service, announce that if the Emperor asks the opinion of the Reichstag parties they will not hesitate to tell him their unfavorable opinion of von Bülow as a candidate for the Chancellorship.

Fail to Unite on a Candidate.

The leaders of the Reichstag parties, with the exception of the Conservatives and the Extreme Socialists, who began a series of confidential conferences on the Chancellorship crisis in Berlin yesterday, seem, as far as indications in the newspaper reports give any clue, to be attempting to unite on the line of advice to be given to Emperor William should he decide to consult them regarding a change of Chancellors.

Apparently the conferees have established no particular unity of purpose and the number of candidates mentioned for the post does not seem to have decreased. The Centrist and National Liberal members differ sharply from the Socialists and a section of the Radicals regarding the propriety of infringing in any way upon the throne's prerogative in the selection of the Chancellor.

Prince von Bülow continues to receive hard knocks from the press of the Left parties, which have raked up the inconsistency of Erzberger in supporting a candidate whom he did the utmost to oust from office before. The similar inconsistency of the Conservative defenders of the "divine right" theory is pointed to in their attempt to force upon the Emperor the appointment of a man toward whom he still bears a grudge because of his belief that Prince von Bülow in a telegraphed interview on the crisis showed a lack of gratitude.

Foreign Secretary von Kühlmann is the candidate most prominently mentioned against Prince von Bülow, but it seems not impossible that a dark horse will again be selected.

TO PROPOSE NAMES TO KAISER.

But Reichstag Chiefs Profess No Desire to Restrict Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Tuesday, Oct. 23, (via London, Oct. 24.)—There have been endless caucuses of leaders of all the Reichstag parties, at which the internal political situation has been discussed; but it is not likely that a decision will be forthcoming before next week.

The four majority parties, Progressives, Liberals, Centrists, and Socialists, have decided to make no attempt at diminishing the prerogative of the Crown in naming the Chancellor and other members of the Cabinet, but will take steps to propose to the Kaiser a personage or personages for the Cabinet whose political tendency and character would serve as a guarantee that a majority of the Reichstag would be enabled to co-operate with them in order to create more stable conditions and not drift into the way of politicians who never tire of changes in the Government. All the party leaders, not excepting the regular Socialists, made it quite clear that they did not wish to see the Crown's rights limited in any way.

There was some talk today that Chancellor Michaelis might remain after all. It was said that the majority parties, although preferring a different solution, would accept him if the Cabinet were reconstructed so as to promise harmonious co-operation with the Reichstag.

GERMANS BREAK INTO ITALIAN LINES, TAKE THOUSANDS

ROME IS CALMLY CONFIDENT

Heavy Firing Began Sunday, but Ceased—German Guns in Action.

BERLIN, Oct. 24, (via London.)—An Austro-German offensive has been instituted on the Italian front, Army Headquarters announced today. German and Austrian infantry this morning captured the foremost Italian positions near Flitsch and Tolmino and in the northern portion of the Bainsizza Plateau.

The fighting activity has been perceptibly revived in the Tyrolean, Carnia, and Isonzo regions. German artillery took part in the artillery battle, and German and Austro-Hungarian infantrymen this morning captured the foremost Italian positions near Flitsch and Tolmino and in the northern portion of the Bainsizza Plateau.

On the Italian front the combined attacking operations are taking their intended course.

Up to the present some thousands of prisoners have been reported.

ROME, Oct. 24.—That the Austrians have concentrated strong forces on the Italian front for offensive purposes was announced by army headquarters today. A large proportion of these troops are Germans and the war material employed is likewise largely of German origin.

The War Office announcement reads:

The enemy has concentrated strong forces on our front for offensive purposes. A large proportion of these troops and material are German. However, the blow of the enemy will find us steady and prepared.

During the night the increased intensity of the artillery fire on various portions of the Julian front and a heavy bombardment, mostly with special gas shells, between Rombon and the northern portions of the Bainsizza Plateau, marked the beginning of an attack. Owing to the bad weather, however, the hostile fire decreased toward dawn, together with violent bursts of fire from our batteries.

It was announced from Zurich on Oct. 2 that forty divisions of German troops, amounting to at least 520,000 men, had been released from the Russian front, probably for action against the Italians. It was expected that the Teuton drive, when it came, would be launched from the Trentino, to the east of the Lago di Garda, into the region of Veneto, or west of it into Lombardy, aimed in either case, as was the Austrian offensive of June, 1916, at the Brescia-Verona-Vicenza-Venice railway system, which largely supplies the Italian armies on the Isonzo. Since then, however, some of the tactical importance of such a drive has been lost through the opening up of the lower Isonzo to supplies via the Adriatic.

The present concentration of Teuton troops is believed to be due to the visit of Emperor Charles to the front in August, followed by a council of war at Laibach Sept. 7.

The attacks upon the Italian outposts of Flitsch on the right bank of the Isonzo, thirteen miles northwest of Tolmino, which the Italians are investing, are of tactical rather than strategic importance.

Neither Plezzo, near Flitsch, nor Tolmino is thought important as strategical defenses by the Italian General Staff, since too many mountains, easily defended, cover their paths into Italy. Only the new Italian positions on the Bainsizza might be threatened from the north. An attack here in force against General Cappello's left flank might force him back over the plateau westward.

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, Monday, Oct. 22, (via London, Oct. 23.)—It is possibly significant that the General Staff has not yet issued any such summary of the August and September operations as that which followed the May and June offensive. It suggests what the conditions are along the front and also that Italy does not regard the year's work as yet finished.

At any rate, the enemy appears to think the fag end of the year is still gravid with serious possibilities. The lines he holds are those to which the Italians drove him. They are not in general contour and quality a disadvantageous front for him, since at most parts of it the Italians are still fighting uphill. But he has learned that favor of the ground is never a deciding factor against the Italian Army, and has brought hither what appears to be almost the whole of his forces from the eastern front.

It is freely said that the main active front alone is now opposed by about 300 Austrian battalions with corresponding artillery, and it is known that General Lukas, commanding the Austrian forces, on and about Bainsizza, has increased his command to 250 battalions or about twenty divisions.

Everything is here. The last judgment will hardly see a greater confusion of tongues and races. Russian prisoners by the thousands are working in the rear of the armies, or nearer the front there are labor battalions of Bosnian Mohammedans, the clowns of Europe, who come to the rear as grinning prisoners willing to curry favor with any one. There is also a thin trickle into our Italian lines of Russian prisoners, who escape during the disorder of the attacks and avail themselves of the Italian arrangements for receiving deserters.

Every story they tell seems to indicate that Austria stands in dire straits for food. They were fed twice daily, mostly on polenta of maize with occasional rations of coal-black bread, which has a strange putrid taste. Nevertheless, in their concentration camp the elderly soldiers who guard them have the same rations, and the camps are besieged by old men, women, and children who try to beg bread from the prisoners.

The presence of newly arrived artillery on the front is obvious from the curiously sudden and apparently objectless bombardments which break out from time to time. Yesterday and last night the positions just north of the Carso were frantically shelled.

Austria is in love with a gun which is about the calibre of the Italian 9.2. Great steel packets of high explosive came screaming over as copious as the tropical rain. It had all the marks of a bombardment prefacing an infantry attack. Was it the so long awaited Austrian counteroffensive? But was to succeed and confirm the offensive of printers' ink in the Austrian papers? At dawn the cannonade died down and stammered to silence, and there happened nothing, absolutely nothing.

HANS BERG ESCAPES FROM GEORGIA CAMP

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 24.—Lieutenant Hans Berg, who brought the British liner Appam to Hampton Roads as a prize, after her capture off the Azores, by the German raider Moewe nearly two years ago, was one of the ten prisoners who escaped last night from the Alien Enemy Detention Camp at Fort McPherson. The other nine were members of the crews of the Appam and the famous commerce destroyer Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

Search for the prisoners turned tonight to Atlanta, where the military authorities believed they were hiding. Bloodhounds today trailed the men from the mouth of a tunnel, extending from their sleeping quarters to a point outside the prison fence, to a small stream a mile from the fort. There the trail was lost and it was believed the fugitives had waded in the water to throw the dogs off the scent. Their socks were found on the bank.

The tunnel through which the Germans escaped was about 100 feet long, and officers at the fort said they evidently had been working on it ever since their transfer here two weeks ago from Fort Oglethorpe.

The escape of the prisoners was discovered this morning at roll call. Search of their quarters revealed that they must have worn their uniforms when they left.

Two other officers besides Berg escaped, it was announced tonight. They were Arnold Henkel, 35, and Alfred Loeschner; the other seven, all seamen, were Paul Faig, 22; Maximilian Mensinger, 22; Paul Eisner, 23; Johann Adelhardt, 24; Granz Beer, 22; Paul Sabel, 26, and Carl Schultze, 23.

Department of Justice agents tonight announced a reward of $50 each for the capture of the Germans.

Brought Down in Aerial Battles by British—135 Tons of Explosives Dropped on Germans.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—In the course of his weekly talk with The Associated Press today Major Gen. Frederick B. Maurice, Chief Director of Military Operations at the War Office, discussed the work of British airplanes on the west front. He said:

"During September our bombing machines made 226 raids, dropping on the Germans 7,881 bombs, representing 135 tons of explosives. In the same period the Germans dropped almost exactly 1,000 bombs on the British. Now, bombing is only a part of our air operations. By far the most important work of the airmen is the direction of the artillery.

"During September we made 7,964 'shoots' at enemy batteries under aerial observations, and silenced them in 1,813 instances. During the same period the Germans only succeeded in ranging on 743 of our guns.

"During September we engaged and brought down 274 enemy planes, and this figure errs on the side of conservatism, for our headquarters never allows airmen credit for a victory unless the fall of an enemy is corroborated from either an observer on the ground or another airman in the vicinity."

LEADERS ON BOTH SIDES HAIL AMERICA'S POWER

Will Supplant England, Says Hertling—Will Finish the War, Says Cambon.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 24.—Count von Hertling, the Bavarian Premier, speaking in the Chamber at Munich, said that, after Germany's existence, the safety of her frontiers and her free and peaceful development were guaranteed, "We are ready for peace." He added: "If the Entente won with American help, America would step into England's place. America against Europe—this is gradually becoming the character of the war through the Entente's fault."

PARIS, Oct. 24.—"Make it very clear to the American public" said Jules Cambon, General Secretary to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, today to The Associated Press, "how highly public opinion in France appreciates all that the United States has accomplished, and how grateful it is for it.

"It is the general conviction that it is the United States which will have the honor to finish the war and place its foot on the monster's head," M. Cambon continued. "The energy of the American policy, as evidenced by the embargo measures, meets with the entire approval of the French Government. Everybody realizes that it is an effective and complete blockade; that is the sole means to prevent a continuation of the provisioning of Germany, while at the same time it strikes at the morale of the country, which daily becomes more depressed.

"Proofs of depression are visible in demands for changes in the Government personnel and in rumors of a Ministerial crisis."

SEES NO PEACE PROSPECT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—No immediate prospect of peace, despite Germany's gradual weakening of morale in the civilian population and the army, is seen by Pleasant A. Stovall, Minister to Switzerland, who called on President Wilson today on his first return from his post in four years.

"The German people," said Mr. Stovall, "are slowly realizing that the war is a total failure. As this spirit grows it will cause some sort of a revolution, but I do not think any one can forecast what form this will take. Food and other economic conditions in Germany are very bad and growing worse."

KERENSKY APPEALS FOR FIGHTING ARMY

COUNCIL OF DEFENSE NAMED

PETROGRAD, Tuesday, Oct. 23, (via London, Oct. 24.)—In an emotional address to the Preliminary Parliament today, Premier Kerensky appealed to the delegates to endeavor to arouse in the people the same sense of individual responsibility at the front and in the rear which carried the Russians to victory for a time in the post-revolutionary offensive early in July. The Premier deplored the present demoralization of the army.

"If only we could rekindle the enthusiasm of those July days in the heart of each man," he said, "we should have peace by Christmas, an honorable peace for free Russia, with the war fought to an honorable end."

The Premier talked for an hour, running the gamut of emotion from despair to hope. He was applauded on all sides.

Failed to Resist at Oesel.

"We are not fighting for political ends, but for the very existence of Russia," he declared. "The army in the trenches seems to have lost the sense of duty and honor, although at some places it is filled with a new spirit. The batteries on Oesel Island gave up without a struggle, while the little Dagö Island forces fought bravely."

M. Kerensky defended the Government against charges made by M. Markoff, Radical, who blamed officers for the demoralization of the army and hinted at monarchical plots. He said the Kornilloff revolt was not monarchical, but a mere attempt at a dictatorship, as also was the Bolsheviki revolt of July.

"Peace has been postponed by the disintegration of the army by forces which are continuing the work of the old régime," he said.

Premier Kerensky said that when the enemy broke the Russian front in Galicia excesses were witnessed at Kalusoz and Tarnopol which recalled the pogroms at Kishineff and the times of the Government of the Romanoffs, and for that reason the present Government, at the demand of the General Staff, Military Commissioners and Regimental Committees, restored the death penalty. The Premier added that excesses continued in South Russia, but that he believed the regular organization and co-ordination of the General Staff, the Military Commissioners and the Regimental Committees could create an army the martial and combative spirit of which would stop the enemy's offensive.

In a discussion of the army situation before the Parliament, Minister of War Verkhovski said the Government would introduce a bill providing for the establishment of qualified regimental disciplinary tribunals which would apply a system of penalties under which entire regiments, if convicted of lack of discipline, would have their leave stopped and their rations considerably reduced. He also said the front was not being helped by the rear and that no army could fight when it was hungry and cold.

"It seems to be possible to end anarchy only by German bayonets," he declared.

The Minister urged that the army be reorganized and that severe punishments be authorized.

General Alexieff, former Chief of Staff, advocated the reinstatement of 10,000 army officers who have been expelled, saying they were needed greatly and had been dismissed on unproved charges. These men, he asserted, should have a new chance.

Selects Council of Defense.

The Parliament selected a Council of Defense, consisting of thirty-eight members representing all parties. The Council will sit continuously and will attempt to carry out the Government's program of propaganda to improve the morale at the front and in the rear.

Premier Kerensky did not mention the proposed evacuation of Petrograd, for discussion of which a secret session was requested, but refused.

The newspapers state that Premier Kerensky probably will relinquish the post of Commander in Chief of the Russian armies to General Boukhonin at the end of the week.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs points out that the instructions given by the Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates to M. Skobeieff, their delegate to the inter-allied conference at Paris, have no compulsory character. These instructions embody the peace conditions laid down by this group. All the members of the delegation, added the Minister, will be representative of the Government and they must consequently support a program drawn up on a common basis. The composition of the delegation has not yet been determined.

PETROGRAD COUNCIL DEMANDS EARLY PEACE

Accused of Planning Civil War in an Effort to Get the Supreme Power.

The Petrograd Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates on Monday adopted a resolution proposed by Leon Trotzky, President of its Executive Committee and a leading Maximalist, declaring the salvation of the country lies in the conclusion of peace as quickly as possible.

The resolution accuses Premier Kerensky of a desire to deliver Petrograd into the hands of the Germans and their "imperialist allies," and also of openly favoring the German Emperor. It demands that all power shall pass into the hands of the Councils of Soldiers and Workmen and instructs the Executive Committee to propose an armistice to all the nations. As long as peace is not concluded, continues the resolution, the committee must defend Petrograd and restore the army to the status of a combative force.

In consequence of this resolution the Petrograd Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates has decided to form a revolutionary general staff for the defense of Petrograd.

In an address to the council, Trotzky explained why the Bolsheviki polted the first meeting of the Russian Democratic Congress, saying that body had not been representative of the people and was not trusted by the soldiers and workmen.

"With the formation of the Preliminary Parliament," he said, "the independence of the ruling power was confirmed officially. Russia is a republic, but its autocrat is Kerensky."

He urged the Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils to be ready to fight for the handing over of the power to them, saying they would be able to save the country and make peace.

Delegate Lieber, the spokesman of the Minimalists, expressed surprise at Trotzky's attitude, inasmuch as the bolting of the congress had the approval only of a small majority of the Bolsheviki. M. Avksentieff said that the walkout was only a demonstration which could have no effort on the work of the Congress, since in the eyes of all Russia the body continues to be the same authoritative organization. The Bolsheviki, he said, had lost for themselves the right of further participation in it.

The evening newspapers which publish the program for the meeting of the Central Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates on Nov. 2 are filled with rumors of a Bolsheviki demonstration and an attempt to seize the Government on that date. The program for the discussions of the council embraces five topics: The revolutionary democracy and its power, the conditions of peace, the constituent assembly, demobilization of the army and the fight against anarchy and pogroms.

The Vecherenee Vremya says:

Gas Attack on Rumanian Front.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 24, (British Admiralty per Wireless Press.)—A hostile gas attack on the Rumanian front is reported in today's War Office statement. The attack was made in the Onechti sector, south of Grozechti. No statement of the result is made.

SLEW THEIR OFFICER OPPOSING SURRENDER

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 24.—The report that British troops had found a German officer who had been executed by his own soldiers, the body having the hands bound behind the back, has been confirmed. The incident occurred at a redoubt south of Poelcapelle during the recent fighting. There were fourteen German soldiers and a young officer holding this place. When the British troops stormed this redoubt the German soldiers surrendered, and the British found the dead officer, with five bullet wounds in his body. The reason for his execution was that the men desired to surrender and he refused to give up his stronghold without a struggle.

This affair is another link tending to substantiate statements made by prisoners that the German officers commanding certain bodies of troops along the Flanders front are losing control over the men. There is no doubt that there has been a very considerable deterioration in the morale of many of the German troops in this region. But the German fighting machine is recognized as still being a powerful one.

One noncommissioned officer belonging to the Tenth Bavarian Division, who was captured about the middle of October, asserted, as had other prisoners before, that the officers were losing their grip on the men. He said that desertions in the rear areas were very frequent, and cited the case of thirteen men of his own company, who had deserted a fortnight before, declaring that they were going home. Some of them were arrested on the way, but others actually reached their homes. Four of these men were brought back to their company as prisoners, but the officer did not know whether any of them had been punished. He added that this was not an exceptional case.

An equally interesting statement was made by a captured officer of the Guard Reserve Division, who had joined his regiment in the middle of October. He declared that the morale in Germany was very bad, and that the civilians were raising an outcry as to why the war was being prolonged. Throughout the country, he said, there was talk of an end to the Hohenzollerns and the establishment of a republic. The morale in his own division he characterized as bad, although formerly it had been good.

This officer further said that the authorities had already called up the 1920 class in Brunswick. Germany was suffering from a serious shortage of horses, and there was a great scarcity of canvas, as a result of which the manufacture of tents had virtually ceased, huts being erected instead.

Another officer prisoner had charge of the guard in a war prisoner camp. There were British, French, and Russian prisoners there. The food was not good, he said, and a number of deaths had occurred from "hunger and typhus."

The enemy limited himself to bombarding our new line, especially in the region of Vaudesson, and attempted no infantry reaction. Our troops are organizing the conquered ground. The number of prisoners actually counted has reached 8,000, among whom are 160 officers, belonging to eight different divisions, including two of the Guard. The staffs of three regiments, among them three Colonels, were taken prisoners.

It is confirmed that two enemy divisions which had been held in reserve behind the front were engaged on Oct. 23 and were put to a very severe test.

East and west of Cerny the artillery fighting was rather lively during the night. French reconnoitring parties penetrated the German trenches at several points and brought back prisoners and two machine guns.

In Champagne we made two successful attacks, one in the region of the Butte du Tahure, the other west of Auberive.

On the right bank of the Meuse, (Verdun front,) yesterday evening and last night were marked by heavy artillery actions. The enemy delivered a violent attack on our positions north of Hill 344. After a severe combat we repulsed the enemy, who was able to maintain himself in a position on our advanced line. A vigorous counterattack by our troops expelled him, and our line was re-established entirely. Another German attack, on the Crete des Caurieres cost our assailants appreciable losses, without any result.

The night was calm on the remainder of the front.

Berlin Admits Loss of Ground.

BERLIN, Oct. 24, (via London.)—In their attack on the Aisne front yesterday, the French at first pressed forward quickly, but later their thrust was arrested by the German reserves, says today's official bulletin.

The French troops, adds the statement, drove forward to the villages of Allemant and Chavignon, and the positions lying between these points became untenable. In the withdrawal, the German advanced batteries had to be blown up and left to the French.

The bulletin reads:

Front of the German Crown Prince—The French yesterday began in two sections a big attack at the Chemin des Dames, from the Ailette region, north of Vauxaillon, to the plateau north of Fraissy. The fighting which developed in the morning south of the Oise-Aisne Canal led to a heavy fluctuating struggle between the Ailette and the Ostel heights. The enemy, storming in the morning against our line, which had been destroyed by six days of most violent firing, encountered strong resistance and did not advance in consequence of heavy losses.

Only in a later thrust, from the west of Allemant and from the south of Chavignon, by fresh French forces, after renewed preparations and supported by numerous armored cars, did they succeed in breaking into our positions and pressing forward to those villages. Thereby the positions lying between became untenable. In the withdrawal of our troops from the stubbornly held lines on the front of the advance, the batteries had to be blown up and left to the enemy.

The French quickly pressed forward, but by the intervention of our reserves the enemy thrust was arrested south of Pinon, near Vaudesson and at Chavignon, where a spirited engagement took place, further progress was denied to the enemy.

An attack, begun simultaneously by several French divisions on the plateau on both sides of La Royère Farm, south of Filain, failed, in spite of repeated assaults, with heaviest losses. In the evening, after drumfire lasting several hours, the enemy advanced to attack between Braye and Allies. Under our defensive fire and in desperate hand to hand fighting at places the thrust of the French completely collapsed on this front.

Local engagements were continued until far in the night, but up to the present the battle has not been resumed. Our troops fought heroically.

On the eastern bank of the Meuse, southwest of Beaumont, there was trench fighting throughout the day.

The supplementary official statement issued this evening says:

FRENCH BROKE PIVOT OF HINDENBURG LINE

By G. H. PERRIS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Tuesday, Oct. 23, (via London, Oct. 24.)—In the teeth of unfavorable weather and other serious natural obstacles, and the resistance of large bodies of picked German troops, the French have today won a most notable victory, driving the enemy back on a six-mile front at the west end of the Chemin des Dames, capturing his last two strongholds on this ridge and taking thousands of prisoners.

The attack, which began nearly an hour before dawn, took three main lines. Striking out from both sides of the mill of Laffaux toward Allemant village, the French had to deal with the Fourteenth Division—Westphalian troops—who suffered heavily in last year's fighting before Verdun. The largest proportion of prisoners was captured in this sector, where the turning point of the Hindenburg defense system has been smashed in and Allemant occupied.

The centre of the assault lay northward from the Mennejean farm across the Laon high road. This sector was defended by the Twenty-second Guard Division. The most important of all was the sector on the French right, extending from La Royère farm to Malmaison Fort, the capture of which was the great event of a brilliant day. It was defended by the Fifth Guard Division, the fort itself being held by elements of the Grenadier Guards.

On the left flank of the attack the enemy had in line the Thirty-seventh Division and on the right the Forty-seventh Reserve, so that this front of exceptional strength was defended by six divisions.

The position in this part of the Aisne heights had remained since the successful French offensive of April and May one of a dreadfully unstable equilibrium. The German command had lost much, but not everything, and for several months had used lavishly its human material in the hope of tightening its hold upon what remained to it of this important barrier—the southern corner of the Hindenburg line. Mennejean, La Royère, and Pantheon farms, among other points, became positions of vital significance.

The French held their own and the French command throughout the late Summer was steadily preparing one of those powerful and wonderfully organized efforts which give the cleanest success at the lowest cost. Passing up and down the Aisne this Autumn we have seen railways multiplied and new camps springing up in field and forests. All these preparations could not escape the eyes of the Boche.

Surprise, indeed, is an element more and more difficult to gain in modern operations, especially when, as in this case, rain and fog compelled the postponement of the critical hour. The enemy knew the death challenge was being uttered once more, and had plenty of time to bring up reinforcements and otherwise to make ready.

On both sides the character of the battle was governed by the peculiarities of the ground. In the first place, the front here constitutes an angle. The French had, therefore, the advantage of concentrating the salvation of the country lies in the conclusion of peace as quickly as possible.

The resolution accuses Premier Kerensky of a desire to deliver Petrograd into the hands of the Germans and their "imperialist allies," and also of openly favoring the German Emperor. It demands that all power shall pass into the hands of the Councils of Soldiers and Workmen and instructs the Executive Committee to propose an armistice to all the nations. As long as peace is not concluded, continues the resolution, the committee must defend Petrograd and restore the army to the status of a combative force.

In consequence of this resolution the Petrograd Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates has decided to form a revolutionary general staff for the defense of Petrograd.

In an address to the council, Trotzky explained why the Bolsheviki polted the first meeting of the Russian Democratic Congress, saying that body had not been representative of the people and was not trusted by the soldiers and workmen.

"With the formation of the Preliminary Parliament," he said, "the independence of the ruling power was confirmed officially. Russia is a republic, but its autocrat is Kerensky."

He urged the Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils to be ready to fight for the handing over of the power to them, saying they would be able to save the country and make peace.

Delegate Lieber, the spokesman of the Minimalists, expressed surprise at Trotzky's attitude, inasmuch as the bolting of the congress had the approval only of a small majority of the Bolsheviki. M. Avksentieff said that the walkout was only a demonstration which could have no effort on the work of the Congress, since in the eyes of all Russia the body continues to be the same authoritative organization. The Bolsheviki, he said, had lost for themselves the right of further participation in it.

The evening newspapers which publish the program for the meeting of the Central Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates on Nov. 2 are filled with rumors of a Bolsheviki demonstration and an attempt to seize the Government on that date. The program for the discussions of the council embraces five topics: The revolutionary democracy and its power, the conditions of peace, the constituent assembly, demobilization of the army and the fight against anarchy and pogroms.

The Vecherenee Vremya says:

Gas Attack on Rumanian Front.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 24, (British Admiralty per Wireless Press.)—A hostile gas attack on the Rumanian front is reported in today's War Office statement. The attack was made in the Onechti sector, south of Grozechti. No statement of the result is made.

SLEW THEIR OFFICER OPPOSING SURRENDER

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 24.—The report that British troops had found a German officer who had been executed by his own soldiers, the body having the hands bound behind the back, has been confirmed. The incident occurred at a redoubt south of Poelcapelle during the recent fighting. There were fourteen German soldiers and a young officer holding this place. When the British troops stormed this redoubt the German soldiers surrendered, and the British found the dead officer, with five bullet wounds in his body. The reason for his execution was that the men desired to surrender and he refused to give up his stronghold without a struggle.

This affair is another link tending to substantiate statements made by prisoners that the German officers commanding certain bodies of troops along the Flanders front are losing control over the men. There is no doubt that there has been a very considerable deterioration in the morale of many of the German troops in this region. But the German fighting machine is recognized as still being a powerful one.

One noncommissioned officer belonging to the Tenth Bavarian Division, who was captured about the middle of October, asserted, as had other prisoners before, that the officers were losing their grip on the men. He said that desertions in the rear areas were very frequent, and cited the case of thirteen men of his own company, who had deserted a fortnight before, declaring that they were going home. Some of them were arrested on the way, but others actually reached their homes. Four of these men were brought back to their company as prisoners, but the officer did not know whether any of them had been punished. He added that this was not an exceptional case.

An equally interesting statement was made by a captured officer of the Guard Reserve Division, who had joined his regiment in the middle of October. He declared that the morale in Germany was very bad, and that the civilians were raising an outcry as to why the war was being prolonged. Throughout the country, he said, there was talk of an end to the Hohenzollerns and the establishment of a republic. The morale in his own division he characterized as bad, although formerly it had been good.

This officer further said that the authorities had already called up the 1920 class in Brunswick. Germany was suffering from a serious shortage of horses, and there was a great scarcity of canvas, as a result of which the manufacture of tents had virtually ceased, huts being erected instead.

Another officer prisoner had charge of the guard in a war prisoner camp. There were British, French, and Russian prisoners there. The food was not good, he said, and a number of deaths had occurred from "hunger and typhus."

EXPECT GERMAN RETREAT.

Felling Trees and Razing Villages in Laon District.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—It would be hard to exaggerate the enthusiasm aroused throughout the length and breadth of France by yesterday's achievement of the French Army on the Aisne front, falling on the anniversary of the recapture of Fort de Douamont by General Pétain.

The blow apparently fell with all the force of a surprise, for it is understood that the German General Staff held the opinion that after his incomplete success in the Spring offensive the French leader would not find it advisable to resume offensive operations before the end of the year, and this opinion was shared by a great many Frenchmen.

The military commentators emphasize the great importance of the capture of Fort de Malmaison, the key to the whole ridge extending to Craonne. The French from their new positions are able to enfilade the German positions not only along the Chemin-des-Dames line, but at Anizy-le-Château, and to direct their fire along the valley of Laon.

According to Marcel Hutin of the Echo de Paris, yesterday's victory brings out five points: First, that the enemy nowhere on the western front has been able to take the initiative since February, 1916; second, the enemy continues in a state of inferiority; third, he has been obliged repeatedly to withdraw his lines between St. Quentin and the Ailette; fourth, he has been beaten in Flanders and obliged to give ground; fifth, he will be forced to resign himself to another "strategic" movement rearward if he wishes to escape disaster.

M. Hutin, in this connection, says that French aviators have reported seeing in the Laon region trees sawed through and villages demolished. The writer concludes that he is convinced the victory just gained is only a prelude to decisive actions which will be carried out with the clock-like regularity characteristic of General Pétain's methods.

BLASTED OUT HIDDEN FOE.

New French Mortars Reached the Caverns That Concealed Germans.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The victorious advance of the French troops on the left of the Chemin Des Dames yesterday is the first decided continuation of the offensive on the Aisne front, begun on April 16, and abandoned a few days later.

The plateau of Malmaison which the French conquered in less than six hours' fighting is a position of enormous importance, the occupation of which by the Germans prevented the French from taking advantage of successes on the lower Chemin des Dames Plateau to the eastward. Once masters of the Malmaison Plateau, which is the key of the ridge between the Aisne and Ailette valleys, the French have not only an unrivalled observation point over the Laon plain before them but also have really "turned" the Celmin des Dames Ridge on the northern slopes, of which the Germans have hitherto held fast. It was through fear of a further French bound, such as has just been made, that the Germans prolonged their attacks in this section throughout the Summer, the expenditure of blood and shells being hardly inferior to the effort against Verdun.

The Matin's military critic says:

"Our victory definitely ruins the German hope of holding on to the Chemin des Dames. The positions which stopped our pursuit after the Marne in September, 1914, and limited our progress in April—these are now in our possession. It is impossible to overestimate the value of this local success in awaiting the hour of decisive victory."

From personal experience and observation I can bear witness to the difficulty of the French task on the Malmaison Plateau. The whole stretch of ground is corrugated with a series of narrow valleys the precipitous sides of which are well nigh impassable even for infantry. The ground is honeycombed with huge quarries and tunnels, in the recessed shelter of which hid the German reserves, squads of bombers and flame throwers, and nests of mitrailleuses. But the French bombardment was not to be denied. For days a terrific volume of fire, exceeding, say the eye witnesses, even that of Flanders in intensity, had been poured on the Germans's positions. New mortars of exceptional power had blasted even the deepest German defenses with their torpedoes.

The rapidity and extent of the success and the large number of prisoners prive the irresistible character of the French preparation. The German underground refuges have been their prisonhouse or tomb as was the famous tunnel on Le Mort Homme.

What the immediate future may bring here or in Flanders, I cannot say, but it is with full knowledge that I declare that the French and British have this year in default of a decisive victory, at least done their utmost to make the way smooth for the final smash, accompanied, then, by their American allies, in 1918.

BRITISH BEAT OFF GERMANS.

Attacks on New Line Northeast of Ypres Are Repulsed.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—New attacks by Germans on the allied lines northeast of Ypres have been repulsed, says the official report of the War Office today. The bulletin reads:

Yesterday evening the enemy again attacked our positions in Houthulst Forest. An attempt made against the point of junction of the British and French armies was completely repulsed.

Since our attacks on the morning of Oct. 22 the enemy has delivered seven counterattacks against our new line without achieving material results at any point.

A successful raid was carried out by Gloucester troops last night southeast of Gavrelle. A number of the enemy were killed, several of his dugouts were blown up, and a few prisoners and machine guns were brought back by us.

The report from Field Marshal Haig in Flanders tonight reads:

We captured a few prisoners during the night in the course of patrol encounters southwest of Havrincourt.

On the battle front the hostile artillery was active this afternoon against our positions in Houthulst Forest. Our artillery carried out counterbattery work and a destructive bombardment at different points.

The weather was stormy.

BERLIN, Oct. 24, (via London.)—Today's official report says:

In Flanders our troops by a counterattack almost completely ejected the enemy from the occupied section of our defense stone on the southern edge of Houthoist Wood. Prisoners remained in our hands.

There was fighting in the district from Draeibank to Zandvoorde, and firing again considerably increased in the afternoon. There were no new attacks.

OBJECTS WON, SAYS MAURICE.

French Attack Called Best Answer to German Disparagement.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Major Gen. Maurice, Chief Director of Military Operations at the War Office, said this afternoon in discussing the French victory on the Aisne front that practically all the objectives had been attained. It was the fourth French attack this year.

"The German press," says General Maurice, "has been trying to sow discord between the French and British by saying that the French were worn out. The French attack is the best answer to this.

"True, the British share of the fighting is bigger now for obvious reasons. We started with a small professional army, of which only a skeleton is left. Then we were two years building a new army. During that time the brunt was on the French, but now the British can take the brunt."

PERSHING IN MIDST OF AISNE BATTLE

By The Associated Press.

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, Oct. 24.—General Pershing accompanied the French General Franchet d'Esperey yesterday as far as the second German line in the French attack on the Aisne front. With General d'Esperey he first observed the attack from a favorable post some distance in the rear of the French front line. Then General Pershing suggested going into the French trenches. This they did. General Pershing was not satisfied and went on through the shellfire into the first line of the captured German trenches and then into the second line. General Pershing's imperturbable attitude during this time is the talk of the French Army.

The American General afterward went with General d'Esperey to General Petain's headquarters and was present when General d'Esperey gave the Commander in Chief a detailed report of the successful attack.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Tuesday, Oct. 23.—Several American Intelligence Officers watched the successful attack made by French troops yesterday on the front northeast of Soissons. The Americans saw crowds of German prisoners passing to the rear.

SINKS NORWEGIAN STEAMER

CHRISTIANIA, Oct. 24.—The Norwegian steamer Leander has been sunk by a German submarine, according to an announcement made today by the Norwegian Foreign Office. One man on board was killed.

The Norwegian steamer Ramfos is stranded on the Norwegian coast. The steamer is a total wreck. She had a cargo of 6,000 tons of corn for the Belgian Relief Commission.

The Leander was a vessel of 2,968 tons. The Ramfos registered 3,726 tons.

WILL DEFEAT GERMANY, IS PERSHING'S MESSAGE

Bishop Wilson Delivers It at a Liberty Loan Rally in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24.—Bishop Luther B. Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal Church of New York, who returned from France this week, delivered a message today at a Liberty Loan rally from General Pershing, whom he quoted as follows:

"It is a heresy too long left in mind that Germany is invincible, Germany will be conquered."

Bishop Wilson declared that Americans in France had made a splendid impression.

"Imagine their optimism," he said, "if we turn in $6,000,000,000 instead of $3,000,000,000 for the loan. The United States is beginning to mean something to the Kaiser, and with wholehearted support of the loan will soon have him tottering."

Secretary of Commerce Redfield said that Germany's hopes of sea domination must be smashed.

"We are awake to the menace," he said, "and our answer in the form of the Liberty Loan must be such as to show Germany America stands squarely across her path."

$30,000,000 Lent to England.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—An additional loan of $30,000,000 to Great Britain was granted today by the Government. This makes the total loaned the Allies $2,806,400,000.

To End the War

The people of the United States by winning this war can end it. The first step toward victory is to make the Liberty Loan a success.

The more fervently we desire peace—a righteous peace that will endure, a peace that will safeguard the rights of all—the greater should be our response to the loan.

Let no man underrate his own importance in this great cause. Every subscription, no matter how small, will help prove to the world that we are a united people and are in this war to end it by winning it.

You can buy 4% Liberty Bonds in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000. You can pay for them on the Government's installment plan, which requires only a 2% initial payment; or, you can buy your bonds outright, in any amount up to $1,000, and take them with you. Many savings institutions, firms, and employers are offering the bonds on a weekly or monthly plan of payment. Everything has been done to make purchasing the bonds easy and convenient.

We shall be glad to accept subscriptions for any amount for future delivery, or to make immediate delivery of bonds in amounts from $50 to $1,000 to any one purchaser, upon payment in full.

RAIN FAILS TO HALT LIBERTY DAY FERVOR

TO HOLD BIG PARADE TODAY

New York is to have two Liberty Days, just as last Winter it had two New Year celebrations. For the terrific downpour of yesterday morning, while it caused the postponement of the big parade and many of the outdoor meetings that were to have stimulated the campaign to fill up the second Liberty Loan, did not put a stop to the vigorous efforts of salesmen all over the city to sell more and more bonds as the end of the campaign draws nearer. Nor was it possible to countermand the arrangements already made for the early closing of the public schools, the various Exchanges, and most of the stores which were to end their day at noon in order to leave the afternoon free for pushing the sale of war bonds. And despite the handicaps the efforts of salesmen yesterday added, according to unofficial estimates, $120,000,000 to New York's total subscriptions to the loan.

But today will also be a Liberty Day. The big parade along the avenue featured by floats of every kind, by the presence of hundreds of American sailors, all of whom have invested their savings to back the offer of their lives; by the contribution from the British Government of a tank, as well as a captured submarine installed in the Park, will be held today. Instead of going down Fifth Avenue, as originally planned, it will start at Washington Square at 2 P. M. and go up to Fifty-seventh Street, then to Broadway, and then to Central Park West and Sixty-sixth Street, where in the sheep meadows of the Park the German UC-5 will be renamed U-Buy-A-Bond. Tickets for the reviewing stand at Madison Square are still good.

Some of the outdoor meetings which had to be called off yesterday will be held today, and all the thousands of professional and volunteer bond salesmen who are giving their efforts to insure the success of the loan will put in as hard a day as is humanly possible to try to boost today's subscriptions far above yesterday's mark.

Hartigan to Act as Marshal.

At that, yesterday's mark was far from disappointing considering the character of the day. When Liberty Loan officials first awoke and discovered rain pouring in such torrents that a parade would have been only a form of torture for paraders and spectators they were filled with gloom. Conferences were hurriedly called, and it was announced at once that the procession would be postponed a day. This postponement, incidentally, caused the loss of Major Lorillard Spencer of the Fifteenth Infantry, N. G. N. Y., as Marshal, whose leave of absence given for the event expired yesterday. He had to report for duty last night, and turned over his office to Joseph Hartigan, former Commissioner of Weights and Measures, Assistant Director of Publicity for the Liberty Loan Committee.

But eventually the rain showed signs of slackening. By noon, though it was still coming down, it was possible to hold the regular midday loan rally in front of the Sub-Treasury, and workers for the loan took heart. And indeed by 2 o'clock the downpour was over, and the Weather Bureau predicts for today's parade a day that will be fair and only cold enough to make the marchers step out sharply.

Even during the morning heavy sales of bonds had been reported by the rain-coated, umbrella-bearing salesmen and saleswomen who were at work all over town. Indoor celebrations were held in many banks, and Secretary McAdoo's Liberty Day speech was read; employes of the Exchanges and of business houses which closed at noon spent the afternoon in pushing sales; Judges, clerks, attendants, and counselors from the courts, which had closed in honor of the day, aided members of the patriotic organizations, including descendants of the heroes of Colonial wars, the Revolution, the war of 1812, and both sides in the civil war, who worked their hardest to increase the sales. And side by side with these Americans of the old stock worked Americans whose citizenship is still young, but who have learned to appreciate their adopted country.

Exercises at Sub-Treasury.

At the rally in front of the Sub-Treasury addresses were made by the Rev. Dr. William Wilkinson and Martin Vogel, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. The Bethlehem Steel Company's band furnished music.

At the City College Ambassador Abram I. Elkus called for support of the Government, and at New York University Deans Archibald L. Bouton of the College and Charles H. Snow of the Engineering School led the students on a campaign for subscriptions. About $35,000 was raised on University Heights.

The open-air meeting which was to have been held in Fourteenth Street, in front of Tammany Hall, will take place this afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock.

The rearrangement of plans for the parade took the form which was finally announced because of the desire to combine the event with the renaming of the captured submarine, which had already been scheduled for 4 o'clock. The organizations taking part in the parade will form in the streets about Washington Square and will start under the arch at 2 o'clock. The head of the procession is expected to pass the reviewing stand at Madison Square, where Mayor Mitchel and 1,000 others will review it, about 2:30 o'clock. At this point Benjamin Strong, President of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, who will be among the foremost in the parade, will drop out and proceed by automobile to the Pennsylvania Station, where they will meet Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels at 2:50 o'clock. The rest of the Liberty Loan Committee will fall out of the procession at the Plaza and will act as a guard of honor to the Secretary.

At the park there will be an invocation by the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas's Church, and Mrs. Guy Emerson will break a bottle of American champagne over the bow of the boat, renaming her U-Buy-a-Bond.

The British tank, which is to take part in the parade, was primed with 100 gallons of gasoline yesterday and made her first journey in America—from a spot on the pier at the North River and Fifty-sixth Street to a sheltered position under a shed. It will enter the parade at Fifth Avenue and Twenty-third Street.

Tomorrow at noon a twenty-four-hour rally will begin in Times Square, which will end at the moment which has been set for the closing of the campaign. The British tank will spend several hours in service as a speaker's platform. Jerome Myers, in charge of the speakers, has announced that several theatrical performers will sing patriotic songs during the rally.

Denunciations of German barbarism and calls for money to help the soldiers and sailors who are keeping the Germans off the rest of the world were heard last night at a Liberty Loan rally at Carnegie Hall. Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, in calling for support of the army and navy, denounced the Germans as the authors of the pacifist doctrines spread through all other countries, that armies and navies are a menace to peace.

"Our army and navy are now fighting your war," Rear Admiral Fiske said. "They are risking everything that men can risk, and daring everything that men can dare; and some of them will suffer everything that men can suffer. Surely it is only right that the men and women who stay at home shall supply the money needed in order that their sacrifices and sufferings shall not be endured in vain."

Captain Radclyffe Dugmore of the British Army said that every day that war was prolonged meant 3,000 more British casualties and as many French.

Allen B. Forbes presided, Captain A. F. Simmons, U. S. A., told of personal observations of the mobilization of the German army, and L. P. McKinney made the appeal for subscriptions from the audience. Motion pictures of the Italian front were shown.

The first public statement made by Thomas A. Edison since he went to work on secret naval inventions four months ago was read at the exercises at Feddie Memorial Church, Newark, as the feature of the Liberty Day Campaign in that city, which raised $4,000,000 more toward the loan. Mr. Edison's message, as read by William Maxwell, Vice President of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., was as follows:

"One hundred and forty-one years ago our forefathers fought for less than we are fighting for today. We have made heroes of the men who fought to make this country free, and we have branded as cowards or traitors the men who refused to fight. Posterity will pass a similar judgment on us. The men and women who do not do their duty now are creating a heritage of shame for their children and their children's children. Germany's place in the sun means nothing short of a world-wide domination. Every Liberty bond you buy this week is a message from you to the Kaiser that his ambition to conquer the world cannot be realized."

PLATTSBURG CAMP TAKES $1,750,000

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 24.—At a Liberty Loan mass meeting held in the gymnasium at the officers' training camp here tonight, at which Colonel Paul A. Wolf, Commandant, presided, and the speakers were Governor Whitman and Senator Calder, candidates for commissions, officers and enlisted men of the camp subscribed $810,000, bringing the total subscription of the camp up to $1,750,000.

When permission was granted to the men in training camps to purchase bonds a mark of $547,000 was set for the Plattsburg camp. This mark was reached and at the beginning of the meeting tonight the total subscription had reached $940,000. The mark was boosted once more, this time to $1,200,000, and it was only a few minutes until the mark went up to $1,500,000.

In the bidding for subscriptions company representatives came through with batches of thousands of dollars at a time. The Fourteenth Company, New York, half of Captain H. S. Pritchett's famous Bolo Battalion here, made an additional subscription of $102,000. Prior to this the Fourteenth had subscribed more than $150,000. As the mark was raised the Fourteenth found additional subscribers, and pushed up its total to $351,000, leading all the other companies. The Fifteenth Company, the other half of the Bolo Battalion, was second.

All returns have not been counted up yet, but it is thought that every man in camp has subscribed. The band, composed of twenty-nine enlisted men, contributed $2,600. The mess employes came through with $3,300.

Colonel Wolf, in opening the meeting, said:

"Realizing that the men here have given up their homes and occupations to prepare here to fight for democracy across the sea, one might ask: 'Is it not enough to make such sacrifice?' It might seem so, but such is not the case. The Government has called for a Second Liberty Loan, and, contrary to expectations, only about 40 per cent. has been subscribed. President Wilson, our Commander in Chief, has called on the army and navy to respond. He has sent out the S O S to us, and it will not be unheeded. It is a splendid chance for the camp to show the dormant civilian what to do."

Governor Whitman said he, too thought it was "nervy" to ask men who had by their very presence here expressed a willingness to give their lives if necessary to also give up their means.

"But," he added, "I am confident that Plattsburg will set a record for subscription that will stand as an example to the whole nation."

NEW ENGLAND'S TOTAL GROWS

Committee Still Hopeful of Reaching $500,000,000 Maximum.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Disregarding adverse weather conditions, Liberty Loan workers went to their task with renewed activity today with the result that subscriptions poured into the New England headquarters in a great volume.

Several large subscriptions and many smaller ones received after the daily announcement, which showed the total for the district to be $237,875,000, brought the minimum figure of $300,000,000 almost within sight and made the committee more hopeful of reaching the half billion maximum before the close of the campaign.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company increased its subscription by $500,000, making its total $1,500,000. The City of Lowell reported total subscriptions of $4,759,650, which is $250,000 over its minimum allotment.

Subscriptions for the loan carried Rhode Island's total over its minimum allotment of $28,271,000.

Reported subscriptions of $3,423,750 were turned in and the committee later reported that another million had been received too late to be included in the tabulated list. The total subscriptions to date are $28,321,050.

The committee expects that by Saturday noon the State will exceed its allotment by at least $10,000,000.

PHILADELPHIA NEAR QUOTA.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Workers for the Liberty Loan rolled up total sales today of $16,000,000 and brought the Philadelphia Federal Reserve District within $9,000,000 of its minimum quota of $250,000,000.

The Liberty Loan Committee, in estimating total sales to date at $241,000,000, confidently predicted that not only would the minimum allotment be attained, but that the maximum of $415,000,000 would be nearly if not fully reached.

Among the larger subscriptions today were the Baldwin Locomotive Works, $2,000,000; employes of the Bethlehem Steel Company, $3,100,000; Corn Exchange National Bank, $1,300,000; E. W. Clark & Co., $1,000,000; Lukens Steel Company, $1,000,000, (additional); Hercules Powder Company, $1,750,000, and soldiers at Fort Dupont, $40,000. The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company also decided to purchase $3,000,000 of the bonds.

FEDERAL RESERVE'S FIGURES

Oversubscriptions Reported in Some New York District Towns.

The Bond Issue Division of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York made public yesterday a set of figures giving the allotments and totals for subscriptions to the Liberty Loan received from various communities in this district up to the close of business last night. The following is a summary, the figures for New York City being given separately:

	Quota.	Subscriptions to Date.
Manhattan	$1,012,813,500	$625,763,350
Brooklyn	54,148,500	23,784,550
Bronx	2,511,000	425,400
	$1,075,861,500	$651,683,600
12 North'n Counties of N. J.	139,702,500	56,698,050
Fairfield Co., Conn.	13,399,500	5,982,700
Total for N. Y. District	$1,500,000,000	$823,578,950

The Reserve Bank receives daily reports from 1,275 banks located in the 550 cities and towns embraced in this district. Some of the towns show remarkably good records, having greatly exceeded their allotments, while others have been apparently lax in turning in subscriptions. Lawrence, L. I., for instance, reports $802,550, or more than three times its quota of $175,000. Canajoharie, N. Y., has collected subscriptions totaling $460,000, compared with an allotment of $376,500.

WILSON'S PURCHASE $15,000

President Also Bought $10,000 of the First Liberty Bond Issue.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—When leaders of the District of Columbia Liberty Loan campaign went to call on President Wilson today, presumably to get his subscription to the loan, they found that he had subscribed for $15,000 worth of bonds through a local bank, paying $13,500 immediately and agreeing to pay the balance before Nov. 14.

The President bought $10,000 worth of the first issue direct from the Treasury.

Camp Upton Subscribes $1,252,000.

CAMP UPTON, Yaphank, L. I., Oct. 24.—The total amount subscribed for the Second Liberty Loan by the soldiers of the New York City Division is $1,252,000. These were the figures this noon, but the Camp Liberty Loan Committee is confident that by the end of the campaign the division will have subscribed over $1,500,000. This will mean that a bond has been taken for every one of the 30,000 men now at Camp Upton. Only a few large subscriptions have been reported, the majority of the bonds having been bid for by small subscribers.

but it is known that that district had some enthusiastic meetings, and that subscriptions were large. Forty thousand persons planned to march in Kansas City.

Hawaii also celebrated the day. A message from Governor Pinkham to Secretary McAdoo said that the islands did not know their total, but were going ahead to roll up the largest possible quota. More than $3,000,000 has been raised there already.

News that two Catholic Slovak unions have subscribed $175,000 to Second Liberty Loan bonds was received today at the Treasury. Ten days ago the Men's Union subscribed $50,000, and later raised the amount to $75,000. Now from Wilkes-Barre, Penn., comes the report that the First Catholic Slovak Ladies' Union has subscribed $100,000.

ARMY TOTAL NEAR $50,000,000.

Fighting Force Expected to Double the Amount by Close of Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Nearly $50,000,000 had been subscribed by all branches of the army, here and abroad, to the second Liberty Loan up to Oct. 22. The total is more than $47,000,000, and it is estimated that the fighting force will take more than double that amount before the subscription closes. Troops in the Hawaiian department subscribed $892,450 and those in the Panama Canal department $976,400. The troops in the Philippines took $350,550 in bonds.

Officers, civilian employes, and enlisted men on duty in the office of headquarters, Southeastern Department, Charleston, S. C., have a total per capita subscription, including both first and second Liberty Loans, of over $121.

The School and Bakery Company at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., with a strength of 242 men, has a per capita subscription of $108.45.

The Sixty-fourth Infantry at Fort Bliss, Texas, is carrying $164,800 of the second Liberty Loan and $37,450 of the first Liberty Loan, making a grand total of $222,250.

Bakery Company 45, Quartermaster Corps, national army, at Governors Island, with a strength of one officer and 103 men, has a total subscription of $13,000, one per capita subscription of $125. The non-subscribers of this company, as in many others, are comprised of men who have dependents who need all their monthly pay that can be spared.

The Gift that goes with the Liberty Loan

When you buy a Liberty Bond—even a fifty-dollar one—you are of course helping Uncle Sam. You are doing a fine, real service to your country. You are lending your dollars at interest to your Government.

You are not making a gift. The gift is being made to you.

It is the gift of thrift.

Perhaps you have planned "some day" to start putting money aside for a rainy day. Somehow or other you haven't gotten around to it. Could there be a better time to start saving than in buying a Liberty Bond today on the installment plan? A dollar a week will, at the end of a year, put in your hands a Liberty Bond bearing 4% interest.

Here, truly, is a genuine opportunity to better yourself. Long before the year is up you will have acquired the priceless habit of saving. You will have made yourself the "gift of thrift."

Best of all, you will find it surprisingly easy to make a start.

Simply go to any bank whether they know you or not. Tell them you want to buy a Liberty Bond and pay for it in installments. Nothing could be safer.

Think this over. Think of those "rainy days" ahead. Start your little nest egg today. The time is short. The opportunity offers a personal gain to you.

Produce Exchange Takes $1,785,000.

Following a speech by Dwight W. Morrow of J. P. Morgan & Co., members of the New York Produce Exchange subscribed yesterday $1,785,000 to the Liberty Loan, bringing the total near the $5,000,000 mark they had set for themselves. About 150 members of the exchange attended the meeting, and of this number eighty-seven bought bonds. Many of these were additional pledges, practically every member of the exchange having already subscribed.

Doubling their best previous gain, the Rainbow Division of the Liberty Loan, representing 120 industries in the city, reported yesterday an increase of $44,000,000. This brought the total up to $168,000,000. Leaders of the various trades are confident that the $520,000,000 allotment will be fulfilled.

Liberty Loan Committees of the State and City Woman Suffrage Parties announce sales to date of the second Liberty Loan bond issue of $6,572,500. This exceeds by $2,000,000 the record of the Suffrage Party in the campaign for the first issue. One thousand women of the party will march today in the Liberty Loan parade. Three thousand girls of the Julia Richman High School have sold $133,000 worth of Liberty bonds.

Every bank and trust company in this city which is a member of the Federal Reserve system received from the Liberty Loan Committee a memorandum suggesting that its State bank correspondents be again reminded of the rediscount facilities in connection with the flotation of the Liberty Loan.

Arion Society Takes $5,000.

The Arion Society of New York City voted last night to buy $5,000 of Liberty bonds, to be sold among its members. The motion authorizing the purchase was made by Dr. Louis Haupt, formerly School Commissioner, and it was supported by Dr. Gustav Scholer, a Major in the United States Army Medical Reserve.

The following thirty-four banks have announced that they will keep open evenings to accommodate those who find it inconvenient to file their Liberty Loan subscriptions during regular banking hours:

Chelsea Exchange Bank, Mutual Bank, West Side Bank, New Netherland Bank of New York, Bronx Borough Bank, State Bank, Pacific Bank, Mechanics' and Metals National Bank, Dollar Savings Bank, New York County National Bank, Public Bank of New York City, Chatham and Phenix National Bank, Nassau National Bank, Gotham National Bank of New York, South Brooklyn Savings Institution, People's Bank, Harriman National Bank, Brooklyn Savings Bank, Broadway Trust Company, Equitable Trust Company of New York, Metropolitan Trust Company, Bankers Trust Company, Central Trust Company of New York, Franklin Trust Company, U. S. Mortgage and Trust Company, Empire Trust Company, Hudson Trust Company, Lincoln Trust Company, Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Columbia Trust Company, Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, Union Trust Company of New York, Title Guarantee and Trust Company, Manufacturers' Trust Company, Brooklyn.

GET MILLION IN 20 MINUTES.

Mayor and Charles E. Mitchell Spur Loan Sales.

A million dollars was pledged to the Liberty Loan, with Mayor Mitchel acting as salesman, at a luncheon given yesterday by the Fifth Avenue Association at the Biltmore Hotel. The subscriptions, nearly all of which came from men and firms which had already contributed extensively to the first and second loans, were raised in twenty minutes after speeches by Mayor Mitchel, Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company, and others.

The guest of honor at the luncheon was Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, the Cuban Minister to the United States, who caught the enthusiasm of the gathering and himself subscribed for $5,000 worth of the bonds. He was joined by Colonel Cosme de la Torricnte of the Cuban Army, who subscribed $1,000. Both made addresses, as did also Sir George H. Reid, former Premier of Australia.

Mayor Mitchel was the first speaker, and, after extending a welcome to the Cuban Minister and his countrymen, who were present, he spoke in behalf of the Liberty Loan, emphasizing the fact that many people were putting everything they had into bonds. Then he read a letter which had been received by John McE. Bowman, President of the Biltmore Company, from Nick Sackaris, a Greek, of 226 West Thirty-seventh Street, formerly in Mr. Bowman's employ, and now in military service guarding public property up-State. Sackaris had resisted the efforts of his wife and three children to obtain his discharge on the ground of dependents, and he now sent Mr. Bowman a check for $1,000 for the purchase of Liberty bonds.

Mr. Mitchell said that the success of the loan was hanging in the balance, and that the campaign to reach men of moderate means who could put from $1,000 to $100,000 into bonds had failed "to an extent."

COLONEL AIDS LOAN DRIVE.

Speaks at Oyster Bay, Which Has Subscribed $400,000.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Oct. 24.—Rain did not damp the subscriptions to the Liberty Loan at this place today, and did not deter Colonel Theodore Roosevelt from addressing more than a thousand persons. All told about $400,000 has been obtained and the committee expects that by Saturday noon this township will have raised about double that amount.

"Do it now, and do it well," was the theme of Colonel Roosevelt's address. "A man who will not do his duty is not entitled to vote or to have anything to say about the destiny of this country. All should do their bit in subscribing to this loan and it should be widespread. Wall Street has been criticised many times. They call them bondholders. If the people of this country don't accept these bonds, Wall Street will. Let us people get them first and if the people don't, I hope the people will have the decency not to shout about Wall Street in the future.

"I envy the man who has been chosen to go to the front. We are now facing the greatest crisis the world has ever seen. There never was a war of such importance, as it affects many nations and much territory. Uncle Sam has been patient. I never would have been so patient. No man should wave a flag or speak unless he can back it all up by deeds. I want our people to shoot the way they shout. So let us all do something, and we might as well do it now and the thing to do is to buy Liberty bonds."

'MR. X' A HILLQUIT CONVERT.

Mystery Will Be Solved When He Speaks at "Experience" Dinner.

"Mr. X., a Democrat of national prominence," is announced as the principal speaker at an "experience" dinner to be given at the Fifth Avenue Restaurant on Monday night to afford Republicans, Democrats, and Progressives who have turned Socialists an opportunity to tell of their conversion to Morris Hillquit. The dinner will be under the auspices of the Collegiate League for Hillquit.

"Who 'Mr. X' is has been kept a dark secret by the league, but Professor Evans Clark, Chairman, promises that his face will be familiar to every one when he rises to speak on Monday night," said the publicity purveyor for the league in an announcement sent out last night. Of "prominent" Republicans only one is named, Gilbert Roe, a New York lawyer. Of "prominent" Progressives there is scheduled only J. A. H. Hopkins, who is a former Progressive State Chairman of New Jersey.

It was announced last night that Morris Hillquit would address members of the Faculty and student body at Columbia in Earl Hall at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. This speech will be under the auspices of the Collegiate League, too. Tonight Mr. Hillquit will speak to an Irish audience at Terrace Garden. According to announcement, Padraic Colum, an Irish writer, and Nora Connolly, daughter of James Connolly, who was executed for his part in the Dublin revolt a year ago, will occupy seats on the platform. The meeting will be held under the auspices of various Irish organizations, for the first time inviting a Socialist candidate to address them. The Socialists are organizing a corps of 6,000 watchers for election day and have established a watchers' school at People's House, 7 East Fifteenth Street.

"The extensive frauds in the Republican primaries have taught us a lesson," said Usher Solomon, manager of the Hillquit campaign. "We are making every effort to prevent attempts that may be made to steal the election. Both the Tammany and Fusion leaders are in desperation over the big swing to Hillquit."

ROOSEVELT ENTERS MITCHEL CAMPAIGN

TORCHLIGHT PARADE, TOO

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will make five speeches for Mayor Mitchel during the campaign, devoting three nights for that purpose. On Oct. 29, he will speak at Sulzer Casino and at the Palace Casino, 14 East 135th Street. On Nov. 1 he will speak at the big rally in Madison Square Garden and then go to Ridgewood, in Queens, for his second speech that night. The fifth engagement has not yet been settled.

Arrangements were also completed yesterday for the appearance of Charles Edward Russell, leader of the American Socialists, who have repudiated their party on account of its un-American attitude, and Mayor Mitchel on the same platform. The meeting will be held Friday night in the New Star Casino at Lexington Avenue and 107th Street. Louis Miller, who has been exposing the pro-Teutonism of some of the Yiddish press, is also to speak, and Joseph Barondess is to preside.

Plans were completed yesterday for a great torchlight parade in connection with the Madison Square Garden rally on Nov. 1. Karl Behr, who has been appointed Grand Marshal, has formulated plans which call for six parades, as the procession will move in six columns and meet in Madison Square. Reports received indicate that more than 60,000 men will be in line. Fifty-seven trades and professions will be represented, as well as every Republican club and district organization in Manhattan and the Bronx.

Mayor Mitchel is scheduled to speak at five meetings today. In Battery Park at 12:40 o'clock he will accept a flag presented to him by New York boat owners. At 4 o'clock he will speak on the Liberty Loan before the Real Estate Board in Vesey Street. His night meetings are at Firemen's Hall, Jerome and Woodhaven Avenues, Jamaica, at 8:30 o'clock; Columbia Hall, Fulton Street, Richmond Hill, 9:10 o'clock, and Fleet Street Church, 302 Bridge Street, near Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, 10:10 o'clock. George W. Wickersham will speak at a meeting of the Commercial Travelers' and Business Men's Mitchel League, 557 Broadway, at noon today.

CALLS BENNETT A HEROINE.

Hillquit Says He's Villain, Mitchel Hero, and Hylan a "Movie."

Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, addressing an audience gathered last night at the North Star Opera House, Fifth Avenue and 105th Street, to listen to a concert given by the Socialist local of the district, said that he was only a number on the program and not a speaker talking to members of a political party.

"No matter how enjoyable your show has been, it is nothing compared to our show," continued Hillquit. "We have a good show and a large company. In fact, the cast is too large. We have a hero. If you don't believe it look at the posters depicting him slaying the tiger. Then we have the heroine, Bennett, whose innocence has been offended because he was deprived of his votes in the primaries. There is a movie number, too. In the cast is Judge Hylan, who posed in the moving pictures together with the cloak manufacturers, your bosses. Hylan prefers the movies to speaking parts. I suppose that I am the villain. If you don't believe it read the editorials in the newspapers. Our show has been running two weeks, and will continue for two weeks longer."

Hillquit was pelted with a bouquet of roses when he appeared on the platform of Yorkville Casino, Eighty-sixth Street and Third Avenue, and addressed a gathering of 2,000 men and women. He announced that both Tammany and the Fusionists were apprehensive of the Socialist strength, and were beginning to take energetic means to combat it. The Fusion managers announced, he said, that Elihu Root, Colonel Roosevelt, Jacob Schiff, and Henry Morgenthau would stump "the better portions of the city to lend the lustre of respectability to the Fusion campaign, while, on the other hand, the entire Spartan band of former Socialist intellectuals, the much-heralded Socialist leaders without a following, including Charles Edward Russell, J. G. Phelps Stokes, and other luminaries would invade the working class sections with the gospel of radicalism, revolution, and war."

The Socialist Party, he said, is the only one that has had the courage to proclaim its opposition to war and its longing for peace among nations. A big Socialist vote in the present campaign, the candidate asserted, would reach every part of this country, penetrate to the trenches, hearten true Democrats in all countries, and not only show the Russian "comrades" the sympathy and support of this country, but would hearten the peoples of Austria and Hungary to overthrow the rulers who led them to war. He predicted a speedy revolution against the Hohenzollerns in Germany.

POINTS TO WHITMAN.

Corrigan Says Governor Wants Control of Prosecutor's Office.

Speaking at the Harlem Casino, 116th Street and Lenox Avenue, last night, Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan, independent candidate for District Attorney, said:

"There are still charges pending against Swann before Governor Whitman, and the Governor is determined to have control of the District Attorney's office at all hazards. He needs it in his business. He has got to have it to get himself re-elected and start on that journey to the White House he sees himself taking in 1920. I will leave it to you, knowing the Governor and his ambition, and knowing the fact that these other charges are pending against Swann, whether he is not determined to wait until after election, and if by any chance Swann should be re-elected, whether he will remove him then on these new charges—more serious even than the old ones—and put his own man in that office. If Ransom wins, Whitman will be spared the trouble; but if Swann wins Whitman can get the office anyway."

Magistrate Corrigan then made a bitter attack against Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling in connecion with the alleged statement of a woman witness in proceedings against a doctor in the Summer of 1916.

Referring to William L. Ransom, Fusion candidate for District Attorney, Magistrate Corrigan in closing said:

"If that man was serious—if, as he says, his chief object is to keep Swann out of the District Attorney's office, he would do what Flammer did under similar conditions in the Jerome case—he knows he can't beat Swann—he would retire and advocate my election."

Mr Ransom will be the principal speaker at the Fusion mass meeting to be held in Cooper Union tonight. Other speakers will be Louis Marshall, Henry A. Wise, Walter S. Chandler, and Martin W. Littleton.

BENNETT LOSES THE 11TH.

Brooklyn Republican Organization Defeats Resolution of Indorsement.

Followers of William M. Bennett, the Republican nominee for Mayor, have been defeated in their effort to swing the Republican organization of the Eleventh Assembly District in Brooklyn into line for their candidate. Alfred E. Vass, Chairman of the Kings County Republican Committee, is leader of the Eleventh Assembly District.

The vote stood 37 to 21 against indorsing the candidacy of Mr. Bennett at a meeting held yesterday. Vass, who has been regarded as a Bennett man, allowed his name to be passed on the roll call, but after it was certain that in doing so he would not be instrumental in bringing about a victory for Bennett, he cast his vote against tabling the Bennett resolution.

Organization Republicans in Kings who have been friendly to the candidacy of the Republican nominee admit that there has been a sagging in his strength and that Mayor Mitchel will get a larger proportion of the Republican vote in Brooklyn than the result of the primaries at first indicated.

JUDGE HYLAN TELLS OF HIS OWN FITNESS

ASSAILS MITCHEL'S RECORD

Tammany Prepares for a Ratification Meeting at Which the Leading Candidates Will Speak.

Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany's candidate for Mayor, will make his first and only appearance at Tammany Hall during the campaign at an old-fashioned "ratification" meeting tomorrow night, at which all the leading candidates on the Tammany ticket will speak. Word has gone out to all the Tammany district leaders for drafts of men from the district clubs to fill the hall.

Senator Robert F. Wagner will preside as Chairman of the Tammany Hall General Committee. Leader Charles F. Murphy will have his first opportunity to hear his candidate read a speech, for he will occupy a seat on the platform. The speakers will be Judge Hylan, Charles L. Craig, candidate for Controller; Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, candidate for President of the Aldermanic Board; District Attorney Edward Swann, who is a candidate for re-election; Frank L. Dowling, candidate for Borough President of Manhattan; David H. Knott, candidate for Sheriff; County Clerk William F. Schneider, candidate for his present office, and James A. Donegan, candidate for Register.

Judge Hylan read a speech last night at a meeting in Corrigan Hall, 157th Street and Broadway, and at three meetings in the Bronx. The Bronx meetings were at Public School 11, Ogden Avenue and 169th Street; Muller's Casino, 154th Street and Third Avenue, and McKinley Square Casino, 169th Street and Boston Road.

In the speech Judge Hylan's own record was contrasted with that of Mayor Mitchel during the four years he has been Mayor. The various real estate deals in which the city has engaged with ex-Senator William H. Reynolds and his associates, now indicted; the establishment of a garbage plant on Staten Island and award of a $10,000,000 contract to William M. Greve, the introduction of the Gary system in the schools, the Riverside Park negotiations, and the expenditures in connection with the Court House plan which since has been abandoned were discussed by Judge Hylan.

"Do you wonder, with this record before you," asked Judge Hylan, "that the special interests which are exploiting the people of this city, and they alone, are proclaiming the fitness of Mayor Mitchel for office? Their conception of fitness is not mine.

"The Mayor of this city should be constantly on the alert, fighting to protect the people against the very interests Mayor Mitchel has been fighting for. My ideal of a Mayor of this great city is a man who knows the needs of the people and is in full and hearty sympathy with them. He must be honest, he must be vigilant, he must be intelligent, he must be capable; he must be free from entangling alliance with the despoilers and exploiters of the public. He must stand firmly against the importunities of the enemies of the people, it matters not who they are.

"Of my honesty, my intelligence, my capability, let my life and record speak. Of that record I have right to feel proud. My life has been a constant fight. I have fought an uphill battle. It has been the fight that countless other poor boys have made in America.

"I began my fight in the ranks of the manual toilers. For years I remained in these ranks, toiling at night, going to school by day, fitting myself for my professional career.

"From the moment I was admitted to the bar, twenty years ago, I began that fight for good government in which I still am and always shall be engaged. I have lived in the Borough of Brooklyn for twenty-nine years. They know me over there and have given proof of their confidence and trust. I served the people of Brooklyn for eight years as City Magistrate. I was then appointed Judge of the County Court and later elected to that office by a large majority of the voters of that borough.

"Mr. Mitchel has spent his four years in the Mayor's office as the willing agent of the exploiters of this city. Mr. Mitchel knows that I have been in a continuous battle against these public despoilers he has befriended. When Mr. Mitchel appeared in the legislative chambers at Albany fighting to take from the police of this city the right of appeal to the courts against arbitrary dismissals, I stood on the other side of the chamber battling against him in the interest of justice and fair play.

"When Mr. Mitchel, before his surrender to Wall Street, stood before the Public Service Commission, fighting against the dual subway contract, I stood with him in that battle for the people. When he surrendered to special privilege, I declined to join him in his betrayal of the people. I stood with Mr. Craig, our candidate for Controller, fighting in the Board of Estimate and before the Governor of this State against Mr. Mitchel's attempt to surrender the waterfront of Manhattan and Riverside Park to the New York Central."

Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, speaking at the meeting in the McKinley Square Casino, also paid attention to land deals of the Mitchel administration and as a proof of unsound financing asserted that day laborers' wages in some instances were being paid out of the proceeds of corporate stock.

"The Mayor a few nights ago," he said "took issue with a statement I made about corporate stock issued for dock repairs. Several years ago the Republican candidate for Mayor, as a member of the Legislature, caused a sensation in Albany when he said that horse collars, ash cans, and horse blankets were being bought for the Street Cleaning Department out of the proceeds of long-term bonds. That was regarded as reckless financing. What would you say if I were to tell you that the salaries of dock builders, laborers, watchmen, and boatmen in the Dock Department are being paid today out of the proceeds of corporate stock? If there is any doubt read The City Record of Jan. 9. My opponent, answering this criticism, has said that 'it was done twenty years ago,' proving my claim that this administration, asking credit for modern methods of financing the city's affairs, is following the practice of twenty years ago."

PICTURES CABINET SHOULD HYLAN WIN

Mitchel Suggests Some Appointments, Nominating C. E. Turner for City Chamberlain.

Viereck, He Declares, Might Be Health Commissioner "Because of His Knowledge of Picric Acid."

Unable to obtain any answers to the questions he has addressed to Judge John F. Hylan, his Tammany opponent, Mayor Mitchel yesterday made some suggestions of his own regarding appointments Mr. Hylan might make if he were elected. The Mayor's statement in part was as follows:

"Thus far Judge Hylan has not been permitted to discuss the changes he proposes to make in the various city departments should he be elected Mayor. The only inkling of what he proposes to do, should Mr. Hearst and Mr. Murphy be successful, is his statement that if elected he will remove a man who has been dead for two years, will remove other men who left the city service years ago, and will abolish the committees which are composed of members of the Board of Estimate.

"Since we have no information from Judge Hylan to assist us in determining what will happen to the city departments should Judge Hylan become Mayor, we can depend only on what we know of Judge Hylan's past and present actions and associations.

"If elected, who will be Judge Hylan's Police Commissioner? Will it be Edgar A. Whitney, who has placed Judge Hylan under obligations by coming forward with an affidavit in Judge Hylan's defense? Whitney stands out in the present campaign as a man who knows what a Murphy police force ought to be. He is the man who confessed to Justice Jerome that he was a go-between for Wardman Glennon of the Devery police force, and notified Glennon whenever the Parkhurst Society intended to raid a gambling joint or a disorderly house which was under the protection of the police.

"Who will be Judge Hylan's City Chamberlain? Will it be Charles E. Turner, who has made the other affidavit in Judge Hylan's behalf in reply to The World's exposures? Mr. Turner has enjoyed Judge Hylan's confidence. He shared Judge Hylan's office at 1,028 Gates Avenue. He was Vice President of the Black Diamond Automobile Company when Judge Hylan was a Director. He has admitted that he took $200 from Jailbird Goslin to escape from the jurisdiction after Goslin had used him as a dummy in one of Goslin's nefarious schemes.

"Who will be Judge Hylan's Corporation Counsel? Will it be Jeremiah O'Leary, upon whom Judge Hylan is now relying to deliver to him all the disloyal vote that O'Leary controls? Mr. O'Leary is certainly in the graces of Judge Hylan's master, Mr. Hearst, because Mr. Hearst was interested enough in O'Leary and in O'Leary's friends to protest against the seizure of von Igel's papers, which disclosed O'Leary's connection with German plots. Furthermore, Jeremiah O'Leary's relative is now helping to conduct Judge Hylan's campaign."

After inquiring whether Mr. Murphy would be Dock Commissioner if Hylan was elected, the Mayor continued:

"One thing is certain. Should Judge Hylan be elected there will be a battle royal over the division of the spoils. If Mr. Murphy comes out on top, Mr. Murphy's favorite leaders will receive consideration after Judge Hylan has discharged his personal obligations.

"Should Mr. Hearst prove the stronger, the Tammany leaders will be passed over for the leaders of the Hearst-German propaganda in this city.

"George Sylvester Viereck, the editor of Fatherland, may be appointed Health Commissioner for his knowledge of picric acid, to which the von Igel papers testified."

Earlier in the day the Mayor commented upon the statement of Charles F. Murphy that he had not forbidden Judge Hylan to speak.

"Mr. Murphy has announced," said the Mayor, "that he will permit Judge Hylan to talk to the public. This is a distinct forward step, and if Mr. Hearst will be equally magnanimous the public may shortly learn the answers to the questions which have remained unanswered by Judge Hylan for nearly three weeks."

ELECTION BETTING LIGHT.

Only $15,000 So Far Put Up, One Commissioner Says.

Fred Schumm, the Brooklyn betting commissioner, said last night that the betting on the outcome of the election had been the lightest in years. Thus far only $15,000 had been put up through him. Yesterday Schumm placed one bet of $2,000 even that Hylan would have a plurality of 50,000 in the city. Another wager was one of $1,000 even that Hillquit would run ahead of Bennett. Schumm still has $5,000 to bet on Hylan winning. He said that he had made offers of 10 to 6 on Hylan, with no takers, yesterday.

Morris Hillquit yesterday polled 150 votes to 100 for Mayor Mitchel in the straw vote being taken in Columbia University by the student newspaper, The Spectator, but in the total ballot for three days Mitchel leads with 637 votes to 471 for Hillquit. Hylan polled 16 votes yesterday, making his total 101, and Bennett received 9, making his total 61.

Merchants Fail to Invite Hillquit.

Although the Broadway Merchants' Club, which is composed of leading business men of the Eastern District of Brooklyn, has invited Mayor Mitchel, Judge Hylan, and ex-Senator Bennett to be its guests at luncheons it has extended no invitation to Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor. Members of the club said yesterday that it was not likely that Mr. Hillquit would be invited, as there was a feeling that he should not be asked to address the club because of his "un-American ideas." Judge Hylan is to be the guest of the club today and Mr. Bennett tomorrow.

To Business Men:

THE remarkable response to our announcement that—is an indication of how effectually business institutions can co-operate with our Government during this crisis.

"EVERY DOLLAR'S WORTH OF MOTOR CARRIAGE BUSINESS DONE THIS WEEK WILL GO INTO LIBERTY BONDS"

WHY would it not be a wise move to make this policy a general one during the remaining days of the Liberty Loan Campaign?

THE success of our plan is not caused by a good advertisement (if it was good). And not because so many of the public are deciding that they want an automobile right at this time. Next week or next month would do just as well.

BUT because they can give that much more support to our Government in the distribution of Liberty Bonds, many of our present patrons and many others who have already decided that their next car shall be a Packard, are anticipating their automobile wants by placing their orders with us during this week.

THE response is wonderful and inspiring.

AND the opportunity the plan affords the individual members of our sales organization, to serve their country while serving Packard, is reflected by the enthusiasm and success of their every effort.

HOOVER ARRANGES BIG SUGAR CONTRACT

Fairfax Harrison, Chairman of the Railroads' War Board, in discussing the demand for cars to move sugar.

"Telegrams just received from the Sunset Central, the Texas & Pacific, and other railroads in the sugar cane belt state that a sufficient number of empty cars are available throughout Louisiana and other cane-growing territory to handle the entire cane crop," says the statement.

"Hundreds of cars have also been moved into the Northwest to protect the sugar beet crop, which is already moving. An adequate supply of cars is also on hand to move the Northwest potato crop.

"In Texas the railroads are bending every energy to protect the cattlemen from loss of live stock because of drought. Thousands of heads of cattle were moved from Eastern Texas last week into more fertile pasturage, and hundreds of stocks cars are now being rushed into the southwestern part of the State to make possible a similar movement of cattle there.

"In its efforts to get empty freight cars into the districts where they are most needed the Railroads' War Board, acting through the Commission on Car Service, has moved 154,800 empty cars from one railroad to another, irrespective of ownership, since the first of May. The orders for these cars since Sept. 1 number 8,905."

FOOD PRICES INCREASE 47%.

Federal Bureau Computes the Rise Since War Began.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Food prices as a whole have advanced 47 per cent. over the year before the war. Latest compilation of prices, announced today by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, shows principal articles of food as a whole 6 per cent. higher on Aug. 15, 1914, just after the war began than they were on that date in 1913. There was a drop of 6 per cent. in 1915, but in 1916 prices advanced 14 per cent., and in 1917 they have jumped 31 per cent. From July to August this year there was a 2 per cent. increase in the combined price of the principal articles of food.

Flour prices in August were two and one-quarter times what they were in August, 1913. The increase was 130 per cent. Cornmeal advanced almost as much with an increase of 120 per cent. Potatoes advanced 87 per cent.; sugar 77 per cent.; lard 72 per cent., and pork chops 58 per cent.

In the year ended Aug. 15, onions was the only article to decrease in price. Cornmeal doubled in price; flour advanced 70 per cent., beans 59 per cent., and other articles to a lesser degree.

CONFER ON SUGAR TODAY.

International Committee Will Meet Refiners in New York.

The International Sugar Refiners' Committee of the United States will meet today at the office of the Sugar Refiners' Committee of the Federal Food Administration, 111 Wall Street, to confer with local refiners over the sugar shortage. B. A. Rolfe, Chairman of the committee, who has been south in an endeavor to get the Louisiana planters to increase their output, is expected to reach New York this morning. Sir Joseph White Todd and John R. Drake of the British Food Commission probably will attend the meeting, as will James M. Post of the National Refining Company, and Vice President Babits of the Arbuckle Company.

The committee will consider the local situation, and discuss active measures to insure keeping down of the retail price. The working agreement adopted at the conference on Tuesday was in operation yesterday. It had apparently little effect on the prices prevailing. While there is no doubt that many grocers are making an honest endeavor to hold down prices to the agreed 11 cents a pound, many are frankly charging what the market will stand.

A number of complaints of extortionate prices were reported to the committee yesterday. One case was that of a grocer who was said to have ten full barrels of granulated sugar in his cellar and who was crying "No sugar," while he dealt out small lots at 10 cents a pound. His case will be investigated. One Brooklyn grocer, whose store is near the Kings Highway in Flatbush, was reported to be selling sugar at two pounds for 25 cents.

Two plans are under consideration for dealing with the situation. One is to have the jobbers refuse further supplies to offenders, and the other is to publish the names and addresses of those who violate the agreement. The committee feels the latter method will be effective.

Commissioner of Markets Moskowitz sent a letter to Arthur Williams, the newly appointed Federal Food Administrator in this city, in which he asked Mr. Williams to get behind the co-operative plan for relieving the sugar situation here. He said that the Police Department was to help in the distribution to the retail trade of placards stating the price at which sugar is to be sold. The placard reads in part:

SUGAR PRICES.

The refiners' price in accordance with the agreement with the United States Food Administration is, to be $8.85 per hundred basis for bulk granulated.

The wholesalers' price is $8.60 per hundred pounds for bulk granulated in the original packages to the retail trade.

The retailers' price for granulated sugar is 10 and 11 cents per pound, not to exceed 11 cents per pound to the consumer.

This store is part of the Municipal Food Administration and voluntary trade co-operative agreement and will sell sugar at the agreed price and not more than a small quantity at a time to its regular customers.

We appeal to housewives to co-operate by not hoarding or wasting sugar. Housewives should reduce their normal use of sugar to one-half, at least until the new crop arrives.

Violators of this voluntary co-operative agreement will be dealt with by the trade and by the Commissioner of Public Markets.

The retailers are to be asked to post these placards in their windows.

CANADIAN WHEAT COMING.

Hoover's Board Buys Large Quantities to Begin Moving at Once.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Under an arrangement between the United States Food Administration and the Canadian Food Controller large supplies of Canadian wheat are to begin moving at once by way of the Great Lakes to the Eastern American flour mills so they may resume full capacity operations. The wheat will be purchased through the Canadian Government at the same price as that fixed for the American 1917 crop. Its coming will relieve pressure upon the American Northwestern supply.

Chicago Retailers Balk.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—In substance today's reply of Chicago grocers to the price list announced yesterday by Harry A. Wheeler, Illinois Food Administrator, was that they could not meet it. The list covered sugar, flour and potatoes. The grocers said they would like to put his prices into effect if Mr. Wheeler could tell them where to get flour and sugar at the prices he announced they should pay the wholesaler.

FOOD ADMINISTRATOR FOR THE CITY CHOSEN

Arthur Williams, Vice President and General Manager of the New York Edison Company, was appointed Federal Food Administrator for New York City yesterday. He will work in close co-operation with the various committees and commissions and the Federal agent for the State in the solving of the food problems of this city. Mr. Williams up to the present has been Chairman of the United States Food Administration campaign to enlist all women here as aids to the Food Administrator. This campaign will begin next Saturday with a formal ceremony on the land battleship Recruit in Union Square.

The announcement of the appointment was made in this telegram from Mr. Hoover:

"The President has approved your appointment as Federal Food Administrator for New York City. I am greatly pleased that we are to have your invaluable service."

Mr. Williams was in conference with Mr. Hoover in Washington Monday. The Food Administration believes that the problem in New York is one of the most serious in the country, and that an object lesson for all other regions can be established by the careful handling of the local situation. In this connection the most determined effort will be made to keep down retail prices in New York and thus set a pace for the nation. Widespread publicity will be given in the city and throughout the State concerning wholesale prices and profits which are considered legitimate on the part of the retailer.

"I consider it a great privilege to be associated with Mr. Hoover in the nation-wide movement to conserve our resources," said Mr. Williams. "I have assured him that the people of New York will leave nothing undone that will tend to strengthen his right arm and will assist in every way the work of the National Food Administration. Mr. Hoover during our conference emphasized the power of the public press in the matter of price regulation and the prevention of speculation and the hoarding of foods. He expressed his appreciation of what has been done."

The State Food Commission, of which John Mitchell is the head, has returned from a conference with Mr. Hoover. In the general plan for decreasing the cost of living and of conserving food supplies in this State, campaigns will be carried on to cut down deliveries and credit business so as to decrease the retail overhead expenses. Retailers in every part of the State will be asked to co-operate with the various agencies, Federal, State and municipal, and offer suggestions for the general good. A particularly hard drive is to be made to decrease the prices of milk and bread.

Mr. Williams is known here and abroad. He has been decorated by France as an officer of L'Instruction Républiique and by the King of Spain, who made him a Knight of St. Isabel. During the Spanish-American war he served as an officer in charge of mine laying in New York Harbor. He is 45 years of age, a native of Norfolk, Va., unmarried, and a man of independent means.

MAYOR LOOKS FOR HYLAN.

Goes to Mass Meeting in Vain Hope of Meeting His Opponent.

In spite of his physician's orders that he refrain from speechmaking on the penalty of total loss of voice for the rest of the campaign, Mayor Mitchel last night made the longest speaking tour since he began his fight for re-election. He addressed six meetings, beginning at Stauch's Casino in Coney Island and ending at the Arcadia Hall, in Williamsburg. At Stauch's Casino the Mayor said:

"You live here where Dreamland Park was established," he said, "and you know whether or not it is a benefit to your city." He continued to remind his hearers of how, in 1910, when Acting Mayor, he had "cleaned up" Coney Island, and he described the efficient work of the Police Department in other sections of the city under the Fusion administration.

The Mayor went to a Brooklyn mass meeting of more than 2,000 men yesterday afternoon in the expressed hope of meeting his Tammany opponent, Judge Hylan, in an open debate. The Judge had been invited to be present, but he failed to respond to repeated calls. The meeting was held in the big garage of the Robert Gair Company, on the corner of Adams and Front Streets. When the Mayor saw that the Tammany candidate was not in the hall, he said:

"I have come here today in response to the invitation that was issued both to me and to Judge Hylan to discuss the issues of this campaign. I had hoped that in view of the fact that his political boss and master has removed the gag that he has successfully kept upon his lips during the last three weeks of the campaign, and has given his august permission to his candidate to really talk to audiences in the City of New York, that Judge Hylan might have found courage enough and sufficient conviction in his own position to be willing to come here to face you men and discuss with me the issues of the campaign, but I do not see that he has yet mustered up either sufficient moral courage, or conviction in this own position."

The Mayor pictured Charles F. Murphy in the words of his ally, Hearst, saying:

"What Murphy is, what Murphy was, what Murphy will be, whenever he has control of public affairs, you have heard more forcibly than I can tell you from his present partner, Mr. Hearst. In 1906 Hearst said of Murphy that he ought to be wearing prison stripes in jail. In 1911 Hearst said of Murphy that he and his favorite leaders were a little band of plunderers who sold the public privileges of the people of New York to whomsoever in the name of pirate money was prepared to buy. In 1913 Hearst said of Murphy, that if he got his office boy into the City Hall it would be to prostrate your services and to exploit your treasury. Well, my friends, Murphy is the same today as he was when Hearst said that, but today they have formed a partnership."

JUDGE DENOUNCES HILLQUIT

Bronx Jurist Denounces Socialists' Refusal to Buy Liberty Bonds.

A denunciation of Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, for his refusal to buy Liberty bonds because he said he did not believe in the aims of the war was delivered by County Judge Louis D. Gibbs of the Bronx, before an audience of 1,500 persons at a Liberty bond meeting in the Morris High School, 166th Street and Boston Road, last night. Judge Gibbs said:

"I am sorry to say that men are openly preaching sedition in the streets of this city, and particularly in the streets of the Bronx. The Socialist candidate for Mayor has said he would not subscribe to the Liberty Loan because he did not wish to aid the army. I say that men who are able to buy bonds and do not subscribe to the Liberty Loan are unfit to live under the American flag and American free institutions And yet Hillquit dares to ask for the suffrage of American citizens.

"Things have come to a pretty pass when we hear our President described by soapbox orators as Kaiser Wilson, and it is because we permit such disgraceful things that we are compelled to tell of the advantages of Liberty bonds as an investment. If we did not allow such speeches the Liberty Loan would have been oversubscribed on the day the issue was made public."

'WHEATLESS WEDNESDAY.'

New York Hotels Serve Corn and Rye Breads and Patrons Enjoy Them

New York hotels observed wheatless Wednesday yesterday, and wheat bread and foods made from white flour were banished from the menus. Some hotels even omitted soups and gravies that required flour to thicken. As a general rule the patrons entered willingly into the spirit of the day and accepted corn and rye bread. At breakfast there was a run on corn flakes and oatmeal. The Hotel Association reported that 224 of 225 members had observed the no-wheat rule.

Old-fashioned johnny cake, prepared according to a secret recipe by Steward Harry Bigg, was the wheatless feature at the Park Avenue hotel. It was served first at breakfast, and was such a success that it was kept on the menu all day.

Rye and corn were featured at the McAlpin, Claridge, and the Biltmore. Rye flour was used in pastries. Besides banishing wheat flour the chef at the Waldorf-Astoria used hominy for thickening, and camouflaged the pastry with rye flour.

ANTI-GARY STRIKERS MAY BE EXPELLED

WILLCOX BLAMES POLITICS

Says Propaganda Was Started Suddenly at Election Time to Discredit Administration.

The strikes of public school pupils were the subject of animated discussion at the meeting of the Board of Education yesterday. President Willcox said that the recent disturbances in elementary schools had been the natural outcome of a systematic campaign of misrepresentation and appeals to class prejudice and suspicions regarding the Gary schools.

Gary, or duplicate, schools, Mr. Willcox declared, had been operating in New York for three years with apparent satisfaction to the great majority of parents and pupils affected, but within the last year evidence had been accumulating indicating a systematic propaganda directed against the "Gary" plan, but in reality against the present Board of Education and the present city administration.

Anti-Gary associations, he added, with interlocking officers and Directors, had been organized and meetings had been held in various parts of the city at which statements had been made about the schools, which had not only been untrue but had also been of such a character as to mislead and to inflame the more ignorant members of the community.

After the Board had appointed a Committee on Publicity to explain the Gary schools, he declared, the Parents' School Betterment League had issued a warning to all parents' associations that the holding of such meetings was likely to cause grave trouble and perhaps riot and disorders.

"The prophecies of this league," he said, "were fulfilled remarkably soon. It should be noted that the disorder did not affect the Gary schools alone. Those schools were most seriously concerned where the children came from Jewish families, and a number of schools, not operating on the duplicate plan, were scenes of disturbances during the last week. It is not too early to state the opinion that these riots were instigated by outside influences."

John Whalen, Chairman of the High School Committee, told of the hearing granted by it to the pupils of the high schools. He said that briefs would be filed by the pupils with the committee on next Monday. He had informed the boys and girls that the Board of Education was always willing to listen to just grievances, but that it did not intend to let the pupils dictate its policies.

Walter H. Gilpatric offered a resolution that public school children, who absent themselves from school for an organized movement against the school, its administration, and its policies, shall, if 16 years of age or over, be suspended or expelled at the discretion of the Superintendent of Schools, and, if under 16, shall be regarded as guilty of truancy, and proceeded against under the compulsory education law. The resolution was adopted.

John Martin reported progress from the Committee on the Gary System. He read a statement of the general features of the Gary plan, and moved that the Board adopt them. This was carried with seven dissenting votes.

There were no strikes in the elementary schools yesterday, nor were there any disturbances in the high schools. Several hundred students were missing from their classrooms at De Witt Clinton High School, Tenth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, and more than 200 of them appeared before John W. Davis, Director of the Bureau of Attendance, and explained to him the reasons for their absence.

Most of the absentees asserted that they had not intended to strike, but had joined with their comrades on being urged. All but two promised to return to school, and these two will have to explain to Magistrate Appleton tomorrow in the Municipal Building their objections to attending high school.

Director Davis received yesterday from one of the boy strikers a mimeographed copy of a letter signed by Professor J. McKeen Cattell, recently dismissed from Columbia University. With the letter was a blank membership application in the "Halquit Nonpartisan Committee of 1,000 for the Children of New York and Their Schools."

Mrs. George W. Bacon, Chairman of the Subcommittee on Gary Schools of the Women's City Club, will show motion pictures of the Gary schools tomorrow night at the Park Avenue Hotel. Mrs. Bacon said yesterday that Japan has the Gary schools, England is sending a commission here to investigate the plan, and cities other than New York have adopted it.

Thomas W. Churchill issued a statement last night charging Mayor Mitchel and the Board with having thwarted efforts he (Mr. Churchill) began six weeks ago to have the public correctly informed about the Gary school experiment. He said official steps had been taken to make it easier to distort the facts than to tell the truth, and that President Willcox of the Board delayed two weeks appointing a committee to make the real situation public, and then appointed a partisan committee to conduct a political propaganda. Mr. Churchill characterized as "grossly false" Mr. Mitchel's assertion that 700,000 children in 1913 had no place to play in the street, declaring that records of the Board for 1914 showed a total attendance at athletic fields of 528,000 and the operation of athletic centres in twenty-one schools.

SEEK MORE SINN FEINERS.

Secret Service Compiling Seized Documents of Irish Rebellion.

Another Sinn Feiner, who escaped from Ireland to this country after the Dublin uprising of Easter, 1916, is being sought by the Secret Service. He participated in the Sinn Fein conferences in New York at which the proposed 1918 Irish uprising was plotted and is said to have been here only a few days ago. Like Dr. McCarton and "General" Mellowes, who are under arrest, this man tried to get back to Ireland under an assumed name and a fraudulent American seaman's passport.

Secret Service agents were busy yesterday on documents found in the apartments of Mellowes, Baron von Recklinghausen, who, it is said, was commissioned by Bernstorff to represent Berlin in the Sinn Fein plots, and another man, who is under arrest, but whose name is withheld. The Secret Service report is expected to reveal the complete official record of Sinn Fein activities for three years.

A number of Irish-Americans, who have gained publicity through pro-German and anti-English activities, conferred with the plotters several times in the last few weeks, and Mellowes and McCarton, who is under arrest at Halifax, have admitted intimacy with these agitators.

Baron von Recklinghausen, who is in the enemy alien prison camp on Ellis Island, was examined at length by Federal agents yesterday, but he is said to have divulged little. Recklinghausen has for years enjoyed a reputation as an efficiency engineer, and is said to have never permitted an opportunity to pass to assert his friendship for the United States.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 24—Canadian authorities refused today to say what disposition would be made of Dr. Patrick McCarten, held as a fugitive from justice for complicity in the Dublin riots and Sinn Fein activities in the United States.

LIBERTY DAY IN CAMP.

Troops at Spartanburg Celebrate—Milton Francis Injured.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 24.—With $1,462,950 already invested in Liberty bonds, the soldiers of the Twenty-seventh Division today celebrated Liberty Loan day with a big athletic meet which attracted thousands from the surrounding countryside. About 15,000 soldiers took part in the various events and the program was arranged so that regiment was pitted against regiment, each unit entering a football team, a baseball nine, and quotas in each event.

A feature of the celebration was a band concert given by five bands directed by Bandmaster Matt of the One Hundred and Seventh Infantry. While Milton Francis, formerly of Squadron A but now in the One Hundred and Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, was participating in the bridle and saddle race he was thrown and severely injured. At the base hospital it was said that Francis had sustained a fractured leg and internal injuries. He was formerly a jockey.

TORPEDO PASSED UNDER.

American Steamship Escaped Damage by Being High Out of Water.

How an American steamship escaped being sunk by a torpedo in the Mediterranean through being high out of the water was related yesterday by the officers when the vessel reached an Atlantic port. When the steamship was two days out from an Italian port, the officers said, and was nearing the Straits of Gibraltar, a torpedo was discovered heading for the ship. All aboard braced themselves for the shock of the explosion. The torpedo reached the steamship about 40 feet from the bow, but nothing happened. A moment later hte lookout in the crow's nest shouted: "There she goes, away to the starboard."

The torpedo had passed under the keel.

THE LESSON OF THE SUBMARINE

THE submarine now on public view in Central Park was formerly the UC-5 of the German Navy. It was captured by the British in April, 1916.

The submarine is an American invention, intended for the purposes of legitimate warfare.

The Germans have seen fit to use it for the purposes of piracy, the destruction of neutral ships, the slaughter of non-combatants who are powerless to protect themselves, the ruthless murder of women and children.

America has gone to war against the nation which has persisted, against all remonstrances, in employing the submarine for such illegitimate, inhuman uses.

Our soldiers and sailors are going across the sea to make an end of the use of the submarine as a weapon of piracy and whole sale murder; to avenge American men, women and children who were sunk without warning and without mercy; to make sure that our beloved America is not invaded and devastated—our men enslaved and our women outraged; to save civilization and establish liberty throughout the world.

The word which the UC-5 brings to you is this: Stand behind your Government in its hour of stress. Back up your soldiers with your money. Buy Liberty Bonds so that they may not fight at a disadvantage and shed their blood in vain. They will win this war for humanity, home and flag if you help—they cannot win unless you help.

The UC-5 has been re-christened "U-Buy-a-Bond." How many bonds can you buy?

Go to your bank today and place your surplus funds in the best investment on the market—U. S. Government Liberty Loan Bonds!

Your Mind Is Made Up

LET us sum up. The United States is at war. Americans make war with all they have—every man and every dollar.

The man power of America is enlisted. The Government now asks for money to make these men effective—to help them to victory and a safe home-coming.

Bonds save lives. We do not argue, therefore, as to whether we should take bonds. The only possible question is: How many bonds?

The answer must be: As many as each man or woman can possibly subscribe for.

DELAY COSTS LIVES---THE LIVES OF OUR OWN SONS

THE UNDERSIGNED BANKS PLEDGE THEMSELVES to make loans on the 4% Government Bonds at the same rate of interest paid to you by the Government. Such loans will not interfere with any borrower's regular line of credit. We urge every bank in the United States to do likewise.

CAMP TENTS FALL AS GALE HITS CITY

COSTLY YACHTS WRECKED

Wind Dislodges Bricks, Causing Minor Injuries to Many—Outside Wire Service Impaired.

Sweeping down the Atlantic Coast at a velocity ranging from 40 to 75 miles an hour, a northwest wind, accompanied by rain, caused many accidents in the city early yesterday. Dislodged bricks and falling flower pots injured many walking in the streets.

At Camp Mills, Mineola, L. I., between forty and fifty tents were blown down while their soldier occupants were asleep. Most of the overturned tents belonged to officers, their square shapes catching and holding the wind. The Y. W. C. A. tent also collapsed. Fifteen tents of the hospital unit were blown down, and the occupants were removed to the wooden hospital nearby. The Y. M. C. A. tent at Camp Merritt, at Dumont, N. J., was also blown over.

Yacht clubs along the Sound suffered severely. The damage to private craft which were blown ashore Tuesday night at the North Beach Yacht Club in Flushing Bay was estimated by Commodore Henry Dorfkirch at more than $80,000.

Although in New York City the wind only reached a velocity of sixty miles an hour for a few minutes during the entire day, it caused many minor accidents in the streets. While Mrs. Lena Shapiro of 84 Monroe Street was passing 255 Broome Street shortly after midnight a large flowerpot came hurtling down upon her from an upper story window sill. It struck her on the shoulder and knocked her to the pavement. She was taken to Gouverneur Hospital, but later was able to go home.

While Joseph Sabia of Saw Mill Road, Yonkers was passing 2,335 Broadway on his way to work several bricks were blown down upon him from a half-completed building. His scalp was cut.

When Charles Clinton, an oil producer with offices at 48 Park Place, was descending the elevated railway steps at Park Place and Church Street yesterday morning he slipped on the rain-soaked stairway and his scalp was cut.

Blinded by the wind-swept rain, many automobilists and pedestrians failed to see each other, and accidents to the latter resulted. Charles Schlegel of 526 West Twenty-ninth Street, a driver for the McDermott Natural Milk Company, was crawling out from under his vehicle after having repaired it when he was struck by the automobile of B. S. Mendelson of 438 East Twenty-third Street. His head was cut open.

When Patrolman Joiner of the Morrisania Police Station went on duty in front of Public School 35, at Morris Avenue and 163d Street, he noticed that the flagpole on the roof of the schoolhouse was swaying violently in the stiff wind. With the Principal and janitor of the school, he took the children from the classrooms to the top floor. Soon after the pole snapped off and fell to the street.

Telephone and telegraph officials said that, although the storm had caused no damage to their wires in the city, because they are underground, considerable damage had been done to wires outside the city. Communication with a number of other cities was temporarily cut off during the day, but in every case the trouble was rectified as quickly as possible. All the important outside circuits were kept clear.

The overhead feed wires of the Union Railway, at 149th Street and Third Avenue, were blown down during the day, and traffic was held up at that point for twenty minutes.

The wind varied in velocity from twenty to sixty miles an hour in this city, according to Weather Bureau figures. At Sandy Hook it reached sixty-four miles an hour, and at Long Branch seventy-five miles an hour. Today will be fair and cold, with moderate west winds. The temperature may fall as low as freezing. The mercury fell to 28 degrees at Atlanta yesterday, the Bureau report shows. This is the coldest ever recorded in that city in October.

City Island was in darkness last night when the electric light wires along the Bay Street automobile road were blown down. In the highest tide that was ever recorded on the island thirty motor boats and many schooners and yawls were washed ashore. At Jane's boathouse in Westchester fifteen launches were carried in on the mud flats. On Pelham Parkway the wind blew down many trees across the road.

At Classon Point dwellers upon twelve moored motor boats woke up yesterday morning to find that the tide had risen so high overnight that instead of being able to walk ashore along the mud flats, they were separated from the land by a quarter of mile of water. Boatmen brought them ashore.

At Rye Beach, near Port Chester, it was estimated that about $10,000 damage to boats and houses resulted from the storm.

Several hundred feet of railroad track of the Jersey Southern Railway was washed away near Sea Bright, N. J. The gale broke the wires of an electric company at Longport, near Atlantic City, and several Summer residences were destroyed, with an estimated loss of about $25,000.

PAINLEVE'S CHANGES FAIL TO WIN APPROVAL

Dropping of Foreign Minister Ribot Criticised — Premier Abandoned Original Plan.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The press receives with anything but enthusiasm the effort of Premier Painlevé to escape from his difficulties by the change in the foreign portfolio. It is not expected that the present Cabinet will remain in power for any great length of time, and on the part of many it is not wished for.

The Socialists and Radicals have decided to continue to support the Ministry, but the Unified Socialists, who also held a meeting, were noncommittal. The Premier apparently does not intend to appoint another Minister of State in place of J. Louis Barthou, who yesterday was appointed Foreign Minister, so that the Ministry will be reduced from 19 to 18 members. This has aroused some comment, for it is known that the Premier's first intention was a drastic readjustment with an increase in the number of Ministers. Several of the new members were to have been Socialists. It was only when he was dissuaded from such action by various leaders whom he consulted and by the refusal of Rene Viviani and Albert Thomas to join the Cabinet that he decided to confine himself to replacing M. Ribot in the Foreign Office.

The choice of M. Barthou is welcomed unreservedly only by the most moderate commentators. The Gaulois recalls that it was M. Barthou's energy and sagacity which forced Parliament to pass the three-year military service bill in 1913, which is the reason why his appointment is displeasing to the radicals. Another ground for complaint is the treatment of M. Ribot.

"Premier Painlevé has shown initiative and courage which leave us all the more free to point out to him that the manner in which M. Ribot has been thrown overboard is a manoeuvre which puts the whole Cabinet in an equivocal position," says the Figaro. "Public opinion does not grasp the meaning of this action, and will seek to find what lies behind it. If no explanation is found one which is more serious will be imagined."

Deputy Victor Augagneur announces that he will interpellate the Government in the Chamber of Deputies tomorrow as to the reasons which led Premier Painlevé to part with M. Ribot.

The Painlevé Ministry resigned Monday, but at the request of President Poincaré decided to remain in office, with the exception of Foreign Minister Ribot. The foreign portfolio was taken by J. Louis Barthou, Minister of State and member of the War Council.

ARMY SEEKS 20,000 AIRMEN.

Rate of Enlistment Slow Because of Exacting Requirements.

Efforts are being made at the headquarters of the Eastern Department to speed up the rate of enlistments in the aviation service. Twenty thousand men are needed to man the great air fleet which the War Department intends to send to Europe, and only one-tenth of that number has been recruited thus far. Although the flying corps attracts many applicants before the examining board each day, the physical and mental requirements are exacting and fully 50 per cent. of the applications received are rejected.

An official in charge of recruiting for the aviation section denied yesterday that candidates were subjected to any nerve-wracking tests as had been frequently reported. He said the examination was a scientific one, calculated solely to ascertain the applicant's physical condition and his powers of endurance. Absolutely perfect eyesight was required. In all other respects, however, the examination was one which any man in excellent physical condition could pass, provided he met the requirements as to height and weight.

Candidates for commissions as flying officers in the aviation section must be at least 19 years old and preferably not more than 30, although in exceptional cases older men of pronounced athletic attainments who have spent most of their lives out of doors, in the saddle, ranching, &c., may be accepted if they can satisfy the Examining Board of their physical fitness. Candidates for commissions must have college training or its equivalent. Applicants will not be recommended who are not in every way qualified and fitted to become officers of the United States Army.

All candidates are enlisted in the Signal Corps or the Signal Enlisted Reserve Corps. This service will actually hold them for the period of training which covers the course at the schools of military aeronautics (ground schools) and at the aviation or flying school up to the time when, having passed the tests for a reserve military aviator or junior military aviator as required by the Chief Signal Officer, they are commissioned. If they fail they will be discharged from the Signal Corps and revert to their former status. Failure to qualify for a commission will not exempt from the draft law.

Would Draft Aliens in Connecticut.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Governor Holcombe of Connecticut protested to President Wilson today that since about 60,000 of the 160,000 draft registrants in his State are aliens and not subject to army service, the burden on the American population is excessive. He urged a reduction of quotas or the drafting of aliens. The President promised to discuss the situation with Secretary Baker.

Will Use Liberty Motors Only.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Liberty airplane motor has met every requirement in actual trials, and while various foreign-made motors have been offered to the Government, there is no present intention of using any other than the Liberty motors for American production. This statement was made today at the Navy Department in answer to reports that a foreign motor had been offered which navy officials considered better and implying that some friction had developed between the navy and the Aircraft Production Board.

Blood Poverty

Thin, sluggish blood saps the energy, weakens the general health, stunts the ambition, and brings on anemia, a disease the gravity of which is not properly realized outside the medical profession.

Rich, red blood keeps you well and vigorous, it gives you the courage to try and the strength to achieve. Some of the indications of an anemic condition are paleness, listlessness, indifferent appetite, unrefreshing sleep, and a general run-down feeling. If these symptoms are not accompanied by fever, you are not seriously ill, but you do need a good tonic to prevent becoming so.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

"The Red Blood Builder"

is a true tonic. It restores physical power by creating thousands of new, rich, red blood cells, and by putting goodly amounts of iron in the blood. Blood that is strong in iron and rich in red cells drives out poisons and waste matter. It brings color to the cheeks, sparkle to the eye, and renewed vigor to every part of the body.

Start a course of Pepto-Mangan today; its good results will be soon noticed unless you have a serious organic disease. Pepto-Mangan does not look nor taste like medicine. It cannot disturb the most delicate stomach or injure the teeth.

Friendly Warning: As there are many imitations, insist upon the genuine—Gude's Pepto-Mangan, never sold in bulk; found only in bottles and packages as pictured here. Read circular around bottle. For sale by all druggists.

Soldiers Win Battles

Wealth Wins Wars

IT has been said that while battles may be won by bullets and bayonets, wars never are. Money wins wars. The United States is the richest of all nations. It should therefore be mathematically certain that we will win this war if our citizens are willing to save and buy Liberty Bonds for the benefit of their Government. Can we permit our soldiers or sailors to be sacrificed needlessly when we can protect their lives, win battles and shorten the war if we buy Liberty Bonds now? Liberty Bonds are the safest of all bonds, are assured of the most stable market, have a maximum loan value.

What Is the Price of Your Patriotism?

The Germans who thought that France was decadent—that England would not fight—are fond of saying that American patriotism is a dollar patriotism.

In one sense our patriotism is of the dollar variety. It has already manifested itself in billions of dollars, and it is going to show itself in billions of dollars more and in as many billions as may be needed.

The typical American attitude on this war is that we are in it and we are going to win it and we do not care how much it costs.

Isn't that pretty much the way you feel about it?

Every dollar that you can put in is going to increase your pride in yourself and your country. Every bond that you can buy is going to give your eyes that same glow of exultation that you see in the eyes of the men who are going to fight.

You men and women who are not going to the front must stay at home and perform a high duty. It is the duty of earning and giving the money which will provide the fighting men with what they need, provide it amply and provide it quickly.

Buy as many of the bonds of the Second Liberty Loan as you think you can pay for.

When you do this you perform a triple service for your country. First, you lend your country the money that it needs.

Second, you divert this money from the useless expenditure which you are urged to avoid.

Third, you make a safe, sound and profitable investment and add your quota to the general thrift of the American Nation.

The fact that you have already bought a bond is all the more reason why you should buy another. The soldier who engages in one successful battle does not expect to cease fighting because of that fact. No more should you who have bought one bond feel that you have accomplished your full duty.

DE ORO INCREASES HIS LEAD WITH CUE

FORTUNE FAVORS CUBAN

In the play for the three-cushion billiard championship at Leonard Hewison's Academy last night Alfredo De Oro, the title holder, further increased his lead over the challenger, John Daly, so that the score for the two nights' play now stands at 100 to 83. The first 50-point block of the 150-point match went to the Cuban, with the score 50 to 43, and last night De Oro asserted his superiority by 50 to 40.

The score of last night's match, however, hardly gives an accurate estimate of conditions. De Oro at one time, and that not far from the close of the contest, appeared to be making a runaway match of the event. He led at 42 to 25, and it seemed that only a few more innings would be necessary to afford such a commanding advantage over Daly that the final 50-point match tonight would be nothing more than a mere formality. In danger of an overwhelming defeat, Daly improved and for a time he threatened to overhaul his rival. There is no doubt but that good fortune was with De Oro in the early innings; in fact, for three-quarters of the match he was benefited by favorable rolling of the ivories. Then suddenly, when he was near the end, conditions changed, and Daly, a veteran campaigner, clicked off the points with such regularity that De Oro's advantage dwindled to the danger point.

De Oro seemed unable to pass the mark of 43. Inning after inning went by and still he clung to that total, while Daly was amassing points rapidly. For eleven consecutive innings the Cuban player made a point, while his opponent without long runs steadily increased his total. From the fifty-eighth to the seventieth inning Daly made 13 points, and the score than stood 43 to 37 in favor of De Oro. Daly, however, could not hold his opponent helpless indefinitely by leaving difficult shots, and De Oro finally broke the spell of ill omen and came through to victory with a cluster of prettily executed carroms.

When it is said that fortune was with De Oro there is not meant that he played a lucky game. The Cuban showed a mastery that was convincing of his right to be a leader among three-cushion billiardists. On the other hand, Daly assuredly did play in hard luck. Where De Oro would make a shot by the proverbial hair, Daly would miss by the same measure of distance, and the misses were disconcerting. In the early game he showed by his nervousness the effect of the unfortunate shots that appeared to be going true and then veered off when the carrom was about to be completed.

It is true that part of Daly's ineffectiveness was caused by the safety play of his opponent. De Oro did not play deliberate safeties, but many times he could not have made the leaves more difficult had his attention been more directly centred on safety than on the point. The Cuban always appeared to be playing with the three objects in mind, the point, safety, and position for himself should he complete the carrom. So well did he attain his object that Daly's game was completely broken up.

METZGER GIVES NEW PLAYS.

W. and J. Coach Also Drills Backs in Forming Interference.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Penn., Oct. 24.—Snow and rain and a slushy field stopped all football practice at Washington and Jefferson today, the field drill being supplanted by a long blackboard session tonight, in which special attention was given to instruction to the backs in forming interference, the lack of skill in which was Washington and Jefferson's weakest feature against Penn State. Coach Metzger also gave the men some new plays and formations on the board and will work these out in field practice later.

It was announced tonight that left tackle Henry will not play against Geneva on Saturday, it having developed that he cracked a rib last Saturday. Wimberly, left guard, and Brown, right tackle, will also be kept out of this game on account of injuries and saved for the Pitt clash on Nov. 10.

Bowdoin Harriers Lead in Mud.

DURHAM, N. H., Oct. 24.—Bowdoin College runners defeated the New Hampshire College team in the cross-country event here today, 23 to 34. The time over the rain-soaked course of 4½ miles was 26:40 4-5.

FRICK FIRST IN SPECIAL.

Local Half-Mile Champion Opens Indoor Season by Beating Good Field.

Running one of the best races of his career, Eddie Frick, the fleet-footed half-mile champion of the metropolitan district, last night carried the Winged Foot emblem of the New York A. C. home in front in the 660-yard special scratch race, the feature of the opening indoor games of the season, held at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, last night. The veteran clearly showed his superiority over a field of some of the best middle-distance runners in this district, among them being Mike Devaney of the Millrose A. A. holder of the national half-mile title.

Eddie Renz, New York A. C., fifteen-mile national walking champion, and Willie Plant, Long Island A. C., local champion, set out to erase the record for the three-quarter-mile walk, but failed. They covered the distance in 4:58 4-5, with Renz leading by fifteen yards. The record is 4:40⅘.

A military air was lent the games, which were to secure funds for the soldiers' tobacco fund, with drills and an exhibition of bayonet fighting by the lads in khaki, and these were intermingled with athletic competitions for the enlisted men. The military feature was the hand-grenade-throwing contest, which resulted in a victory for Sergeant J. T. Haley of Fort Slocum, with 33 points.

ONLY 15 TIGERS REPORT.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—Unless there is a considerable increase in the number of candidates for the Princeton informal eleven there will not be much chance that an attempt will be made to arrange contests with Harvard or Yale this Fall. Coach Rush held his first practice this afternoon in anticipation of the game with the team of former college stars from Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J., which is to be played on Saturday, and there were about fifteen candidates out. Rush put them through a brief drill in which several plays which will be used on Saturday were developed and then began to lay plans to turn out a larger squad for tomorrow.

A canvass will be made of the campus this evening in order to get more men to report. The players who have a desire to play a schedule this Fall know that unless more men report there will not be much chance of there being any more contests. It is generally regarded as likely that the Faculty Committee on Outdoor Sports will give consent to other games if there is sufficient interest.

Archibald to Ride in Austria.

PLAN FOR ELEVEN AT YALE DROPPED

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 24.—After the attempts of two days to establish a football squad at Yale, it has been decided to abandon the plan for the present. The fact that less than twenty candidates reported yesterday for the first practice under the proposed regime led to a general attempt today to secure more material.

Practically none was found, and Professor Robert Corwin said tonight that for the present hope for arranging games must be abandoned. Yale has received challenges from the camps at Westfield, Ayer, and Plattsburg, as well as from several universities, although something of a very informal nature may be scheduled before the season closes. An upper class squad will be kept in training to afford the freshman eleven practice, but the 1921 class players are so much a stronger combination that the upper classmen are not a satisfactory team of opponents.

Professor Corwin said tonight: "There is no wish of the college to have football given up, and no question of the spirit of the college behind the eleven, but there is too little material to attempt to form an eleven under present conditions. The university has been canvassed and a great dearth of players has been disclosed."

Today's decision was reached after a meeting of the student council, the Faculty, and the football association representatives. The freshman squad will continue its schedule and will probably remain the only Yale eleven in the field this Fall.

SCRIMMAGE AT FORDHAM.

The Fordham eleven had a hard workout for the Rutgers game yesterday, when the 'Varsity and scrub teams engaged in a forty-minute tussle. The field was in a soggy condition, but as it was the first scrimmage of the week the players needed the work to fit them for Saturday's clash. To test the plays that have been gone through the last two days in the signal drills, the regulars were put on the offensive throughout the scrimmage. Although the scrub team fought hard, the 'Varsity succedeed in getting a pair of touchdowns, Brennan and Erwig carrying the ball over the line on straight plays. Yesterday's drill was not secret.

A long signal drill preceded the scrimmage. Part of this workout took on the form of a dummy scrimmage, when the players carried the plays against a set of forwards without any tackling being attempted. Christianson, regular left tackle, was still unable to get in a uniform, although Trainer Webber expects he will be able to play against Rutgers. Frisch, the star back, was put into yesterday's scrimmage, and showed that he is in good condition. Golden had a long trial at centre yesterday, and may supplant Crowley on Saturday.

Fordham is looking forward to a hard game with Rutgers, and Coach McCaffery is bending every effort to strengthen the weak spots of the Maroon team. The Bronxmen are not well fortified with substitutes, as there were only enough men on the field yesterday to make two elevens. Muldoon and Abbott played well for the scrubs.

COMISKEY THANKS McGRAW.

Expresses Appreciation of Congratulations from Giants' Manager.

After the world's series, Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants sent Owner Charles A. Comiskey of the White Sox a telegram of congratulation. The Old Roman sent back to the Giants' manager the following letter yesterday:

"I was inexpressibly delighted to receive your splendid telegram of congratulations, and it made me feel happy and proud, indeed, to know of your sincere feeling toward me.

"This world's series was, without question, the greatest of them all. Had the White Sox been vanquished, I know of no one to whom we would have bowed down in defeat rather than to John McGraw of the New York Giants."

N. Y. U. REHEARSES PLAYS.

The perfection of open work plays and drill on a few new formations formed the major part of the practice for the New York University football team yesterday. Coach Wall had the team go through all the plays which he intends using against the heavy Union team on Saturday. Emphasis was placed on forward pass and kick formations.

In the scrimmage the 'Varsity was drilled in protecting the kicker of a punt in order to avoid the repetition of an incident like that of last Saturday, when a blocked kick resulted in a defeat for the Violet. In the scrimmage Coach Wall paid much attention to Baker, a new half back, whom he is developing. Although green, Baker yesterday displayed speed and drive. The new plays tried out yesterday were the ones Coach Wall brought back from Boston after watching Brickley's system at Boston College. By means of them the regulars managed to do some effective ground gaining against the freshmen.

Yesterday's squad was not as large as on previous days because a good many of the squad were out selling Liberty bonds. Billo, who played a creditable game at guard in the R. P. I. game and was hurt shortly after, was out for the first time yesterday, but his pulled tendon kept him out of the scrimmage. Fiedelbaum, who played part of Saturday's game at half back, received an injury which has since developed into a pulled tendon, and he is expected to be out of the lineup for several weeks.

COLUMBIA LOSES MILLER.

Quarter Back Wires That War Duties Will Prevent Return.

Coach Metcalf received a telegram yesterday from Howard Miller at New port, stating that he saw no possibility of his return to Columbia this Fall, owing to his war duties. Miller was the best quarter back that the Blue and White has had and a remarkable dropkicker. In the game with Union last Saturday he scored on two attempts, one from the thirty-six-yard line and the other from the forty-yard mark.

Rosen has been shifted to quarter and Healy to centre, with Galvan at guard. This lineup was used for a part of the two-hour drill in the Columbia University gymnasium. Later Dal Cochran was changed to half back, Healy went in at full, and Sam Weinstein took Cochran's position on the right wing. Metcalf showed the scrub team how to run several of the Williams formations and then sent them against the 'Varsity in dummy scrimmage to give the latter practice in solving the New Englanders' trick plays. In addition, the 'Varsity tried out some of their new "psychological" formations and succeeded in gaining several theoretical touchdowns. This afternoon Boys' High School will send an eleven to South Field to give the freshmen their last scrimmage before the game with Hotchkiss, which is scheduled for Saturday at Lakeville, Conn. The yearling team did not report yesterday.

RUTGERS LINE IS STRONG.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 24.—Coach Sanford put the Rutgers squad through another long, hard drill today in preparation for Saturday's game with Fordham. The 'Varsity was on the defensive most of the time, and the result was very satisfactory. The line is developing a truly Sanford type of defense, that which beats up stream. Emphasis was also laid on the defense against forward passes, and the fast back field proved very able to cope with this style of attack. Neuschaffer, who has been shifted to left tackle, is showing strong defensive play.

It is very difficult these days to get sufficient time for practice, as the men do not get out of their classrooms until 4:30 and practice continues long after dark. The work of the rest of the week will be light, so that all the men will be in the best of shape on Saturday.

NATURALIST FIRST ON MUDDY TRACK

LAUREL, Oct. 24.—A heavy rainstorm played havoc with the racetrack today and caused most of the crack thoroughbreds to be withdrawn from the Elliott City Handicap, which was the feature of the card. Westy Hogan was asked to concede big handicaps over the mile and a sixteenth, but the spectators were deprived of the opportunity to see whether he could carry his speed that far. The champion three-year-old filly, Sunbonnet, Ticket, and other high-class horses were scratched, leaving only five to go to the post.

J. E. Widener's imported gelding Naturalist was at home in sloppy going, and taking the track early, cut out a pace that it was difficult for James Butler's Wistful, the other choice, to follow. Highland Lad kept close up with Naturalist in the early stages of the race, but when fairly in the stretch Keogh showed that Naturalist had something in reserve and came away to win handily. Wistful came with a great rush in the last quarter of a mile, but failed to get on terms with Highland Lad, which took the place by a narrow margin.

The Helter Skelter Steeplechase, for which $1,500 was added, was the only event that did not suffer materially from scratches, only Captain Parr being withdrawn. J. K. L. Ross's Welsh King, which won his last race, was the favorite, but Ben Wyvis, which made a track record at Aqueduct, also was well supported.

The heavy going dulled the speed of all the jumpers, but Ben Wyvis and Welsh King were in the front division most of the way. D. Raymond's Reddest was rated well behind the pace for the greater part of the two miles, and making his run on the back stretch came away to beat Ben Wyvis, while King Simon took third money from Welsh King.

MRS. BARLOW WINS EASILY.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—A gale of wind, and a downpour of rain did not deter the contestants from playing their matches in the second round of the Belle Steetman Bumm Memorial Cup golf tourney at the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club today.

As was expected Mrs. G. H. Stetson, Miss Mildred Caverly, Mrs. Caleb Fox, who won by default from Mrs. Burton Price, and Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow survived the round. With the exception of the match between Mrs. Barlow and Miss Elenor T. Chandler, the play was much closer than in the first round, for Mrs. Stetson defeated Mrs. G. S. Munson, 4 up and 3 to play, and Miss Caverly defeated Mrs. A. K. Bilstein, 3 up and 2 to play.

Mrs. Barlow got back to her true form in her match with Miss Chandler and won by the very wide margin of 8 up and 6 to play. As she played the first nine holes in 43 strokes, despite the gale, her easy victory is not at all surprising.

AMERICAN LEAGUE TO CUT SCHEDULE

Ban Johnson Announces Number of Games Will Be Reduced from 154 to 140.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24.—President Ban Johnson of the American League announced here today that the 1918 schedule would be cut from 154 to 140 games.

He said the season would begin about April 27 or May 1, and end the middle of September.

"I have always thought that 154 games were too many," said Mr. Johnson. "Each year I have contended that 140 games was the ideal schedule, but as the sentiment among the club owners did not seem to favor my idea, I never pressed the point. The shortening of next season is in no wise a war move, although I think the war provides a very good reason for inaugurating the plan.

"The details will be worked out at the annual meeting in Chicago. I do not think the shortening of the schedule will entail a reduction of the player limit.

"The new schedule will enable the teams to get a later start to training camps and this also will be a big factor, as it frequently has been too cold in the South to do much training when the teams arrived in February."

August Herrmann, Chairman of the National Commission and President of the Cincinnati Nationals, in a letter to a St. Louis newspaper, said he favored a 140-game schedule.

President Johnson denied that he had signed Miller Huggins, Manager of the St. Louis Nationals to manage an American League team next year.

Clermont Card Postponed.

The scheduled ten-round bout between Mike McTigue, the Irish middleweight, and Jeff Smith of Bayonne, N. J., which was to have been the feature of the card at the weekly boxing show of the Clermont S. C. of Brooklyn this evening, has been postponed for a week to allow the boxers more time to train for the contest. The Clermont S. C.'s next show will be held on Saturday night.

'THE TORCHES' WITH LESTER LONERGAN

FRENCH DRAMA ONCE MORE

Mme. Bouguet.....Amy Ricard
Dr. Paul Biondel.....John Sampolis
M. Hernert.....John S. O'Brien
Dr. Pravielle.....Harry Hadfield
Dr. Melinoff.....Jules Epailly
Dr. Joubert.....Hudson Liston
M. Herver.....Harry Huguenot
M. Horschfield.....Paul Doucet
M. Pelissier.....Richard Carlyle
Marcelle Bouguet.....Gladys Wynne

Because Henry Bataille's hero failed to tell a simple and rather unpleasant truth at the Bijou last night there followed three acts of the most painful misunderstanding which ended in his death. If only to avoid a like fatality, it is best to begin this report by admitting that the definite and absolute meaning of "The Torches" eluded the reporter.

"Les Flambeaux" are the stars; and they typify the ideal truth which is the high goal of science, the truth which shall make humanity free. Professor Bouguet's life has been devoted to it, until he has largely lost the sense of nearer and more human values in living. Though happily married to the partner in his researches, a sort of Mme. Curie, and loyally devoted to her, he has been caught in the meshes of a young woman's passion; and in the interest, as he thinks, of the higher truth and the more enduring happiness of all concerned, he lies about the affair to his wife and to their nearest professional associate, who marries the girl.

There were times when the play seemed to be saying that there are also stars in the human heart, and that all the achievements of science can teach us nothing better than to be true to them. But there were other times, and especially at the end, when the meaning appears to be that our nearer human instincts are the blind and passionate heritage from a brutal past. Both theses are tenable, if one adapts his dramatic facts to the purpose. Is scarcely credible that a French dramatist, and one as distinguished as Bataille, could lack clarity of thought or precision in expression. Those who failed to grasp a definite message are in the painful quandary of having to confess their own stupidity or to suspect the translator, Charlton Andrews, of suppressing essential parts of the dialogue.

The piece is a characteristic product of the ante-bellum French drama. In its portrayal of character it is at once subtle and salient, and it deploys intimate and nicely shaded phases of emotion with admirable skill. Except in the matter noted, it is clear and orderly in development, rising to highly dramatic crises of passion. If it seems unduly argumentative and self-analytical, that is perhaps as much due to a difference in French character as to a fault in French dramaturgy. To those who understood what it was really driving at, it must have seemed a typical example of the drama of ideas at its best.

The task of interpreting Parisian character does not rest lightly on the shoulders of English-speaking actors; but the cast was, on the whole, capable—far more so than one has had reason to expect. Mr. Lonergan has dignity and authority, and ably sustained the central character. As his wife Amy Ricard was intelligent and fine. Sara Biala played the younger woman of intense emotions with admirable vigor and fire.

There was not an amusing line or character in the play, and it is difficult to imagine that it will greatly appeal to local playgoers, except possibly as an occasion for the rare sport of hunting the idea.

'Broken Threads' at Fulton Monday.

"Broken Threads," a drama by Ernest Wilkes, will begin an engagement at the Fulton Theatre next Monday night. Cyril Keightley and Phoebe Hunt will head the cast, and the company also includes Robert Cummings, William Roselle, Guy Hitner, Harry Redding, Paul Stanton, William Pringle, and Florence Carpenter. The piece has been staged by Holbrook Blinn.

A LIBERTY BOND RECITAL.

Reinald Werrenrath turned his Liberty Day song recital at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon into a Liberty Bond selling bee, and with success as distinguished as his singing, which is saying much. The concert was about half over, when Mr. Werrenrath announced that two men from the Sub-Treasury were present to sell bonds and take subscriptions. A table was put out on the platform, which was decorated with Liberty Bond posters, and the audience was invited to step up and buy. It did so in large numbers, and at the end of about half an hour's intermission, Mr. Werrenrath announced that the people who came to hear a song recital without expectation of investing money had taken $20,650 of bonds.

Mr. Werrenrath's program had only songs in Italian, French, and English, but there was no lack of variety. Mr. Werrenrath's singing in itself affords an abundant variety, in his intelligent and musical interpolation of all the nuances of expression the music contained. His voice was at its richest and fullest, his style at its most finished. There were three fine old Italian songs by Sarri, Bononcini, (father of Handel's opponent,) and Legrenzi, to which he added Giordani's "Caro mio ben," all sung with an admirable realization of their true style. Of his French songs, Duparc's vehement and passionately accented "Manoir de Rosamonde," a delightful "Chanson" by Georges Taconet, a patriotic French air from Paindilhe's "Patrie," were notable.

Four songs by Gustave Ferrari, who was Mme. Guilbert's accompanist last season, and who is now conductor of "Chu Chin Chow," were much admired. Of these "Le Miroir," a wholly charming representation of mood and "A Hirondelle" were repeated, and then Mr. Werrenrath, with a word of explanation, sang a popular patriotic ballad by the same composer, who used snatches of American patriotic airs in the accompaniment. Some of Bainbridge Crist's "Chinese Mother Goose Rhymes," had quaint and humorous touches. There were other songs in English, including a setting by Bryceson Treharne of Christine Rossetti's noble "Song of France."

PATRIOT PAGEANT TONIGHT.

"The Drawing of the Sword," the patriotic pageant which recently was performed at Rosemary Open-Air Theatre, Huntington, L. I., and in Carnegie Hall, will be repeated at the Metropolitan Opera House tonight and tomorrow night. Practically the same cast as that which originally acted the pageant will again be seen, and the proceeds, as on the previous occasions, will be given to the Red Cross. The committee of patrons is headed by Mrs. Robert Bacon, and a long list of prominent persons have taken boxes for tonight's performance.

About 500 actors and actresses will participate in the pageant, among them Elsie Ferguson, E. H. Sothern, Maxine Elliott, Nat Goodwin, Edna Wallace Hopper, Frances Starr, Annette Kellermann, Hazel Dawn, Helen Ware, and Madge Kennedy.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "Miss 1917" at the Century, originally scheduled for next Monday night, is now announced for Monday, Nov. 5. It is also announced that the war tax on the 50-cent seats will be paid by the management. The sale of seats opens this morning.

Marie Doro will come to the Plymouth Theatre on Nov. 5 in "Barbara," a romantic fantasy by Florence Lincoln. It will be Miss Doro's first appearance on the legitimate stage in three years. She will be under the management of Arthur Hopkins.

George V. Hobart's farce, "What's Your Husband Doing?" will have its first performance next Monday night in Hartford.

The premiere of "The Land of Joy," coming to the Park Theatre, is now definitely announced for next Wednesday.

A new comedy by Harry James Smith, as yet unnamed, will soon be put into rehearsal by Cohan & Harris with Mary Ryan in the leading role. Others in the company will be Curtis Cooksey, Grace Carlisle, Edward Snader, Marie Haynes, James Gillen, Thomas Gillen, and Katherine Quinn.

Leo Ditrichstein's New York season, scheduled to begin next month, will be opened with "The King," and not as originally planned "The Judge of Zalamea." Mr. Ditrichstein is at present rehearsing "The King" in Chicago, where he is appearing in "The Judge of Zalamea."

"We Should Worry," a musical comedy made from "A Texas Steer," will have its first performance in Atlantic City tonight.

De Wolf Hopper will be Master of Ceremony at next Sunday night's performance for The Sun Tobacco Fund at the Hippodrome.

Marjorie Benton Cooke's novel, "Cinderella Jane," is being dramatized by Fred V. Green, Jr., and will be produced in the Spring.

THE PARALLEL.

RICHARD CROKER nominated ROBERT A. VAN WYCK for Mayor of New York in 1897, very much as CHARLES F. MURPHY has nominated Judge HYLAN this year. The Tammany organization had no more interest in VAN WYCK than it now has in HYLAN. SETH LOW was nominated by the Citizens Union that year and would have been elected but for the course taken by the Republicans in nominating ex-Secretary TRACY. VAN WYCK got 233,977 votes, LOW 151,540, TRACY 101,863, and HENRY GEORGE 21,603.

Before the Mazet Committee, appointed to investigate the corruptions of the Van Wyck administration, Mr. CROKER admitted that all the important city officials appointed by Mayor VAN WYCK were selected by him or his associates. Every member of the Tammany Executive Committee either held office or had an opportunity to make money through city contracts. Work costing the city more than $700,000 was given to these contractors without competitive bidding. In one year of the Van Wyck administration the payrolls in the important departments increased $1,500,000 and more than 1,000 new jobs were created.

The Ice Trust scandal was one of the incidents of the Van Wyck administration. It was shown that there was an agreement or conspiracy between the Ice Trust and the Dock Department to establish a monopoly of the business of supplying ice to the people of the city. By shutting out competition the Ice Trust was able to extort from its customers a very high price for ice. Mayor VAN WYCK testified before Judge GAYNOR that he had acquired 5,000 shares of the Ice Trust's stock, worth about $500,000, and he declared that he paid $57,000 in cash for these shares, but failed to produce proof of any such payment. Then there was the Ramapo water scandal. Our political District Attorney is making a great demonstration about the Rockaway Park land purchase, but the Ramapo Company sought to tap the City Treasury for $5,000,000 a year, although it was in no position to supply the volume of water for which it was ready to make a contract.

"I am working for my pocket all the time," said Mr. CROKER upon that occasion. The art of working for the Tammany pocket all the time has not been forgotten, the election of Judge HYLAN will create the long-coveted opportunity to practice that art. The city will groan and rage under scandals more flagrant and corruptions more rank than those of the Van Wyck administration.

The responsibility? It can be placed in advance, it will be concurrently placed and it will stick. The responsibility for giving CHARLES F. MURPHY the power to name the chief appointive officers of the City Government, of handing over to Tammany Hall the spending of $240,000,000 a year of the people's money, will rest upon the shoulders of WILLIAM M. BENNETT and the misguided Republicans who vote for him on the delusive theory of party regularity. Governor WHITMAN, Senator CALDER, Controller TRAVIS, and Commissioner KEACKE are as good exponents of party regularity as any Republican could ask for, and they are all supporting Mayor MITCHEL. They are going to vote for him.

PATENTS OWNED BY GERMANS.

At its recent semi-annual convention the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers by resolution earnestly urged our Government to take over, so long as the war shall continue, the dyestuff patents held here by German subjects. Such action was taken in England some time ago. The proposed confiscation would not involve injustice. Patented processes would be used by our manufacturers under leases, providing for such control and accounting as, in the words of the resolution, "will assure fair compensation to the present owners at the close of the war." Our Government is now about to take great sums due here to creditors and investors in Germany, with stores of cotton and metals bought by Germans before we entered the war. The value of what will be seized exceeds $200,000,000. Liberty bonds are to be bought with the money, and the other property will be sold or used under Government supervision. After the coming of peace Congress will say how the accounting shall be made. The owners will not be robbed, but this money and the products must now be used in war service. German patents should be added.

In the last three years a great dyestuffs industry has been created here, and its products take the place of those formerly imported from Germany. Of many dyes, the necessary kinds, we are making enough to satisfy the demand, and of some there is a surplus to be sold abroad. American chemists solved a very difficult problem. There are colors, however, for the production of which the German patented processes or formulas are required, and if what is covered by all the patents is made available, aid will be given to those who are now working without the use of them. The new industry will be permanent and successful if the patented field shall remain closed, but it should be opened, with proper safeguards, for the benefit of manufacturers and the American people. German owners, foreseeing just compensation for the use of property now idle, may not object to what is called confiscation, because that is a convenient term. Their disapproval, however, should have no weight with our Government. Manufacturers here should be permitted to use the patented processes.

LIBERTY LOAN LESSONS.

When the books close on the oversubscription of the Liberty Loan, Americans will have the smallest debt and highest credit of all peoples in their class. This is so markedly true that the effort which has been needed for the placing of so small a loan, speaking comparatively, has been imputed as a reproach to us. That is unjust for reasons which ought to be borne in mind by those who are interpreting our patriotism and our views on the war by our reception of a Government loan. Americans are the world's best earners. They are better savers than they are usually credited with being, but they are about the worst investors. They have been accustomed to waste many millions every year in wildcat adventures, partly because their temperament likes big risks and big profits, and partly because they never have had access to such first-class investments as other nations offer to their citizens. If a nation does not issue Government loans, its citizens can hardly be blamed for not taking them, or for being unacquainted with their superiority to other investments.

Among nations, the United States is distinguished by being the only one which has largely reduced its debt, and which issued its loans in forms not available for general investment. Our loans have been made specially attractive for banks as the basis of currency, and the banks have outbid the people for Government bonds. Our investors in bonds generally are numbered only by thousands, and in Government bonds by hundreds only, outside of the banks. Foreign nations start with millions of educated investors in Government issues, and with a greater volume of accumulated investment funds. Their national debts were known to be national blessings when they yielded less than 3 per cent. At 5 per cent. and more they seem to be an impossibly beautiful dream. To this was added the attraction of being weapons against enemies.

Less than a half year has sufficed to teach us to take two Liberty Loans, and future loans of the same sort will benefit by the instruction which is occasion of wonder for its success. We still have to expect and to take during the current financial year as many more bonds as those in the first two loans, unless Germany sooner collapses. It is unlikely, but it ought to appeal to those investors who like a long chance. If Germany should succumb, nothing is surer than that the flow of bonds would cease, while the demand for investment would increase. Under such conditions it is sure that the present loans would command a premium in short order. On the other hand, if more loans should be necessary, they would offer greater inducements to the investor. That is the invariable course in all countries. The present issues, therefore, offer the alternative either of a premium because there would be no more bonds or of a higher interest rate by exchange into later issues. Liberty Loan conversion signifies no sacrifice of security; it means a higher yield. Otherwise there is almost the assurance of a premium on the issue price equal to the aggregate returns from several years' interest.

Meanwhile there is hardly any use for money which the bonds will not serve as well as money. A clearer case of having your cake and eating it could hardly be made out. Americans are learning that what they are doing for the Government they are doing for themselves. They both fill their pockets and glow with conscious virtue by one and the same process. When the education sinks down into the generality of us there will be subscriptions dwarfing the oversubscription now closing. We hardly know we are at war yet. Before we are done the Kaiser will know how truly the country's wealth and manhood are behind the President's pledge to maintain the right, and Congress's declaration of war. The meaning of the loan is that Americans are not capable of being taught to be a subject race.

LABOR APPROVES THE GARY SYSTEM.

Political campaigning in this city never reached a lower depth, never resorted to baser or more dangerous and detestable methods than when the opponents of the Mitchel administration instigated rioting among the school children against the Gary system. The daily work in many schools was interrupted, discipline was destroyed, and immeasurable harm was done to the children themselves by persuasions to disorder and violence. And now, truth overtaking error with much more than her proverbial promptness, the instigators and abettors of the school riots are robbed of the fruits of their lawless labors, and the wind is completely taken out of the sails of those who opposed the Gary system by the report of some of the best known leaders of organized labor heartily indorsing the system.

TIMOTHY HEALY, HENRY W. BLUMBERG, JOHN KELLY, ROBERT M. CAMPBELL, THOMAS SERVICE, BENJAMIN E. MOORE, THOMAS BARRY, and JOHN E. KENNEDY are known to the workingmen of New York; they are the heads of some of the chief labor organizations of the city. Labor has confidence in their judgment and in what they say. These leaders of labor unions, of whom two were originally opposed to the Gary system, visited on Tuesday one of the schools where that system is practiced, and made their report on their observation of its working. This is what they say:

> After a visit today to Gary School 45 in the Bronx we are fully convinced that the Gary system is not opposed to the best interests of organized labor. There is nothing to indicate that the system is designed to "make workingmen out of the school children," as has been repeatedly charged. Neither can we detect "Rockefellerism" or the Steel Trust, either in the work-study-play principles of the system or in the actual operation of this typical Gary school. * * * The teachers, too, were a revelation, and expressed to us their enthusiasm for their work under the new system. We found that not only is as much time as formerly given to the academic studies, but the features of supervised play and manual training, interspersed through the more tiring study periods, add diversity and keep the children fresh and interested all the time. We are glad to give our hearty indorsement to the Gary system.

A great part of the whole case against the Gary system was the pretense that it was prejudicial to the interests of labor. The Tammany men and the Socialists who stirred up the riots professed to be deeply solicitous not only for the welfare of the children but for the interests of the workingmen. Now come these responsible spokesmen for labor with this declaration: "We are glad to give our hearty indorsement to the Gary system." That report ought to put a stop to the attempts to poison infant minds with the belief that methods of school management and instruction devised for their benefit, and demonstrably beneficial to them, were really forced upon the schools by evil-minded and designing persons of the Rockefeller Foundation and the Steel Trust. It ought, furthermore, to inspire the victims of this deception who happen to be voters to cast their ballot on Election Day for continuance in power of the Mitchel administration.

SINN FEIN REBELS.

The Irish Convention, representing all Irish interests and shades of opinion that desire a possible settlement of the age-long Irish question, was an object of hate to the revolutionists, the extremists, the men who dream of an independent Ireland, even by the aid of Germany, that unselfish, inveterate lover of freedom and small nationalities. The Easter attempt at revolution in 1916 was to have been repeated next Spring. German money, the co-operator or instigator of VON BERNSTORFF'S agent in the United States, the zeal of the few wrong-headed Americans of Irish descent who are willing to nurse their ancient grudges to the edge of treason, Irish rebels imported and Irish rebels domestic, forged passports—it is an old tale if the Turks with whom VON BERNSTORFF'S agent seems to have been associated be not a novel decorative touch. Germany and Turkey as the sponsors of Irish "freedom"! That is a sufficient criticism of this modern and cruel scheme to bring about riot, arson, and murder in Ireland again, to frustrate all hope of conciliation and practicable self-government.

"While we are in a state of war," Professor DE VALERA, perhaps the most conspicuous of the Sinn Fein leaders, says frankly—and the fact that he was elected to Parliament by the Sinn Feiners of East Clare makes his position more ominous—"England's enemies must be Ireland's friends." "Germany is the enemy of England, and England is my enemy," says ARTHUR GRIFFITHS, another illustrious Sinn Feiner. As the friends of Germany and the enemies of England, the Sinn Fein in Ireland and its abettors in the United States are necessarily the enemies of the United States. They are doing all in their power to beat the United States, whose cause cannot be separated from any of her associates in the war. The United States Secret Service has done another fine piece of work in discovering the proposed rebellion and its instigators here. The gravity of the crime calls for severe punishment. The Sinn Fein is seeking and helping to make war on the United States. The persons, some of them high placed in this country, who have had any sort of hand in this sinister business need to walk warily. America has an immediate interest in it.

While Ireland was unusually prosperous, largely on account of British legislation for her benefit; while the democracy of England and Scotland was eager to put away forever the secular Irish troubles and agreement among Irishmen of good-will was being sought, while the future polity of Ireland was discussed, while, in short, the settlement of the Irish question was left to Irish hands, men who mistake 1918 for 1798 have been working to prevent a peaceful solution, to blow hot the coals of insurrection, to become the dupes of the oppressor of Posen and Alsace-Lorraine, to revive civil war, to stab in the back the heroic Irish soldiers fighting against the common foe of liberty and democracy.

We know what answer CASEMENT got from the 2,500 Irish soldiers in Lemburg camp whom he tried to seduce into treason. He could win over but thirty, weaklings all, the number of the silver pieces in the fee of JUDAS. He was hooted out of camp. It is incredible that a brave and generous race is not misrepresented and belied by these dabblers in rebellion, these tools of Germany. Mr. JOHN QUINN, an eminent lawyer of this city who has studied profoundly Irish history, economy, literature, the Irish people in Ireland, said last Spring that "home rule in a generous measure would satisfy Irishmen generally in Ireland as well as in this country"; that "a country should not be judged by the doings of a comparatively few extremists or irreconcilables," and that "the great majority of Irish-Americans and of Americans of Irish descent have no interest in the talk about an independent Irish republic, but believe that Ireland's best interests lie in her remaining a part, and, may I add, always a prominent part, of the British Empire."

A glance at the map is enough to show that Great Britain can never consent, unless she becomes impotent and ruined, to an independent Ireland. "Under no conditions," said Mr. LLOYD GEORGE in Parliament, "will Great Britain permit anything" in the nature of the absolute separation and recession that the Sinn Feiners seek. It is impossible, and everybody knows it but the Sinn Fein.

THE NEW GERMAN INVASION OF RUSSIA.

The German operations among the large islands that lie between the Gulf of Riga and the Gulf of Finland have already resulted in the capture of 20,000 of the enemy, many guns and much equipment, but the check of the German naval forces by the inferior Russian fleet introduced a factor into the campaign that may seriously interfere with and perhaps thwart the German strategy. The escape of a squadron of Russian warships from Moon Sound was unexpected, and the losses sustained by the German investing fleet in an engagement that followed were of so severe a character as to indicate that the Russian fleet had been reinforced by a flotilla of British submarines. At any rate, it would be rash to make the calculation that the Germans are going to have their own way at sea in the movement against Petrograd.

It is significant that the sounds between Denmark and Sweden are being patrolled or guarded in great strength by German submarines and destroyers. This seems to portend naval operations on a large scale by German warships in the Gulf of Finland. An attack on Reval is expected by the Russians. Indeed, Admiral NEMITS fears that Reval may be taken this Winter. As a base for an advance by land forces on Petrograd it would seem to be indispensable to the Germans. It may be assumed that their fleet in the Baltic is strong in dreadnoughts and minor units, all that can be spared from Kiel. The situation calls for an attempt by Great Britain and her allies in northern waters to co-operate with the Russian Navy by forcing a passage into the Baltic from the west. That attempt may be made, and evidently the German Admiralty has made elaborate preparations for a naval battle. The enemy must be kept out of the Baltic if the German fleet is to force its way into the Gulf of Finland. In any event, the time for the stroke is brief, and the stars in their courses may be found fighting for the reconstructed and reinvigorated Russian Navy.

General BRUSILOFF and Admiral NEMITS agree that Petrograd is the real German objective. The Admiral thinks the situation is grave, and he foresees an advance on Petrograd in the Spring, after preliminary land and sea successes during the Autumn and Winter. General BRUSILOFF does not believe that the enemy will accomplish much so late in the year, and he is probably right. Cold weather will be due in Northern Russia by the middle of November, and but a little later the Gulf of Finland will be full of ice, the rivers will be frozen and the whole country snowbound. It is doubtful if the Germans can employ a large force in land operations on the road to Petrograd. The tremendous drives of PETAIN and HAIG on the western front are making such inroads upon the German reserves and the strategic situation is becoming so critical that a new invasion of Russia on the threshold of Winter is a diversion that cannot be gayly entered on.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Decision Open to Criticism.

It is a generally admitted rule of law that any man can decide for himself by what name he shall be known, and that if he does not like the one given to him by his parents he can change it to suit his own taste. The second privilege, however, is limited by the condition that the change of name shall not be for an evil or deceptive purpose, and in deciding what purposes would be of either nature the court before which the man who wants to change his name usually finds it expedient to go is permitted to exercise a large discretion. Because of this the decisions rendered vary widely, some Judges accepting as adequate reasons that others condemn.

And just because the exercise of the judicial power to grant or to refuse to recognize and record a change of name is thus discretionary, and not a matter of law, the action taken is more open to criticism than are ordinary decisions of courts, and they are open to criticism of another sort. Hence is it not improper to express astonishment at, and even to disagree with, Justice WHITAKER of the Supreme Court, who has just refused to give his assent to the desire of one WILLIAM BLOCH hereafter to be known as William Blake. The would-be Blake said that "Bloch," being German, was in these days a source of annoyance, inconvenience, and business loss to him. That this was true the Justice did not deny; instead, he held that it ought not to be true—that to admit there was anything wrong about a German name was to impugn the standing of many good and loyal American citizens, both native and foreign-born. Therefore he would not sanction the change.

In so deciding, the Justice was well within his rights, and his argument is not without force, as anybody must see who reads the roster at any of our training camps or the listed names of the men who died when the Antilles was torpedoed. Still, the fact remains that a German name, here and now, does have its disadvantages, and there is no obvious reason why a man who wants to escape those disadvantages for himself and his children should not be allowed to do so to whatever extent the adoption of a name of another origin makes possible. The reflection on those who retain their Teutonic patronymics is too small to measure.

It Ought to be the Last.

Now that fairly full details of what happened to the Zeppelins taking part in the latest raid on London are available, there can be no doubt that the expedition was a most disastrous one from the German point of view, and there is more than excuse for agreeing with the Swiss paper that says that even German faith in airships of this sort cannot survive a blow so severe.

If the Zeppelins in previous forays had ever accomplished anything of definite military value—if, besides keeping a few aviators and guns at home in England and away from the western front, they had done more than increase the world's anger at and detestation of Germany—then even a calamity of this magnitude could have been endured with stoicism by a brave and determined people such as the Germans unquestionably are. But the debit balance against the big dirigibles is so large that any increase of it could not be confronted with composure by anybody with common sense.

And that further additions to that balance are inevitable if more Zeppelins are built and sent out is made so nearly certain by recent experiences that the day of machines at once so huge, so clumsy, and so fragile ought to be over. If that is true, it is well for England and France, and even better, perhaps, for Germany.

DESTROYING U-BOAT BASES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE NEW YORK TIMES of Oct. 21 publishes a letter from Charles H. Grasty, dated London, Sept. 17, in which he quotes at length from "A Navy Man," and it states the opinion of this navy man to the effect that it is impossible to attack successfully the German U-boat bases.

The "Navy Man's" opinion is evidently very carefully rendered, and part of it is expressed in fifteen numbered paragraphs. The first two read as follows:

(1) In order to dig the rats out, or stop up the hole in the wasp's nest, the German bases of their fleet and submarines must be taken by attack from the sea.

(2) This can be done only by reducing by bombardment the fortification protecting the bases.

All the rest of the letter is of the same tenor. It has evidently been very carefully thought out, and for this reason the omission of one fact is very surprising. This fact is that there is such a thing as aeronautics.

The whole letter and the included statement of the "Navy Man" ignore absolutely the fact which Admiral Fiske has pointed out a great many times during the last year—the fact that mines and submarines and heavy fortifications, sufficient as they are to keep off naval craft, cannot keep off aircraft, and that it is now within the power of aeronautics to make aerial attacks on all the submarine bases, including Kiel and Wilhelmshaven.

It is only 375 miles from England to Kiel, and 400 miles from territory now possessed by the French to the same place. The distances to Wilhelmshaven are still less. These distances were prohibitive two years ago, especially to airplanes carrying heavy bombs or torpedoes, but they are not prohibitive now. The Germans are continually making raids from Belgium to London, a distance one-third as great; on Sept. 24 Captain Laureati flew direct from Turin to London, a distance of 656 miles, at an average speed of 89 miles per hour; and a squadron of Caproni machines lately made a continuous flight of 815 miles without stopping.

It is my opinion, and I think it is the opinion of most men familiar with aeronautics, that it is thoroughly possible for the United States to construct a large fleet of powerful airplanes, which can go to Europe next summer and do exactly what Mr. Grasty says the fleets can't do.

TO HELP INTERPRET NEW WAR TAXATION

ROPER SWAMPED WITH WORK

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The complications involved in the execution of the new war tax law have thrust many serious problems on the Internal Revenue Bureau, and tonight it was announced that an Excess Profits Advisory Board would be appointed to assist the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in construing and applying the excess profits provision of the act. The bureau has been engaged day and night since the passage of the act on Oct. 3 in digesting and analyzing the forms of taxation contained in the measure, and has announced rulings in the most obvious applications of the law. Only four rulings have been made.

It has been the purpose of Commissioner Roper to prepare what has been termed a primer of war taxes which would make clear to all persons, firms, and corporations liable to taxation the precise application of the law. This work, however, has proceeded slowly, and hardly a beginning has been made upon it. The new board is to aid the Commissioner's office in this work and assume the burden of construing and ruling on the great number of questions that must arise in collecting the taxes embraced in the new act. The appointment of the new board will be accompanied by other new steps in organization of the bureau in reference to the Tax act.

The personnel of the board will be announced in a few days, and the bureau announced tonight, will be composed of prominent men of high character and standing who have had wide experience in business, in economics, or in matters of taxation. In this manner, expert assistance, business training, and the taxpayers' point of view will be brought to the Treasury Department in an advisory way to serve both the Government and the taxpayer.

An Advisory Board of Legal Review also will be created, to be composed of prominent attorneys of large experience, to advise the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in the many problems of law connected with the administration of the war revenue act.

One of the most important tasks in connection with the administration of the new law is to acquaint the public with all the new taxes and how and when to pay them. This will make a campaign of education necessary. A division of work in the bureau under a Supervisor of Business Co-operation will be created for this purpose. This official will keep in close touch with the public and business, and diffuse information through all possible channels to the taxpayer. It is contemplated to organize for this purpose voluntary State and local committees. These State, city, town, and precinct committees will have no administrative function, but will provide a channel for conveying tax and revenue information to every community, and furnish helpful advice to the department regarding the application of the law.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue is communicating with associations in every line of business and industry in the country, inviting suggestions with regard to the interpretation, application, or administration of the excess profits provisions of the law. These suggestions will be carefully considered and analyzed by the Excess Profits Advisory Board.

Irving Berlin, H. J. Heintz, Morris Rose, Fred Hausmann, Samuel H. Harris, Burton Holmes, Ina Claire, and Mrs. P. W. Rouss were among those attending the "Diamond Jim" Brady sale at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon. Ina Claire bought an onyx ash receiver, a jar of yellow and red-brown onyx with flat lip, set with scarab carvings for $12.50; a carved ivory figure, a young lady admiring a flower, for $75, and paid $145 for three figures, Japanese girls in gold lacquer, the heads and hands of ivory.

To Mr. Harris went a number of personal objects, a watchstand in silver gilt and green enamel; a cigarette case in black onyx, silver mounted; a gold-filled pendant photograph case for two miniatures, and a glass pendant photograph case with birds laid on in natural feathers. These were knocked down to him for $102. To the same buyer went a marble and gilt ash receiver for $35; a silver gilt statuette of a man heavily studded with jewels, the body formed of a large mother of pearl shell and a pair of shell statuettes, grotesque figures of fishermen formed of sea shells, for, respectively, $75 and $70.

The Long Sang Ti Company paid the highest price of the day, $270, for a carved ivory in the form of a rabbit supporting a large crystal ball. Three beautiful little watches were bought by Mrs. H. S. Harkness for a total of $640. The first was in the form of a guitar, swinging from a chain, instrument and chain studded thickly with jewels. This was by Breguet, Paris, and was 4¾ inches long. It sold for $200 and so did a French enamel chatelaine watch: studded with seed pearls and with miniatures of amorini. For an antique French, open-face gold repeating watch, with three figures under glass which strike bells, by Breguet, Mrs. Harkness paid $240.

A black lacquer music box with an ornamental metal medallion in the top which rises to allow a bird of gay plumage to appear and sing a gay little song, went to R. M. Polock for $190. A silver-gilt rooster with enameled plumage, set with jewels, mounted on a pale amethyst base, went to A. Rudert, agent, for $125.

The total for the day was $11,615, making a grand total to date of $28,870. Ivory carvings, gilt bronze statuettes, miscellaneous cabinet ornaments, and art objects will be sold today.

Switzerland to Coin Bronze.

BERNE, Oct. 24.—The Swiss Federal Council has decided to issue 2,000,000 ten-centime pieces and 3,000,000 five-centime pieces in bronze owing to the shortage in nickel and copper. The coins will be withdrawn from circulation as soon as the present shortage of small money is relieved.

A RED CROSS PANOPLY.

Weaving a wish, as my needles clicked,
In the stitches, every one.

"Helmet," I whispered, "do your best
To keep the north winds out,
Fit snug and warm this soldier's head—
Put Winter's frost to rout!

Steady his fingers to aim and fire
For our country's cause!" I said.

"Chief of all is your part—
Cling close as the arms of her he loves,

And sweater, helmet, wristlets, and scarf,
(Or so it seemed to me,)

BASE AMERICAN FLOTILLA IN BRITISH WATERS, Oct. 8, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—All American destroyers and men are now prepared for the Winter. The issue of Winter clothing to the men has taken place, and the fast little ships have been thoroughly overhauled and have had several "gadgets" added to their equipment, such as gun shields for the men operating the guns, nonbreakable glass windows for the bridges, more crows' nests, and extra life rafts.

Thanks to the busy women at home who knit, many of the men have been provided with excellent sweaters, jerseys, and socks. Now, however, an entirely new issue of extra heavy garments, designed by the British from their long experience on torpedo boats in the terrible weather off this coast, has been made. Here are some of the things, which, when donned, will make the men look more like arctic explorers than bluejackets:

Helmets, made of wool and covering all but the eyes, nose and mouth; light coat sweaters, jerseys, and cardigan jackets, knitted mittens and gloves, extra heavy coarse underclothing, light-weight woolen socks and knee-length knitted stockings, besides heavy thick woolen socks for boots, leather sea boots, windproof khaki-colored trousers, great-coats lined with lamb's wool, and knitted mufflers.

Over this clothing officers and men will continue to wear their kapok life-jackets made in vest form. These vests, in addition to their lifesaving properties, are very warm. Pillows and mattresses on board their ships are made of the same material. The men also had oil-skins when they came over.

The men face the coming hardships cheerfully. All they ask is that the folks back home do not forget them while they are facing the perils of fighting the submarine under the vastly new conditions of Winter. Few of them have cruised in the gales that are peculiar to this coast where sleet squalls are hourly affairs.

As to whether the Winter aids or hinders the U-boats is a matter of divided opinion among those in the British service. It is said that a comparison of the figures will show that there is not a great deal of difference in shipping losses between the Summer and Winter seasons. The long Summer days which permit the U-boats to work long hours also help the destroyers in detecting them. The dark, stormy days of Winter which enable the submarine to approach its prey with less chance of detection may also help the prey to escape and aid the destroyer in getting closer to the U-boat.

But this Winter there are new factors in favor of the anti-submarine forces and against their prey. The most important is the addition of the American ships. Next is the all-around increase in effectiveness of the methods for dealing with the submarine problem. British and American experts here are confident that these measures will continue to show even more gratifying results in the Winter months ahead.

BOLO INQUIRY PROSECUTED.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Pierre Lenoir and William Desouches were arrested today charged with trading with the enemy, in consequence of the investigation made into the sources of the funds which were used for purchasing an interest in the Journal, in which Bolo Pacha acquired an interest. Inquiries by the Department of Justice indicated that foreign funds were employed in the alleged Lenoir-Desouches transaction.

In his investigation of the Bolo affair, Captain Bouchardon yesterday took the deposition of Henri Rochette, who is now in prison. Rochette's evidence had to do with the activities of Bolo before the war.

Captain Bouchardon questioned Rochette in regard to points raised by Baron Cuenin, who stated that Rochette and Bolo were associated in various ventures. Among these, he asserted, were unsuccessful efforts to create a bank in Venezuela and to collect funds to enable Cipriano Castro, then a refugee in Europe, to become dictator of Venezuela again. There was also a wild scheme for cornering the stocks of cocoa, in which Rochette was to supplant the principal chocolate manufacturers.

Henri Rochette was the centre of a swindling scandal in Paris in 1908, his speculations aggregating more than $20,000,000. He was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in 1910 and disappeared from France when out on bail in December, 1912. He spent several months in Mexico and returned to Paris early in 1914. In February, 1917, he was sentenced to two months in prison for violation of the French recruiting law.

WAR BOARD IN CANADA.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—To secure greater co-operation during the war, an association has been formed by the railways of Canada, at the suggestion of the Government, corresponding to the Railways War Board of the United States, it was announced here today. The purpose is both to bring about closer co-operation between the railroads and also between the railroads and the public.

The new board will be known as the Canadian Railway Association for National Defense and will formulate a policy of co-operation for all railways, for the co-ordinating of industrial activities toward the prosecution of the war, and for rendering the most efficient possible service to the national cause.

Lord Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific; Howard G. Kelley of the Grand Trunk, and Sir William Mackenzie of the Canadian Northern, and Alfred H. Smith of the New York Central, for the American railroads operating in Canada, have formed themselves an Executive Committee. This committee has appointed an Administrative Board with U. E. Gillen of the Grand Trunk as Chairman.

AMERICAN AID TO RUMANIA.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 24.—Colonel Henry W. Anderson, Chairman of the American Red Cross mission to Rumania, has decided to remain in Jassy through the Winter to aid the activities of the medical unit and to direct the relief work.

Some of the members of the mission have arrived in Petrograd on their way home. They include Dr. F. W. Peabody and Messrs. Glasgow, Flexner, Wells, Ledochowski, Bryan, and Conners. Messrs. Perkins, Mills, Ernest, and Topping remain in Jassy with Chairman Anderson. Mr. Williams has been sent to Archangel to supervise the forwarding of supplies.

Vice Chairman Glasgow, who will lay detailed plans for Rumanian relief before President Davison of the Red Cross, says that conditions among the civilian population are bad and that there is urgent need of food, clothing, and medicine. The Red Cross Hospital unit already has handled scores of cases.

AMUNDSEN REBUKES BERLIN

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Captain Roald Amundsen, the noted Norwegian explorer, went to the German Legation at Christiania on Tuesday, says Reuter's Christiania correspondent, and returned to the German Minister his German decorations as a "personal protest against the German murder of peaceful Norwegian sailors on Oct. 17 in the North Sea."

New Loan Planned in France.

FEAR HEALTH BOARD WAR ON CHEAP MILK

DILLON PREPARED TO ACT

He Declares That Authorities Can See That It Is Properly Handled in the Stores.

The men who have been interested in having milk sold direct from the producers to the consumers in this city were much interested yesterday in a report of a meeting of the Women's City Club, held on Tuesday in the Park Avenue Hotel, at which Dr. Haven Emerson, Commissioner of Health; Dr. Josephine Baker of the Bureau of Child Hygiene, and J. J. Larson of the New York Milk Committee, are said to have decried the selling of loose or dipped milk in this city. The experts of the Health Department have not looked with favor on the selling of loose milk, and Dr. Emerson said that it would be unfortunate if a large percentage of the city's milk supply were sold unbottled. Some of those interested regard this as evidence that the Health Department may attempt to restrict the sale of loose milk to the poor at a cheaper price than is now made by the big dealers.

At the meeting, which has attracted much attention, Dr. Baker is quoted as having said that an increase in diorrhaeal diseases is usually attributed to poor housing, the weather or poor food. In a recent case of increased infant mortality Dr. Baker is said to have said that investigation showed this to be in the outlying districts and not in the crowded sections of the East Side or in Brooklyn. This, she said, eliminated the poor housing. There have been no remarkable changes in temperature, and so the weather cause was eliminated, and as bad food is largely milk, she believed the cause was poor and insufficient quantity and inferior quality of milk.

A man interested in the milk situation took exception to Dr. Baker. He said that a Health Department investigation had shown that recently some mothers had been going to factories and restaurants and buying a grade of milk intended for cooking and not for drinking. This, he thought, might have been a contributing cause for infant mortality and should have been stated at the meeting.

While Commissioner Emerson has always held that mothers should buy for their children the best grade of milk obtainable, he has expressed himself in favor of the plan of bringing cheap milk to the city, and the officials of the Co-operative Producers' Marketing Association of the farmers' organization which recently purchased the Modern Dairy in this city, have said that he had not sought to interfere with their plan. Still the impression has gained ground that the department is not going to encourage loose milk selling. Later, the farmers say, they intend to sell bottled milk here.

"So far as I have heard there has been no complaint against milk in the last three years," said Commissioner Dillon, "and now all at once we hear of the danger of loose milk and the increase in infant mortality. All milk is properly under the supervision of the Board of Health, and it is up to the Board of Health to see that it is properly handled in the stores. While it is probable there will be carelessness, this is equally true of the big dealers as well as the small ones. Occasionally milk has been sent out in dirty bottles that have not been sterilized or washed. I have seen a roach in bottled milk and a whole sheet of lilac colored paper.

"I know of pasteurization plants used by the big dealers that were objected to in the neighborhood and I have known of milk to come into the city that was not pasteurized at all. I have evidence to show that it was a common practice to bring the oversupply of milk back to a central place and to dump it all together and to rinse out some of the bottles, refill them, and sell the composite as grade milk. I want to say that if any attempt is made to interfere with our plan of bringing milk into the city and selling it under the system that had been in use for years, I will use every influence to protect the farmers and protect the consumer in getting cheap milk.

"I do not hesitate to say that the regulations of the Health Department as to milk, meats, fruits, and other foods, have been such as to favor the big operators to the detriment of the shippers and to the expense of the consumers. Three years ago it used to be that the small dealers had a room under the supervision of the Health Department in which they bottled milk and sold it to their customers. That was abolished and the department made it a rule that milk should be bottled at the place where it was pasteurized. This threw it in the hands of the big dealers. I know the system of grading milk is a farce. In many places in the country three grades of milk are all poured into one pot and they come out several varieties. Just think, Grade A, Grade B, select, and branded milk all coming out of the same can."

MRS. J. B. EUSTIS WEDS A MARQUIS

CEREMONY IN CATHEDRAL

The wedding of Marquis de Polignac, son of the late Marquis Guy de Polignac of France and Mrs. Nina Floyd Crosby Eustis, widow of James B. Eustis, who died two years ago, a son of a former Ambassador to France, was solemnized at noon yesterday in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Mgr. Lavelle officiated, assisted by the Rev. Thomas B. Dunning. The chapel was decorated with Autumn leaves and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Eustis, in a costume of French blue velvet, topped by a hat to match, and carrying a prayer book, was escorted by Thomas Hitchcock to the altar.

Andrew Tardieu, head of the French High Commission, of which the bridegroom is a member, was the best man. The two ushers were Alphonse de Navarro and Clarence H. Mackay.

The bridegroom's witness was Lieutenant and the Marquis de Créqui Montfort de Courtivron, a member of the French Military Commission, who married the bridegroom's cousin, the Princess Agnes de Polignac.

During the ceremony Joseph Bonnet, French organist, who has been traveling in this country, played his composition, "Ave Maria," and Jacques Thibaud rendered a violin solo. There was no reception other than an informal one held in the chapel, and the Marquis and his bride left shortly afterward for Washington, D. C., where he has taken a house.

The Marquis is head of the junior branch of the family in France and is a Roman Catholic. His bride embraced the religion a short time ago. She has a son by her first husband, whom she married in 1904 in Colorado Springs.

The Marquis de Polignac, who fought at Verdun and afterward joined the aviation corps of the French Army, came to this country in the Spring of 1916 as the representative of the French Government at the Allied Bazaar, held in the Grand Central Palace. He returned to France last Spring, but came back later with M. Tardieu. He is one of the best known sportsmen of his native country, and founded at Rheims in 1912 Le College d'Athletes, it being the first large educational institution in France to specialize in only sports.

His first visit to this country was some thirteen years ago. The source of much of the de Polignac fortune is their champagne works at Rheims.

Misses Mulhall, Tilford, and Dunning Wedded to Men in Service.

Barred Socialist Magazine Promises Not to Oppose War Activities.

Max Eastman, editor of the Socialist magazine, The Masses, recently barred from the mails, has applied to the Postmaster General for the restoration of second class privileges, adding that the editors will be "perfectly willing to abide by the regulations recently laid down by Postmaster General Burleson in a letter to President Wilson." A new issue of the magazine is sent with the application, and a statement given out by Mr. Eastman says publication will be continued until the courts decide whether exclusion from the mails bars distributing agencies from handling it.

Eastman's letter to the Postmaster General promises that he will refrain from publishing any matter detrimental to the interests of the United States in its prosecution of the war, but says the magazine will reserve the right of criticism as far as it does not give aid to the enemy, and that it will discuss the demand for peace with freedom of seas, peoples and markets, world union, and disarmament.

CARROLL BECKWITH, NOTED PAINTER, DIES

COLLAPSES IN HOTEL LOBBY

He Had Won Awards in Paris Salon and at Exposition Universelle.

James Carroll Beckwith, the American portrait painter, died suddenly early last night in his apartment at the Hotel Schuyler, 59 West Forty-fifth Street, of heart disease, in his sixty-sixth year. About 3 o'clock he complained of feeling ill and went for a taxicab drive through Central Park with Mrs. Beckwith and on his return to the hotel at 5 o'clock he collapsed in the lobby and died shortly afterward. One of his best known portraits is that of Theodore Roosevelt.

J. Carroll Beckwith was born in Hannibal, Mo., Sept. 23, 1852. He studied painting in Chicago, where his father was a merchant; then in Paris from 1873 to 1878 under Carolus Duran and Yvon, and, in the studio of Carolus Duran was a fellow student of John S. Sargent with whom he later lived in Italy. Samuel Isham, in his "History of American Painting," speaks of Beckwith as having kept the quality of the handling taught by Carolus Duran better than any other pupil of that master, enabling him to say "easily and rather sumptuously, with heavy impasto, rich shadows and broad, strong handling."

Most of his work was in portraiture and genre, and his studies of historic monuments such as the fountains and statues at Versailles show his firm technical control and his accuracy of draftsmanship. He was one of the group of men chosen to decorate the Manufactures and Liberal Arts Building at the Columbian Exposition. He received awards at the Paris Salon and at the Exposition Universelle in 1889 and 1900, and was a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

Mr. Beckwith was particularly happy in his paintings of historic monuments, such as the fountains and old buildings at Versailles. He reconstructed their original importance and richness in pre-sensing them, and managed to convey the sense of their ancient splendors without sacrificing their actual aspect of semi-dilapidation. In the case of the simple structures of the Little Trianon and its attendant playhouses he permitted them their true simplicity and refreshingly ignored the picturesqueness of their present estate. He was sensitive to the spirit of the past, and in his copies of portraits by Largilliere and Nattier he often suggested a higher life than is found in the original paintings.

The purpose of this insurance is to safeguard our country from invasion by a rapacious and merciless enemy, mad with the lust of conquest and destruction.

You are asked to loan the Government every dollar you can spare to help secure this insurance.

Protect Your Home, Your Family, Your Freedom, and Your Life.

You should be willing and eager to do this because the country's insurance is your insurance—it protects your home, your family, your freedom, and your life.

The Government must have at least $3,000,000,000 before October 27th. This is an enormous sum of money. The time is short. The need is great. Do your share quickly. Buy all the Liberty Bonds you possibly can.

These bonds are the safest investment in the world. They pay 4% interest.

The Loan Closes Next Saturday, Oct. 27

Where to Buy Bonds

Don't forget that you can buy a U. S. Government 4% Liberty Bond at the Sub-Treasury, any bank, trust company, bond house or department store. Don't be afraid to go into any bank and ASK. They will tell you about several easy payment plans.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The highly irregular course of stock prices yesterday reflected some of the handicaps under which business was conducted resultant from the storm. Wire connections with distant cities were broken in numerous cases, and the market was deprived of much of the participation from outside sources which has been reported of late as a material factor in daily dealings. Beside this, the minds of brokers, bankers and bond dealers were centred on the special effort to be made in distributing the Liberty Loan in response to President Wilson's proclamation, and stocks suffered from lack of attention in the two hours while business was carried on.

Starting fairly firm, quotations developed considerable weakness under the leadership of Union Pacific and later turned about for a fair recovery near the close. Selling pressure in the railroad issues was more noticeable than among the industrials, for in addition to the gross decline of 2¾ points in Union Pacific losses of more than a point were recorded by Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Chesapeake & Ohio, Reading and Southern Pacific. Presumably the official returns to the Interstate Commerce Commission which showed that the country's carriers had suffered a decrease in net earnings of $8,000,000 in August, while gross income showed an expansion of $36,000,000 over the same month last year had a part in forming bearish sentiment toward the railroad shares.

The Street realized, however, that in this bad exhibit lay a crumb of comfort. With the application for increased railroad tariffs to be renewed in a few days the tale of continued depression of profits supplies material for an effective appeal by the carriers. This is looking ahead. As a temporary influence, the August earnings report was of value yesterday to the bears, and, at the same time, possibly, holders of stocks bought at higher levels were moved to let go at a sacrifice. In the last quarter hour of trading the whole list displayed considerable resiliency, with the railroads leading, although their improved tone was not enough to offset the earlier recessions.

In the cotton market active bidding carried spot quotations to 20.90 cents a pound and the prices for future contracts denoted further progress forward. The foreign exchange market was marked by another decline in rubles, with business in exchange sluggish as a whole.

LONDON MARKET IS QUIET.

British Section Is Strong, but Foreigners Are Irregular.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Money and discount rates quiet. Revenue returns shows that $63,000,000 in Treasury notes were sold last week, while $53,000,000 matured.

The stock market was quiet, with Britishers showing firmness, but the foreign section showed some irregularity and Scandinavian issues reacted. Mexican and Brazilian shares hardened. Rubber and shipping shares continue their activity while oil stocks declined on profit-taking.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 62 francs 25 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 18 centimes. Five per cent. loan 88 francs 65 centimes.

STEEL TRADE STAYS QUIET.

While sales of pig iron have expanded this week to a point which taxes the facilities of some furnaces, reports in the steel trade indicate that steel makers and buyers are moving slowly. No additional steel prices have been named, and it is expected that the process of price adjustments will ultimately be carried through by agreements among producers and consumers, without direct Government rulings.

"The War Industries Board has had as a primary object the securing of maximum production of ships and shells," says The Iron Age, "and the magnitude of the task and the size of the organization it is building may well militate against too rapidly instituting sweeping edicts over materials of less importance for the work of the war. How thoroughly it will be possible without authoritative announcement or the exactions of priority orders to secure immediately the 'one price for all' policy is an unanswered question.

"On top of this is the canvassing now going on among consumers by the Federal Trade Commission to ascertain opinions as to abrogation of contracts. Concerns is shown among students of trade over the apparent effort to secure a contract nullification or adjustment feature in the proposed Pomerene price-fixing bill, with all that it might mean in unstabilizing business remote from basic material production.

"When all is summed up, the general consumer is still in the dark. With the increasing drafts of labor, the minimum immigration, the overloaded transportation and terminal facilities, the fuel scarcity, not to mention the checks likely in Winter, production of iron and steel for this year, even considering increased capacity of plants can hardly exceed that of last year. One authoritative estimate is that next year's total output will not be over 85 per cent. of last year's."

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Announcement was made at Hornell today that the New York & Pennsylvania Railroad would suspend all operations on Dec. 1. The line is sixty miles long, running from Canisteo, N. Y., to Ceres, Penn., and serves a number of thriving villages which now will have no railroad communication. The road has been operating at a loss for the last two years and in recent months has been especially handicapped by lack of men and coal.

Do You Want the German Army Here?

If you want to help keep the war on the other side and end it there by the overthrow of Prussianism; if you would protect your wife and daughters from the fate that befell the women of Lille; if you want to render it impossible for the Huns who slew Edith Cavell ever to set foot in America, BACK UP OUR ARMY AND NAVY to the limit!

You may not realize it now, but it is a fact that will surely be brought home to you that supporting our Government to the uttermost of our individual and collective ability is our only insurance against the loss of all that we possess as a nation and as individuals.

Literally, our all is at stake in this war for the successful prosecution of which hundreds of thousands of our finest young men are offering their lives on the altar of patriotism.

You may not be able to plan, invent or fight, but you can help finance this righteous war by subscribing to the second Liberty Loan.

You will want to help by subscribing to this patriotic investment, and the banks of New York City want to help you by taking care of all the details of your subscription to a Liberty Bond, without cost to you.

Bonds are better than Bondage.

WHERE TO BUY BONDS

Don't forget that you can buy a U. S. Government 4% Liberty Bond at the United States Sub-Treasury, any bank, trust company, bond house or department store. Don't be afraid to go into any bank and ASK. They will tell you about several easy payment plans.

NEW HAVEN VOTES ADDITIONAL STOCK

MANAGEMENT IN CONTROL

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 24.—A real, representative, regular stockholders' meeting came to an end shortly after 6 o'clock tonight, when the management of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, after six hours' heckling by disgruntled shareholders, put the steam roller gently in motion by casting a block of 1,169,277 shares of stock represented by proxies in favor of all of the resolutions advocated by the management, resolutions objected to by most of the shareholders in attendance. Proxies for all but about 400,000 shares had been lodged with the management, but they were not used to shut off debate until it came time for the Directors to return to New York.

The meeting ended, as had been planned, in the re-election of the old board of fifteen Directors and the approval of the proposed creation and issuance of $45,000,000 of new 7 per cent. preferred stock, with the proceeds of which, if sold, it is proposed to retire a like amount of one-year 6 per cent. notes maturing May 1, next. A resolution sponsored by Nathan L. Amster, who made his debut in New Haven affairs with this meeting, calling for the appointment of a new committee of seven to apply the pulmotor to New Haven's credit, disappeared when the steam roller got under way.

A heavy rain storm failed to keep the regulars away from the public hall hired for the heckling. Before noon most of the several hundred seats were occupied and stragglers backed up against the friendly radiators to exchange reminiscences of the days when New Haven stock, quoted yesterday at 28, sold at $200 a share.

E. J. Pearson, President of the New Haven, looked far from cheerful as he saw the old time baiters file in. Harry Leigh set off the first rocket when he asked that President Hadley of Yale open the meeting with prayer. The chair ruled that an appeal to divine guidance would be out of order.

Mr. Pearson told how well the road had been doing in the face of great difficulties. Christopher Nixon, representing S. S. Myers, opened with a broadside against the management for its failure to supply more information. He charged that the assets, as carried in the balance sheet, were grossly overrated. Mr. Buckland replied that a true valuation would raise the total much more than it would reduce certain items.

At 1:45 a motion to recess for lunch was jammed through after John Muir and A. Maxcy Hillers, as tellers, had reported a tie vote. The chair broke the tie by deciding in favor of lunch. Most of the stockholders produced sandwiches and stayed by the ship, and the meeting was soon resumed.

Mr. Amster seized the floor at the afternoon meeting to speak in favor of his plan for an advisory committee of seven, three to be appointed by the Governors of Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts; two by the Directors, and two by the shareholders, to work out measures of relief. He served notice that if such a committee were not created he would enter the field for proxies to defeat the management at the next annual meeting.

Clarence H. Venner spoke against the Amster plan, which, he said, would be an insult to the Interstate Commerce Commission and several Governors.

The special meeting to authorize the new stock issue followed without intermission. It was featured mainly by a fervid appeal from Alfred Berresen, who saw in the plan an attempt to take the property from the stockholders in order to turn it over to bankers.

Howard Elliott, ex-Chairman of the Board, took the platform to render an account of his stewardship. He described the improvement in the company's affairs in four years, and pleaded for continued faith in the management. He earnestly objected to the Amster resolution.

After Mr. Amster and others had argued that a receivership might not prove an unmixed evil, a row threatened to break up the meeting when the Chairman tried to shut off Mr. Berresen. In the midst of cries for a vote the proxies were cast for the management's resolutions and the meeting was declared adjourned. With the aid of ballots of some of those present the new issue was authorized by a vote of 1,202,832 for and 16,565 against.

WANTS TO CUT THE BUDGET.

E. P. Doyle Suggests Changes He Says Will Save $9,405,649 to City.

Edward F. Doyle, Chairman of the Budget Committee of the Real Estate Board of New York, appeared before the Board of Estimate, sitting as the Main Budget Committee, in the City Hall yesterday and declared that $9,405,649 could be saved in the budget for 1918 by the abolition and curtailment of several city departments and bureaus, at least during the period of the war. The first city bureau which Mr. Doyle thought should be eliminated is the Board of Inebriety, which costs the city $44,405 to maintain, he said. He also suggested the abolishment of the Tenement House Department, with its maintenance cost of $600,000 a year, and of the Board of City Record, at $500,000 a year. He said the work of the Fire Prevention Bureau could be curtailed with a saving of $200,000.

Regarding "libraries and recreations," Mr. Doyle thought that another $1,000,000 could be saved. Comparing the cost of maintenance of the Law Department next year with 1914, Mr. Doyle thought that $500,000 could be cut from the department's estimate.

"We should conserve all expenditures in the conduct of the City Government at least for the period of hte war," Mr. Doyle said because it will cost the State of New York approximately $100,000,000 for the maintenance of the State Militia and other expenditures incidental to the war. That means that the city will have to pay 70 per cent of this sum.

City Exhibit Placed on View Here.

The $96,000 city exhibit which was shown at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco was formally put on display last night in the College of the City of New York. Commissioner of Correction Burdette G. Lewis delivered an address at the ceremonies connected with the opening of the exhibit. The display will remain in the City College for some time and will eventually be sent to the City Museum in the old building of the college at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-third Street. The exhibit consists of charts, models, and pictures of the work of the various city departments. It received a number of medals and diplomas at the exposition.

COTTON SOARS AGAIN

New High Records for the Season Made in All Months Except March.

Although the local cotton market put up the shutters at noon yesterday to help out the Liberty Loan, the short session proved amply long for the remaining short interest, who were forced to pay as high as 29.50 cents a pound for October cotton, and 28 cents for December contracts. The entire list moved forward on renewed buying and continued unfavorable spot news from the South, and new high records for the season were made at the top in all months up to March. October closed at 29 cents flat, 10 points off Tuesday's closing, but the general closing was barely steady from unchanged to 30 points higher. The local quotation for spot cotton was 29.90, within 10 points of the 30-cent level, but there were no sales at this figure. Today is the last day for trading in October contracts.

The news feature was the weather in the Eastern Belt. Owing to the coast storm, wire service with the South was delayed, and weather reports were slow in coming in. Those received, however, were sufficient to show that the cold wave had reached the Eastern Belt with very low temperatures at several points this morning. According to private advices the temperature had dropped to 28 degrees at Atlanta, the lowest on record for October in that section. These advices prepared the trade to see very unfavorable conditions noted in the detailed reports when they became available, and buying was also stimulated by the bullish character of Southern spot advices.

The market opened unchanged to 9 points lower under overnight selling orders. There was buying by Liverpool and trade interests which quickly absorbed these offerings, and the demand became more active and general as prices worked higher. This included buying by brokers with Wall Street connections who were supposed to be covering cotton recently sold for a reaction. After selling 20 to 40 points net higher on the general list, prices reacted moderately under realizing. A few private wires were received from the Southwest reporting a good spot demand at a very high basis, and one of the features on the advance here was the continued absence of Southern selling. This may have been partly due to poor wire service. The outlook was for fair and warmer weather in the Southwest, but the appearance of another high barometer on the North Pacific Coast similar to those which had preceded recent cold waves, attracted some attention. Both the New York and New Orleans markets closed at noon, and the Census report on ginning to Oct. 18 will be issued at the opening this morning.

The local market for spot cotton was steady and 40 points higher at 29.90c for middling upland. Sales nil.

Southern spot markets were as follows: Galveston, 27.75c; New Orleans, 27.75c; Savannah, 29¾c; Houston, 27.70c.

Liverpool Cables: Spot cotton quiet and 10 points higher for good middling at 21.10d and unchanged for middling at 20.52d. Sales, 3,000; American, 2,000. Imports, 55,000; American, 35,000. Futures closed barely steady at a net advance of 4 to 8 points on new contracts and 20 higher on old.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat trade apparently believes that the problem of distributing wheat in the East has been solved by the arrangements made to import a large amount of Canadian wheat for milling purposes in the East. Some think that this may prove an object lesson to any American farmers who have been disposed to hold their crop and, moreover, it is an established fact that a considerable quantity of Australian wheat is being imported on the Pacific Coast. Receipts at Western points have increased about 200,000 bushels this week and the larger flour output as indicated by Western authorities shows that the production of flour is far in excess of a year ago.

CORN.

The Chicago Board of Trade has adopted new restrictive regulations regarding trading in corn. Hereafter no new buying will be allowed in November and December contracts and purchases of these months will be limited to the closing out of old contracts. Selling, however, will not be restricted except that operations will not be allowed above the fixed maximum price of $1.23. Trading in positions from January to May inclusive will be allowed, but at the present time no operations will be permitted in the latter months. The first influence of this ruling was bullish, as it brought about quite active covering resulting in a net advance for the day of 1¾ to 1½c. The action of the Chicago board was in accordance with the wishes of the Food Administration and was another illustration of the Government's determination to eliminate speculative operations. In the local cash market prices were strong with No. 2 yellow quoted at $2.10½ and No. 2 mixed at $2.08½ cost, insurance, and freight New York.

OATS.

There was comparatively little individual feature to the oats market, although prices were firmer, in sympathy with corn, closing with net gains of ¼ to ⅝c. Receipts at primary points showed a moderate increase, but there was nothing to indicate any increased pressure from the country. The local cash market was steady. Standard quoted at 66¾ to 67c; No. 2 white, 67c; No. 3 white, 66 to 66½c; No. 4 white, 63½ to 66c; fancy clipped white, 67¾ to 68½c; ordinary clipped white, 66½ to 67½c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

A firmer tone developed in the market for hog products and prices experienced a fairly good rally, with shorts the principal buyers. Hogs were higher, although it was said that packers were showing some hesitation about following the advance. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 20,000, and estimated for Thursday, 30,000 head.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Trading operations in the cottonseed oil market were confined to October, December, and January. The demand, however, was a little more aggressive, with shorts inclined to even up contracts, and consequently prices were firmer. The October position was decidedly strong and prices were at the previous high record of 19.75. Total sales for the day were 8,700 bbls. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

There was no fresh feature in the coffee situation yesterday. With the local market closing at noon for the half holiday, and with the official cables reporting no change of consequence in Brazil, business was generally quiet. The tone, however, was steady on covering, chiefly in the late months, with May selling at 7.55c and September at 7.87c. The opening was unchanged to 3 points higher, and the close showed a net advance of 1 to 6 points. While the coffee market is being very closely watched by speculative and investment interests, prevailing conditions seem to discourage immediate business. The price is relatively very low, and the expectation of much higher values on any definite prospects for a reopening of the European outlet is more or less general. At the same time the cost of carrying coffee is kept in mind, while the size of the present crop suggests a great accumulation in Brazil should the war continue. The local spot market was quiet at 8c for Rio 7s and 9½c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

There has been little to report in the way of fresh developments in raw sugar. It was said that about 2,500 tons of Philippine centrifugals had recently been taken up by the commission at 6.90c, the spot price from San Francisco. Locally the market remained unchanged. Four refiners remain idle, while the two doing business were taking only a few orders from buyers in distress and bare of stocks. Spot quotations remain unchanged on basis of last sales as follows: Centrifugal, 6.90c; molasses, 6.02c; cost and freight, 5¾c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER—Receipts yesterday, 6,419 packages. Demand quite brisk again today. An advance of ⅛ to ¼ on nearly all grades of creamery. The finer qualities showing most improvement. The present supply was scarcely equal to the needs of the trade and buyers had to bid to a point that would loosen some of the stock that was carried down at the higher cost. More doing in storage creamery, the feeling is firm. Besides fresh and packing stock about ½c lower. Creamery, higher than extras, per lb., 45@46c; extras, (92 score,) 44@45c; firsts, (86 to 91 score,) 42@44c; seconds, (84 to 87 score,) 40@42c; thirds, 40@41c; dairy, unsalted, higher than extras, 46½@47c; extras, 45½@46c; firsts, 44@45c; seconds, 42½@43½c; creamery, held, higher scoring than extras, 44½@45c; extras, 44@44½c; firsts, 43@43½c; seconds, 41½@42½c; State, dairy, tubs, finest, 44c; good to prime, 41½@43½c; common to fair, 38@41c; renovated, extras, 42@43½c; firsts, 40½@41½c; lower grades, 38@40c; imitation creamery, firsts, 38½@40c; ladles, current make, firsts, 39@39½c; seconds, 37@37½c; lower grades, 36@36½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 37@37½c; No. 2, 35½c; lower grades, 35@35c.

EGGS.—Receipts, 13,004 cases. New laid qualities are becoming scarcer and any lots showing a good to large proportion of such are finding a fair demand from private consumers. Mixed and irregular qualities of fresh gathered are still in liberal accumulation and move slowly at a wide range of prices and with considerable irregularity. Dealers have more demand for storage eggs and the market is steadier, but without much change in the line of values. Nearby whites scarce and fancy qualities very firm; hardly enough such to supply the small needs of candidious buyers. Under grades irregular. Fresh gathered extras, per dozen, 45@46c; extra firsts, 43@44½c; firsts, 39@42c; seconds, 37@38c; thirds and poorer, 30@36c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 34½@35c; No. 2 and poorer, 30@34c; fresh gathered checks, good to choice, dry, 32@33c; under grades, 30@31c; refrigerator, especial marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, 35½@36c; firsts, storage and insurance paid, 34½@35c; seconds, storage and insurance paid, 33@34c; lower grades, 30@33c; refrigerator, nearby whites, 41@43c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western henmery whites, fine to fancy, 46@47c; ordinary to good, 50@56c; gathered whites, fine to fancy, 45@46c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby whites, pullets, 42@43c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 42@46c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby henmery browns, 50@57c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 42@46c.

LOAN TO GREECE DELAYED.

Inter-Allied Committee Will Decide on Need of American Help.

ATHENS, Sept. 20, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The proposed American loan to Greece is understood to be in abeyance, pending the organization of an inter-allied Advisory Committee on Finance.

This committee, it is understood here, will have headquarters at London or Paris, at which representatives of the Entente countries will confer. It will examine all questions of loans and advances to the various countries, and advise upon their relative importance and priority as a means of forwarding the war purposes of the allied nations.

Meantime France has guaranteed to Greece 50,000,000 francs, and England another 60,000,000 francs, in such a way that it is the basis for the issue of 100,000,000 francs of Greek currency. While this temporarily meets the needs of the Government, the American advance is still considered necessary in order to carry out the plans of the new régime and to make Greece effective as a military factor in the Entente calculations.

OFF FOR HAWAIIAN JUNKET.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Members of Congress who are assembling at St. Louis today for a journey to Hawaii will participate in a series of patriotic meetings in the West before sailing. The party will not only urge subscriptions to the Liberty Loan, but speeches will be delivered explaining America's war puposes, and the causes that led to the entrance of the United States into the European conflict.

Patriotic rallies will be staged at St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, and San Francisco. Mayor Ralph of San Francisco has telegraphed to the party that "the largest mass meeting ever held in SanFrancisco" is promised the night of Oct. 31. At Salt Lake City the Governor of Utah will preside at the patriotic meeting, and at Denver, St. Louis, and Kansas City the Chamber of Commerce of each city is co-operating with State officials.

POSTAGE UP NEXT WEEK.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Increased postage rates on letters and postal cards will go into effect on Nov. 2. The rate on letters, except drop letters, will be three cents for each ounce, instead of two cents as now. Drop letter postage will be two cents. Souveni rpostal cards will require a two-cent stamp. The present Government postal card bearing a one-cent stamp must have a one-cent stamp added.

According to an announcement of the Postmaster General today, all letters which do not bear the three-cent stamp will be returned to the writer for an additional cent in case the sender's name is known. If the sender's name is unknown the letter will be dispatched to its destination and the addressee must pay the deficient postage.

Three-cent stamps have been sent to nearly all the post offices in the country. But where these cannot be obtained the patron is advised to make sure that a first-class letter has three cents in stamps on it beginning with Nov. 2.

SEES MENACE IN TRACKS.

Nelson P. Lewis, chief engineer of the Bureau of Public Improvement, testified before the Public Service Commission yesterday that he considerer the street railways tracks in Central Park West a menace to public safety. The absence of a roadway for vehicles on the east side of the street, he said, was responsible for the congestion of traffic which made the street dangerous to persons on foot.

If the commission finds that the present location of the tracks constitute a menace the Board of Estimate may direct the New York Railways Company to relocate them. In previous hearings representatives of the company have denied that the present location of the tracks close to the east curb created a menace. Yesterday the company introduced as evidence statistics to show that the thoroughfare is no more dangerous than other similar streets, and that the number of accidents was no greater.

Chairman Straus of the commission announced that he and Commissioners Whitney and Harvey had made a personal survey of the street and that the consensus of opinion was that the condition might be greatly improved. At this time, however, the Commissioners refrained from indicating what its decision would be.

"I am not unfamiliar with the situation," Mr. Straus said, "because I am obliged to make use of Central Park West in reaching my office, and when on foot I invariably place myself under the protecting wing of a traffic policeman."

The hearing will be cointinued this morning.

SUPPORT DR. CONDON'S ALIBI

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 24.—Five persons were called to the witness stand today in the attempt to prove an alibi for Dr. William F. Condon, an officer in the United States Medical Reserve Corps, who is on trial for the murder of John V. Piper, a Rutgers College student who tended the furnace in the Condon home. Piper disappeared in February and his body was found five weeks later in a field near here, with evidences that some person had attempted to destroy the body with lime.

After Dr. Elliott Alexander had said evidences showed that a human body had been transported in the Condon automobile, Dr. John W. Gray, a surgeon from the Presbyterian Hospital in Newark, told of several experiments with the bodies of guinea pigs. He said that the body of Piper could not have remained for four months in the cellar of Condon's house without giving evidence of its presence. Joseph Barlow, a druggist of Highland Park; Francis Hayes, an inspector of water meters; Bertha Anderson, a washwoman; Policeman John A. O'Hara, and others testified that they had been in the Condon cellar several times in the months following the murder and had noticed no evidences that a body was concealed there. Mrs. Ethel Hurley and other patients of Dr. Condon testified they had seen Dr. Condon about the time it is alleged the murder was committed.

British Sailors Entertain Tonight.

Sailors from the British warships in the harbor will give an entertainment tonight at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club, which occupies Brander Matthews's old home at Ninety-third Street and West End Avenue. The string band of a British cruiser will play. All sailors and soldiers are invited. The club is under the direction of Mrs. Charles A. Childs, for the National Special Aid Society.

Some Really Novel Hosiery.

Some of the most novel silk hose for women that has been seen in this city for years, if not ever, was put on view for the first time yesterday in a show window of a Fifth Avenue shop. Notable among them were military cape effects, the capes being so attached to the stockings that the bottom of a skirt would just clear the top of the capes. The capes, of which several were shown, were trimmed with tiny brass buttons, and the collars of them were piped in contrasting colors. A feature of them was the peculiar stitching that produced the outstanding effect in the shoulders of the capes. The capes are shown in red, blue, orange, khaki, &c., and are fetched to stockings of contrasting colors. They are so arranged that they may be changed from one pair to another at will. They are the products of a well-known New England mill.

Drug Dealers Are Uncertain.

Drug and Chemical Markets will say today that the continued uncertainty of transportation facilities and the scarcity of many products has led to conservation on the part of both buyers and sellers. Price changes this week have principally affected refined coumarin, caffeine alkaloid, second hand, dragon's blood, oil of cloves, oil of wormwood, and quinine. Acetphenetidin, silver label gelatin, soluble saccharin, and storax declined. Dealers in narcotics are confronted with record prices and no relief in sight. The demand is much greater than the supply.

Some Credit Levels High.

Not long ago a local credit man called attention to the fact that some of the stores which cater to a wealthy clientele were being hampered in their efforts to do business by the backwardness of some of their larger customers in paying their accounts. It was said at the time that it was not a rare thing for some of these individual accounts to run as high as $20,000 to $25,000, according to another credit authority who has "been on the inside" for several years, accounts for such amounts look comparatively small. He told of an instance in which a certain store carried a well-known American on its books for $250,000 at one time, and also of another case, in which the account had to be given to an agent for collection, where the credit was $175,000.

Now Comes the Bustle Hat.

Another innovation in the millinery world is the revival of the "bustle hat," a modification of the old-style Watteau headgear of the period of 1865-1875. The new model comes flat to the head in front, has a low crown, and turns up very high in the back. Those shown here are made of velvet, combined with satin antique; also of velvet with metallic brocaded satin crowns. The trimmings consist of puffings of ribbons or velvet, coque feathers, ostrich or flowers. While it is shown as a Fall item, the indications are that the new hat will be featured in various wholesale lines for Spring.

Retailers Worried About Stocks.

While clothing manufacturers have become more or less reconciled to the modified styles for men's clothes prescribed by the Commercial Economy Board, it is said that many retailers are worried over the moving of merchandise they now have, either ordered, or on hand. Though fancy cuffs, plaits, belts, and other useless adornments are not to be taboo this season, it seems that discussion of the plans for abolishing them next year has militated against their sale this Fall. A number of retailers, to move stocks more readily, are taking off some of these features before they show the garments at all, while others show them as they have been made up, but express the willingness to take off the removable adornments if the purchaser so desires. However, all these features are not removable, and what the outcome will be can only be guessed.

Chiffon Velvet Waist Arrives.

One of the distinctly new features of the Fall season in waists is said to be the growing popularity of chiffon velvet as a waist fabric. It is used in various ways in different waists. The most popular treatment of this new fabric in this respect is said to be found in waists where it is used for the body of the garment with sleeves of georgette in contrasting colors. There are other popular models in which georgette or crepe de chine is used for the body of the waist covered with large panels of chiffon velvet. In this latter treatment, the sleeves are frequently of chiffon velvet.

Tea Frocks Gain Favor.

Though some dressmakers in the local trade report a continuing normal demand for strictly formal evening gowns, there are many others who say they are experiencing a decided shift to the more intimate "house gown," or tea frock. Many of these "house gowns," however, are handsome and costly as the more conventional evening gowns, though a little less formal. Net and chiffon are the materials most used, it is said. There are some fur and bead trimmed frocks of this type, though as far most are untrimmed, the color effects being relied on for decoration. Long flowing lines, elbow length sleeves and various modifications of the décolleté are said to be most popular.

Silks at Retail Moving Well.

Silks of all grades at the present prices are reported to be in good demand by a number of the local department stores. Taffetas and satins, it is said, are the most popular weaves. Business in these fabrics is reported to be heavier than usual at this time of the year, and there is every indication that it will continue so through the holiday season. Checks, plaids and stripes, mostly in bright colors, are reported as the favored colors. In solids, the more subdued shades are said to be in the lead.

Gray Goods Sales Were Small.

The second Liberty Loan occupied first place in the minds of the cotton goods trade here yesterday, with the result that the amount of business done in gray goods was small. The continued strength of cotton, the firmness with which goods are held by sellers, and the fact that buyers appear to be pretty well caught up with their immediate needs were other factors in the limited amount of cloths disposed of. Some business was reported on heavy drills, but other coarse-yarn fabrics received little attendion from all accounts. About the only print cloth business of consequence concerned 39½-inch 68-72s, which sold for nearby delivery at 12¼ cents. Prices closed this way:

TIMES SQ. MAY BE TORN UP ALL WINTER

NO ASPHALT TILL SPRING

Service Board Prohibits Refilling in Freezing Weather—Strike Causes Delay.

Inquiry by property owners along Broadway and Seventh Avenue in the Times Square region yesterday brought statements from both the Public Service Commission and the contractor for new subway work that these thoroughfares were likely to remain in their present condition for some time, though every effort is promised to make them comfortably passable before the Christmas shopping season. It developed that permanent asphalt roadways, where reconstruction has not been begun, cannot be hoped for until next Spring, because the commission does not allow contractors to make subsurface restoration in freezing weather.

It was learned that the immediate cause of delay in relieving conditions about Times Square was a strike of concrete form builders, who have been out for several days. George Hallett Black, engineer in charge of the work for the United Realty and Improvement Company, when asked what the prospects were for hastening the work if the labor troubles should be settled immediately, said:

"Work on the east side of the Broadway block between Fortieth and Forty-first Streets, which we have open, is halted by this strike. The substructure there is finished and we are putting back the paving. Under favorable conditions we should finish that block by the middle of November.

"The work in the block between Forty-first and Forty-second Street should proceed more rapidly now, as the Public Service Commission has given us permission to open that block before the one just below is finished. Heretofore they have not allowed us to open more than one block at a time. I expect to have the understructure there finished in two weeks, and I shall follow up with the surface work as rapidly as possible. I hope to finish it by the first of next year."

"Is there any hope of getting those two blocks into shape for the Christmas shopping crowds?" Mr. Clark was asked.

"Well, I expect to be ready by the first of the year," he repeated, "but I am trying hard to do it sooner and hope that I may succeed. That part of our contract south of Fortieth Street is finished, except for the permanent paving, which cannot be done until Spring. From Forty-third to Forty-fourth Street the paving has been restored nearly the whole length of the block. Within a month we shall have the steel structure completed from the south side of Forty-third Street so we can finish the restoration. From Forty-fourth Street north to Forty-fifth there will be no street opening before Spring. Between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth Streets the restoration on the east side will be completed at once. Between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh it has been done on the west side, and we expect soon to start refilling on the east side.

"Between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth Streets we will do nothing this Winter. In the next block north the restoration is nearly completed."

About the permission Mr. Clark said he had received to open the block between Forty-first and Forty-second Streets, Travis H. Whitney, who is supervising the work about Times Square, said:

"Broadway is in pretty bad condition. Mr. Clark has succeeded in making himself at once the engineer of the contractors and the adviser of the property owners. I thought the property owners were satisfied to have the streets torn up, for he has convinced them their station ought to be changed, and that means more delay.

"As an example of the way the engineer of the contractor avails himself of property owners and others, the Broadway situation, south of Forty-second Street, is very much in point. The commission on Oct. 9 received a letter from Mr. Estes, Secretary of the Broadway Association, saying he had conferred with the contractor, and asking that the contractor be allowed to open the two blocks from Fortieth to Forty-second Street.

"The Chief Engineer told the Commission that the contractor's expectations as to the work might not materialize, in which circumstances he could very properly say that he had worked under the Commission's order, thereby escaping responsibility. Accordingly, Mr. Estes was informed that no application had been received from the contractor to open these two blocks and that the Commission would take no action until he did make such application. So far, the contractor has been wise enough not to make such an application. Accordingly, the only request on file is from Mr. Estes."

Reverting to the immediate improvement of the Forty-second Street Station of the B. R. T. subway, with leng mezzanine platforms, Mr. Whitney said:

"Personally, I am convinced that the only safe course is to insist that the contractor complete his work in exact accordance with the plans upon which he bid, and that if improvements are necessary they be made under prepared plans upon which all contractors may bid, with the possible result that the work will be done cheaper than if it is now given to the present contractor as an 'extra.'"

Mr. Estes again took issue with Mr. Whitney, declaring such procedure would mean opening up all the work after it had been finished, with consequent great increase in cost, much delay, and new street blockades. He insisted that the saving due to waiting until war prices had abated, as Mr. Whitney proposed, would not compensate for the cost of doing the work anew.

The estate of Miss Ann Caroline Flagler, a sister of the late Henry M. Flagler, was appraised yesterday at $1,844,057. She gave $1,000 to her maid, Mary Garden, and the rest to her nephew, Harry Harkness Flagler. FOUR TO GET BULK OF FLAGLER FORTUNE

Brother and Two Sisters of Mrs. Bingham Receive Residuary of $70,000,000 Estate.

WILL FILED IN THIS CITY

Public Bequests Include $75,000 a Year to University of North Carolina—$5,000,000 for Husband.

The will of Mrs. Lily Flagler Bingham, widow of Henry M. Flagler and at the time of her death on July 27 at Jefferson City, Ky., the wife of Robert W. Bingham of Louisville, was filed in the Surrogate's Office here yesterday. It disclosed many bequests not made known at the time the will was offered for probate at Palm Beach, Fla., and at Louisville.

Under the will Mrs. Bingham's niece, Mrs. Louise Wise Lewis, who was said to be the chief legatee under the will disposing of about $70,000,000, receives only an income of $200,000 a year until she is 40 years old, and then gets $5,000,000 outright. She also receives all of Mrs. Bingham's realty except that disposed of in trust provisions under the will of Henry M. Flagler, but her share is far exceeded by that left to Mrs. Bingham's brother, William R. Kenan, and sisters, Mrs. Jessie Kenan Wise and Sarah Graham Kenan, who get the residuary estate, including Mrs. Bingham's Standard Oil stocks.

The Louisville Trust Company is seeking ancillary letters of administration here which will permit it to take possession of property in this State declared to be worth $1,500,000. The Fidelity and Columbia Trust Company did not join in the application, and citations were issued to that company. That Mrs. Bingham owned Standard Oil stocks worth $16,094,350 at current quotations is shown by the list of holdings appended to the will.

The will also shows that a bequest made by Mrs. Bingham to the University of North Carolina is not $75,000, but $75,000 a year, to establish professorships. Other public bequests are $10,000 each to the Flagler Hospital, St. Augustine, Fla., and the Memorial Presbyterian Church at St. Augustine, and $10,000 to the Presbyterian Church at Miami, Fla. Mrs. Bingham left to her "pastor and friend," Rev. Dr. George Morgan Ward, $25,000, and an equal amount to William H. Beardsley of New York, President of the Florida East Coast Railway.

The managers of the hotels left to Mrs. Bingham by her husband, including the Ponce de Leon, Alcazar, Ormond Beach, Royal Poinciana, in Florida, and the Colonial Hotel at Nassau, Bahamas, each receives $10,000.

Mrs. Bingham made her will Sept. 23, 1916, before her marriage to Robert W. Bingham, so she attached to the will a document dated Dec. 8 last, stating that she was about to marry Robert Worth Bingham, and had been informed that because of that fact it was necessary for her to redeclare her intentions. She made the codicil leaving $5,000,000 to Mr. Bingham on June 19 last, five weeks before her death.

BUY that Liberty Bond! Freedom shrieked as Belgium fell, and sobbed as France bled. Already, it is smiling behind the curtain of its tears. America is the Beacon of Civilization, foully defiled by the Hordes of Gehenna.

Buy that Liberty Bond! Do your bit now, or do your bitter regretting by-and-by. The only language understood by the Hun is the roar of a gun. Buy that Liberty Bond!

She mixed everything so carefully, just as the cook book said, and yet they were such horrid cakes!

Then she learned how other women do it. She just added water to Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour. Such fluffy, delicious cakes—he said he could eat two dozen!
